Memo To The Media

This book has been prepared for members of the working media who will cover the Pitt football team during the 1993 season, as well as Pitt fans, friends and alumni. Additions to the contents of this book; changes in personnel, plans and policy; and supplemental information will be provided prior to and during the football season by the sports information department. If you desire additional information, please contact: Sports Information Department, University of Pittsburgh, P.O. Box 7436, Pittsburgh, PA 15213. Phone: (412) 648-8240.

The office is located on the third floor of Pitt Stadium, via the Gate 2 entrance.

Media Coverage Policy

Practice Coverage: Media representatives are welcome to cover Pitt football practice, but they should notify Ron Wahl or Larry Eldridge of the Pitt Sports Information Office in advance for proper clearance. For interviews, please allow at least 24 hours for requests.

Head Coach John Majors will be available for brief pre-arranged interviews prior to the start of practice, or for more lengthy interviews after practice sessions. Please notify the Pitt sports information office with any requests at least a day in advance.

Player interviews are not allowed during practice or while players are going to the practice field. Player interviews after practice must be pre-arranged through the Pitt sports information office. Player interviews after practice will be conducted after the requested player showers. A day's notice is requested in order to ensure the player receives the interview notice. The deadline for player interviews during game weeks is noon Thursday. Lengthy player feature interviews can be arranged through the sports information office with proper notice and set up at the sports information office.

Assistant coaches will also be available after practice sessions.

Camermen and photographers may shoot only from the sidelines at practice. Please refrain from edging onto the playing field in the interest of getting a better angle. To do so may result in injury to players and/or photographer.

Dialogue between players and coaches at practice is considered confidential. Please use discretion in reporting practice in such areas as plays, formations, and injuries. Television cameramen may not shoot formations. If there is any question in your mind about what may be reported, please ask Coach Majors.

Media representatives are asked to refrain from trying to reach players late at night. Normally, there is ample time during the day to interview them. Player telephone numbers will not be released by the Pitt Sports Information Office.

Postgame Interviews: The postgame press conference for Pitt home games will be held in the Stewart Auditorium, located inside Gate 5 of Pitt Stadium. Coach Majors and, generally, the visiting head coach will attend the press conference. A few select Pitt players will also be available for interviews. Requests for players not appearing at the postgame press conference will also be accepted. Pitt's locker room is closed to the media and public.

Telephones: The Pitt Sports Information Office supplies an adequate number of telephones in the press box available for general use by visiting writers. Credential requests should indicate interest in the use of these phones. Personal phone lines at assigned seats can be ordered at individual seats by contacting Marilyn Fleischman at Bell of Pennsylvania at (412) 633-6907. The telephone number in the press box is (412) 648-9172.

In-Season Media Opportunities

Pitt Football Press Luncheons: Coach Majors will conduct his weekly press luncheon on Mondays, beginning at noon. Selected players and assistant coaches will also be available at the luncheon for interview and photo opportunities.

Big East Football Teleconference: Coach Majors will be available for interviews via a Big East Football Conference teleconference every Monday from 11:20 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. The number to access the teleconference has not yet been announced.

Pitt Radio Network

Pitt football games, home and away, will once again be broadcast over a network across Pennsylvania with 1250 WTAE-AM operating as the network's flagship station.

For the 21st straight year, Bill Hillgrove will be the "Voice of the Panthers." Hillgrove's concise, accurate, and descriptive style truly paints the picture for Pitt fans listening throughout the network. This fall he will also for the first year call the action for the Pittsburgh Steelers, after being named their play-by-play announcer this past spring.

Prior to taking over the play-by-play duties, Hillgrove served as color analyst from 1970-73 when the late Ed Conway provided play-by-play description. Hillgrove has also been doing play-by-play for Pitt basketball since 1969. A popular and well-known Pittsburgh sports personality, Hillgrove has been WTAE's sports director since 1979, and has long been a Pitt ambassador of good will. He supports all Pitt athletic teams, attends Golden Panther functions, and emcees numerous events around the city.

Hillgrove is a 1962 graduate of Duquesne University.

Joining Hillgrove in the booth for his 19th and final season as part of the Pitt football broadcast team is Johnny Sauer. The Hillgrove-Sauer team first broadcast a Pitt football game on September 14, 1974, when Pitt defeated Florida State, 9-6, in Tallahassee. Sauer, who played on Army's tremendous 1945 team which featured Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, coached at The Citadel and led the College All-Stars against the NFL Champion Green Bay Packers in 1966 and 1967. Sauer missed the 1983 and 1990 seasons with the Panther broadcast team.

Bill Hillgrove is in his 21st season as play-by-play announcer for Pitt football.

Hillgrove and Sauer will join forces to bring an entertaining post game report to listeners; Hillgrove will conduct locker room interviews with Coach John Majors and key Panther players, while Sauer will field telephone calls from interested listeners following the post game report.

WTAE will once again present the weekly Panther SportsLine call-in show, hosted by Bill Hillgrove and featuring Pitt Head Football Coach John Majors. The show airs each Monday throughout the football season from 8 p.m.-9 p.m., giving football fans an opportunity to talk one-on-one with Coach Majors.

The Johnny Majors Television Show

Airing for the second straight year will be The Johnny Majors Show, a weekly half-hour television show featuring Pitt Head Football Coach Johnny Majors, the Pitt football program, as well as other aspects of Pitt athletics.

The show, which will be hosted by Bill Hillgrove, will have a rather unique distinction, in that it will originate from a different elementary school in and around the Pittsburgh area each week.

The Johnny Majors Show is a product of AdCraft, a television production and marketing company headquartered in Louisville, Kentucky. The program will air on WTAE-TV on Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to noon.

1994 Outlook

When Head Coach John Majors was unveiled as Pitt's new football coach in December of 1992, not much was expected from his 1993 team.

The Panthers entered the season with just three senior scholarship players who had been on the team for more than two years. Given the limited time Majors and his new coaching staff had to recruit, little contribution was expected from the 1993 recruiting class.

Despite those shortcomings, Majors' reputation for building football programs was well established and he was returning to the place where he had claimed his only national championship. A national story developed.

First ESPN came calling. NCAA sanctions against Auburn created a void for ESPN's Thursday night kickoff telecast, just a week before the season's scheduled Sept. 4 opener. Majors' return matched against what appeared to be an exciting, upstart Southern Mississippi team seemed a perfect replacement. Sacrificing two extra practice days for the rewards of national television exposure, Majors agreed to the television contest and the scene was set for the Sept. 2 game.

On that night, the Majors' magic was working.

"We need to make vast improvement, naturally. I don't know how much we can make, but we have most of our people back who were instrumental in the progress we made last year."

"We are going to be a much more experienced team in terms of what we expect, in terms of effort, tempo and execution. I also hope and believe our leadership will improve."

--Head Coach John Majors

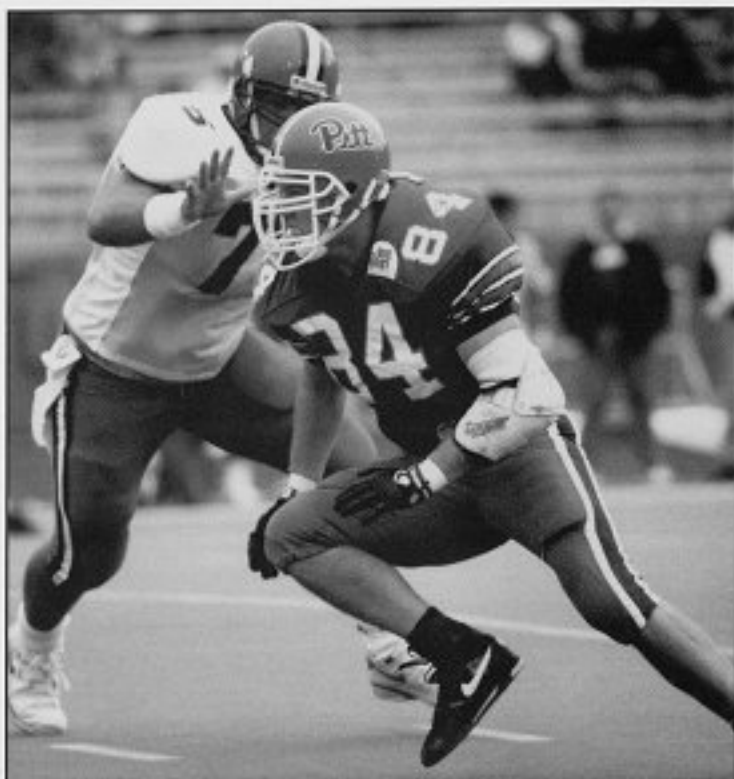

The undermanned and underdog Panthers played nearly flawlessly in the game and upset the Eagles, 14-10, in front of a national television audience.

Although that victory was one of only three wins, the 1993 Panthers still exceeded expectations. More importantly, a tone was set for the future of Pitt's football resurgence.

"I thought we made progress last year," said Majors. "We were concerned entering the season whether or not we would win a ballgame. Fortunately, we won three, two on national TV, which I thought was very important and gave us a tremendous amount of exposure."

"By the end of the season, the team showed some growth and maturity," Majors added. "Overall, I think they gave us a good effort."

But Majors expects much more improvement from his 1994 squad. The good news is that 46 lettermen, including 20 starters, return from the 1993 squad. Additionally, veteran receiver Dietrich Jells, who missed most of last season because of arthroscopic knee surgery, and free safety David Sumner, a talented veteran who left the team late last season, return. Only 10 lettermen — four starters — are lost from the 1993 team.

Tom Tumulty has started in every game he has played at Pitt and once again will man the middle of the Pitt defense in 1994.

"We need to make vast improvement, naturally," Majors said. "I don't know how much we can make, but we have most of our people back who were instrumental in the progress we made last year."

"We are going to be a much more experienced team in terms of what we expect, in terms of effort, tempo and execution. I also hope and believe our leadership will improve."

Majors will expect much of the leadership to be provided by a trio of players who clearly emerged last season as the leaders of the team: running back Curtis Martin, offensive tackle Reuben Brown, and defensive tackle Tom Barndt. Add to that list linebacker Tom Tumulty, center Lawson Mollica and cornerback Maurice Williams, and it seems evident a nucleus has been established to take the Panthers to the next level in Majors' rebuilding process.

The schedule will not ease the process. Faced with one of the toughest schedules in the country last year, Majors will once again have to contend with another formidable schedule, one that includes six 1993 bowl teams. Pitt's 1994 opponents compiled a cumulative won-loss percentage of .618 (77-47-3) in 1993 and only three of the Panthers' 1994 opponents finished with a losing record last season. Moreover, six of the 11 teams finished in the Top 25 of the final USA Today/CNN Coaches Poll, and two finished in the Top 10. Additionally, six of Pitt's 1994 opponents finished the 1993 season with nine or more victories.

"We are faced with another rigorous schedule in 1994," said Majors. "But I am optimistic that our present squad and, hopefully, a quality recruiting class will meet the challenges of such a demanding schedule and improving our football team overall."

Offense

The offense, which returns eight starters from the 1993 team, will be led by Martin, Pitt's first 1,000-yard rusher since 1989, and Brown, considered one of the top offensive linemen in the country.

Martin avoided major injury for the first time in his career in 1993. A rigorous offseason conditioning program prior to the 1993 season rewarded Martin with the most productive season of his career. The senior tailback has worked equally hard this past offseason and has added another 10 pounds of muscle. He is poised for a superlative senior campaign.

For the first time in recent years, there should be some capable depth at tailback. Billy West, who enjoyed a solid freshman campaign, complemented Martin very well last year and proved to be a capable backup. He played an instrumental role in Pitt's 21-10 victory against Rutgers last year, rushing for 108 yards on 20 carries in place of an injured Martin. Also returning is the usually durable Tim Colicchio, a two-year letterman who struggled with a shoulder injury last year. He is proven, though. Two years ago he rushed for 743 yards, while substituting for an injured Martin.

The fullback position will not be nearly as solvent. Senior Chad Dukes, a converted tailback, and senior Maurice Washington, a former walk-on, are the incumbents. Injury-plagued Vince Williams has all the physical attributes — size, strength and speed — but is still unproven.

Redshirt junior John Ryan returns as Pitt's starting quarterback. Ken Ferguson transferred to Indiana University of Pennsylvania last winter, leaving the quarterback derby wide open. Last year, Ryan threw for 1,284 yards as a redshirt sophomore, but was inconsistent, throwing more interceptions (8) than touchdown passes (6).

Challenging Ryan this fall are redshirt freshman Pete Gonzalez and junior-college transfer Sean Fitzgerald from Los Angeles Valley College. Gonzalez has a rifle arm and was seemingly on the verge of claiming the starting quarterback job before a sore elbow intervened. Fitzgerald brings some impressive junior-college credentials to the Panthers, throwing for more than 3,000 yards at Los Angeles Valley College last year.

Brown and three-year starter Lawson Mollica will once again anchor Pitt's offensive line. Brown is considered one of the top offensive line prospects in the country and is poised for an outstanding season at left tackle. He is an explosive run blocker with the athletic ability to be an outstanding pass blocker. Mollica, Pitt's starting center, is a savvy veteran who has developed into a solid offensive lineman for the Panthers. Starting right tackle Matt Bloom also returns, giving the Panthers three proven blockers up front. Junior Brian Curran, who played at tackle last year after converting from tight end, won the starting right guard position during spring drills. Voted the offensive recipient of the Ed Conway Award, given to the most improved players in spring drills, Curran will be challenged by redshirt freshman Jason Sepkowski. At left guard, redshirt freshman Reggie Thomas and sophomore Tim Glass will battle for a starting position. Redshirt junior Rick Cardinali, who moved to defense last fall after lettering on the offensive line in 1992, will move back to the offensive side as Brown's backup at left tackle. Another defensive convert, Jon Marzoch, can play all five positions, but is listed at center heading into fall camp.

Tight end is one of Majors' biggest concerns. Junior Raymond Belvin has starting experience. Allan Katsock, a transfer from Kings College who sat out last season after separating his shoulder in fall camp, and converted defensive end Dell Seagraves, a gifted athlete with considerable physical skills, are the only other tight ends returning from spring drills.

Injuries decimated Pitt's receiving corps last year and that position is once again a concern for Majors. The good news is the expected return of Dietrich Jells, who played in just three games before having season-ending knee surgery. Jells set a Pitt record for receptions in a season with 55 catches in 1992 and gives the Panthers a legitimate longball threat. Converted cornerback Jay Jones, who switched to the offense late in 1993, and Curtis Anderson give Pitt some added speed at the position, but neither has extensive game experience there. Senior Billy Davis, Pitt's most experienced and accomplished receiver, returns for his final season, along with Chad Askew, a physically gifted but injury-plagued athlete, who has yet to complete a full season.

"We felt we made progress through the spring," said Offensive Coordinator Ken Karcher. "The players are more aware of what we expect and more familiar with the system. We as a coaching staff made some adjustments and we are very excited about the coming year."

"Obviously, Curtis Martin will be an integral part of our offense and we are going to feature him in as many ways as possible."

Defense

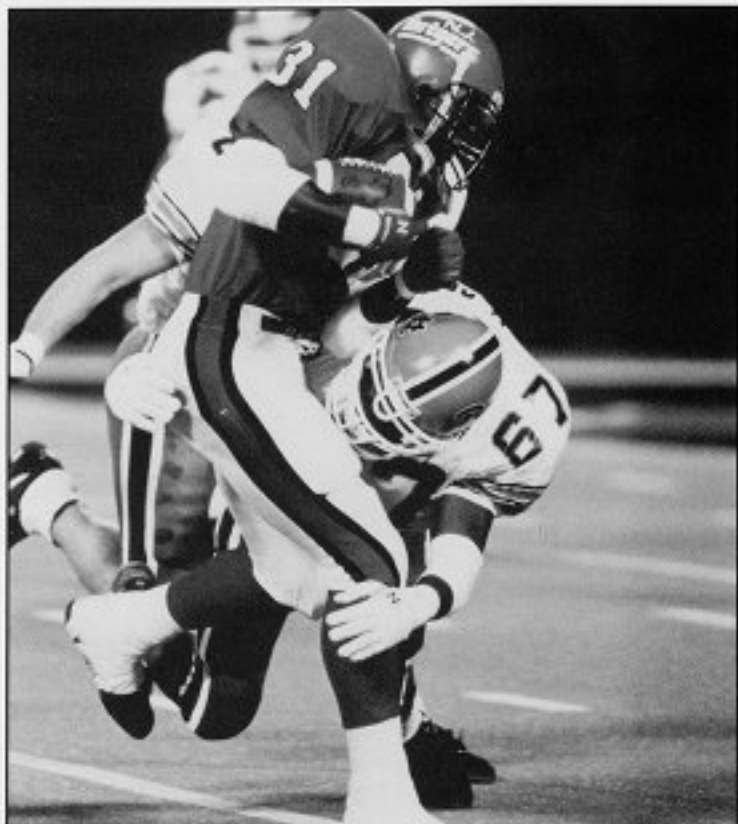

The Pitt defense returns all but one starter from the 1993 squad — free safety Doug Whaley — and should be much improved.

Leading the defensive unit will be three-year starter Tom Barndt, a second-team All-Big East selection last year, and inside linebacker Tom Tumulty, last year's leading tackler and a first-team Big East All-Star.

According to Majors, Barndt has one of the best work ethics of any player he has ever coached. He also is one of the Panthers' top performers in the weight room. His hard work has paid off on the field; he led the Panthers with seven sacks last season.

Tumulty showed no ill-effects from the torn chest muscle that sidelined him for virtually the entire 1992 season. His 17-tackle and two-interception performance in Pitt's season-opener versus Southern Mississippi was one of Pitt's brightest highlights of the season.

Returning at defensive ends are Zatiti Moody and Mike Mohring, the 1994 defensive recipient of the Ed Conway Award, given to the most improved offensive and defensive players following spring drills. Junior Tyler Young, a transfer from Notre Dame who sat out last season, impressed the Pitt coaching staff with his intensity and desire on the scout team last fall and will provide a strong challenge for a starting position. Redshirt freshman Jason Soboleski, and converted offensive guard Jared Miller will also vie for playing time at

Joining Tumulty in the linebacker corps are returning starters Gerald Simpson and Jon McCray. Simpson, a senior, was poised for an excellent season in 1993 but a knee injury against Virginia Tech hampered his progress. McCray was forced into a starting role when injuries ravaged Pitt's linebacker corps, and he responded superbly, finishing second on the team with 100 tackles. He will be closely challenged by three-year letterman Hayes Clark. Junior Jason Chavis, who made excellent progress in the spring, will provide solid depth at inside linebacker. Sophomore Myles Davis, a converted tailback, impressed the coaching staff in the spring and will provide Pitt quality backup at weakside linebacker, while redshirt junior Anthony Dorsett, who returns to the defense after spending most of last year as a wide receiver, could also challenge for playing time at outside linebacker.

The defensive secondary is relatively young, even though eight lettermen return. Two key players are junior free safety David Sumner, who will move from strong safety, and junior Ricky Rowe, a transfer from Penn State who will challenge for the starting strong safety position.

Both starting cornerbacks from 1993 return — Maurice

1994 Outlook/Preseason Honors

Williams and Denorse Mosley. Williams was perhaps Pitt's biggest surprise and developed into a solid cornerback, earning second-team All-Big East honors. Mosley, an excellent athlete, won his starting position in fall camp and never relinquished it. He also was a solid punt and kickoff return man for the Panthers.

Veteran cornerback Derrick Parker, a three-year letterman, will challenge for a starting position. Redshirt sophomore Jim Williams, a part-time starter last year, is the starting strong safety heading into fall camp, while Sumner, who started in eight games last year before leaving the team in the final week of the season, has regained his starting position at free safety. Sophomore lettermen Michael Reece, Curtis McGhee, and Kenyon Robinson will also vie for playing time in the secondary. Daryl Cash and Thad Culpepper, two junior college defensive backs from California, have excellent speed and could make immediate impacts.

"Our players understand what we expect out of them in terms of effort and intensity," said Defensive Coordinator Chuck Driesbach. "Our discipline has also improved."

"Through some personnel moves we have upgraded our team speed. The junior college defensive backs coming in should help improve that area even more."

"The improvement we made last year has helped our confidence level," Driesbach added. "Even though we finished with the record we did, we came out of the last half of the season feeling we have improved. Now I think our players understand the defensive tradition that had been established at Pitt and they want to regain some of that respectability and tradition."

Special Teams

The Panthers return both of their kickers from 1993. Punter Nate Cochran was impressive in his rookie season and displaced senior Kevin Leon as Pitt's starting punter in midseason. He finished the season with an impressive 43.7-yard average but did not qualify for any national statistical categories because he did not participate in enough games.

Sophomore Steve Kalmanides returns as the Panthers' starting placekicker. He compiled a solid 1993 season converting all 20 of his extra-point attempts. He also connected on four of eight field-goal attempts, including a season-long 36-yarder versus Virginia Tech.

Ryan was Kalmanides' holder last year, but senior Rod Harpst, who was the projected holder before breaking his thumb during fall camp, could take over those duties. Junior transfer Todd Barton will probably be the kickoff specialist. Before transferring, Barton was the starting punter and placekicker at Richmond and could challenge for both of those positions.

One concern for Majors is longsnapping. Lou Casanova, Pitt's snapper the last two seasons has graduated. Seniors Mario Masucci and Randie Nulph will battle for those duties this fall.

With Mosley, Jells, and Jones, the Panthers are equipped with three experienced and productive return specialists. All three have sprinter speed and could develop into big-play return men for the Panthers.

COACHING STAFF

Head Coach John Majors

In a profession where longevity is elusive, Pitt Head Football Coach John Majors has completed 26 seasons as a college football coach. He has posted an overall record of 176-113-10 (.589), including a 116-62-8 mark (.645) at Tennessee (1977-92), a 36-21-1 mark at Pitt (1973-76, '93), and a 24-30-1 record at Iowa State (1968-72). A total of 17 of his 26 teams have earned bowl invitations, including 11 of his last 13 teams. His overall record in bowl games is 9-7.

Majors has forged a reputation as a football program builder. Every football program that Majors has inherited has reached new heights.

In his first head football coaching position, Majors took over a downtrodden Iowa State program and guided the team to its first two bowl games in school history.

From there, Majors went to the University of Pittsburgh, where he reached the pinnacle of his coaching career, rebuilding a team that finished 1-10 in the year prior to his arrival and capturing college football's national championship in just four seasons.

In what he still considers one of the most difficult decisions of his professional career, Majors returned to his alma mater to help rejuvenate a stagnant Tennessee football team. He quickly revived the Volunteers into an SEC and national power.

"Coach Majors and Jackie Sherrill recruited me, but I also did my own homework. I knew Majors and his staff had a reputation of turning programs around and that was important to me. Now that he is back, I couldn't be any happier. And I know he will get this program back to where we can all be proud..."

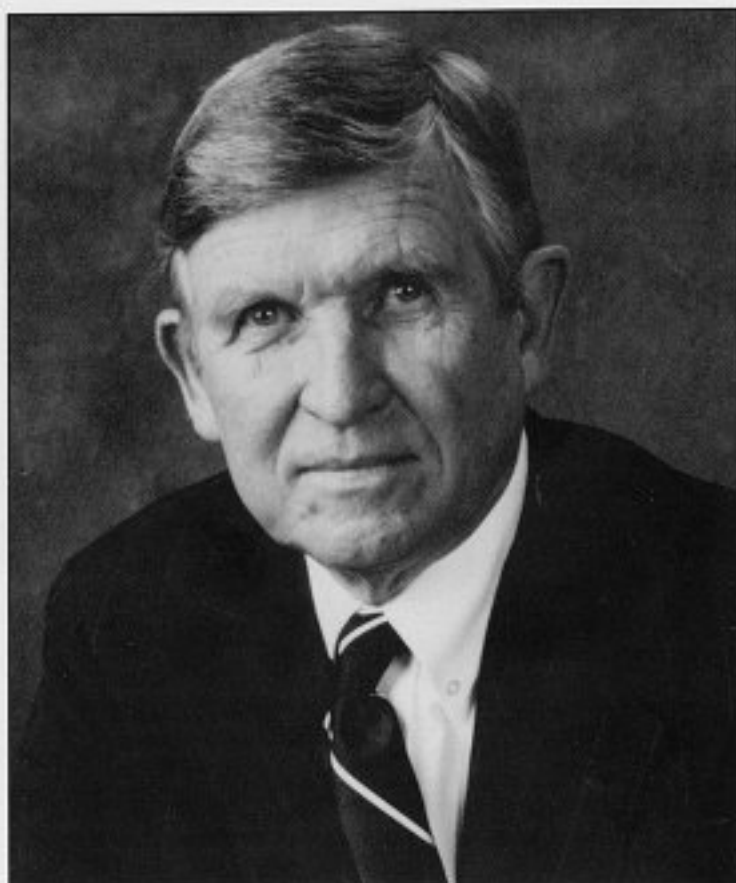

-- Tony Dorsett

Nearly 20 years to the day Majors first came to Pitt, Athletic Director Oval Jaynes summoned him back to Pittsburgh to once again work his magic on a proud football program that had gone awry.

On a cold, wintery Dec. 11, 1992, day, Jaynes introduced Majors as Pitt's 32nd head football coach and charged him with the task of rebuilding yet another football program.

"Coming back to coach at Pitt is one of the most exciting challenges a person could have," Majors said. "Our work is cut out for us, and to achieve success, it will take a concerted effort from everyone who loves Pitt."

Majors' return to Pitt was not nearly as dramatic as his first tour. The 1993 football team showed some improvement, and it exceeded most people's expectations by winning three games. Included among those three victories were two impressive wins on ESPN Thursday night national telecasts.

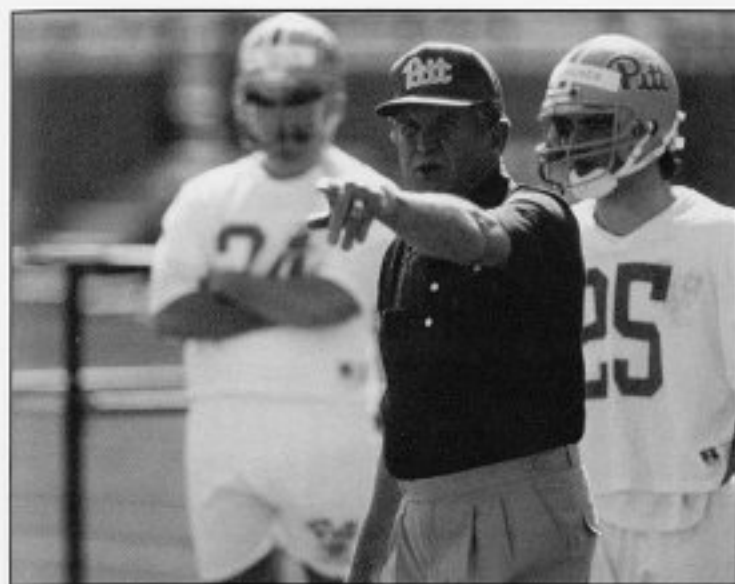

The Panthers welcomed back Majors with an inspiring 14-10 upset victory against a favored Southern Mississippi team in the steamy humidity of the Mississippi Delta. Pitt also deflated a Rutgers team with a 21-10 victory on a Thursday night in the Meadowlands. They were the first steps of a rebuilding process that Majors hopes will culminate in the re-establishment of Pitt as a national power.

Majors first arrived at Pitt 21 years ago after a five-year stint as head coach at Iowa State, during which he had established himself as one of the bright young minds in college football. He immediately began recruiting the blue-chip talent that would provide the impetus for Pitt's national championship in 1976 and the Panthers' dominance of Eastern football into the early 1980s.

Inheriting a Pitt squad that had finished 1-10 in 1972, Majors surrounded himself with a young, hard-working and talented coaching staff, and in just four seasons, transformed Pitt's stagnant football program into the 1976 national champion. His first prize recruit — Tony Dorsett — had a spectacular career at Pitt, which included being honored with college football's most treasured award — the Heisman Trophy.

Dorsett, whose son Anthony is currently a junior outside linebacker at Pitt, was the plum of Majors' first recruiting class, which also included defensive linemen Al Romano, Gary Burley, and Don Parrish, as well as quarterback Robert Haygood, tight end Jim Corbett, linebackers Cecil Johnson and Arnie Weatherington, and placekicker Carson Long. Over the next several years Majors continued to recruit exceptional players who would play key roles in Pitt's drive toward a national championship, including quarterback Matt Cavanaugh, running back Elliott Walker, defensive lineman Randy Holloway, and wide receiver Gordon Jones.

Majors wasted little time beginning the turnaround at Pitt. In 1973, he guided Pitt to a winning record (6-5-1) for the first time in 11 years. The Panthers also landed a berth in the Fiesta Bowl, Pitt's first bowl appearance in 17 years. That startling turnaround brought Pitt and its new coach extensive national attention, and earned Majors coach-of-the-year honors by both the Football Writers Association and the Walter Camp Foundation.

Majors followed up with a second consecutive winning season (7-4) in 1974. In addition, the Panthers made an appearance on national television for the first time since 1963, and Pitt's home attendance was twice the 1972 average.

In 1975, Pitt's remarkable upturn continued as the Panthers clawed their way to an 8-4 season that included a victory over Kansas in the Sun Bowl and the No. 15 final national ranking in the Associated Press.

Then came the magical 1976 season. A dominating, nationally televised 31-10 victory at Notre Dame in Pitt's opener set the tone for the season. The Panthers were undefeated the rest of the way, capping their 11-0 regular season record with a 24-7 win over Penn State. Pitt, ranked number one in every poll in the country, was invited to the Sugar Bowl, where the Panthers crushed Georgia, 27-3, to win the national championship.

Majors again was named coach of the year, while Dorsett, who set or tied 18 NCAA records during his fabulous career at Pitt (including the career rushing yardage record of 6,082), won the Heisman Trophy.

"Johnny was a communicator and he related well to the players," Dorsett said. "Coach Majors and Jackie Sherrill recruited me, but I also did my own homework. I knew Majors and his staff had a reputation of turning programs around and that was important to me. Now that he is back, I couldn't be any happier. And I know he will get this program back to where we can all be proud. It may take a couple years but I know he will turn things around."

Another key player in the championship season was quarterback Matt Cavanaugh, who served as Pitt's tight ends coach last season before accepting an assistant coaching position with the Arizona Cardinals this past winter.

"Two qualities of Coach Majors' that have always impressed me are his great communications and motivational abilities," Cavanaugh said. "He came to Pittsburgh and was able to an SEC power. Tennessee won SEC Championships in 1985, 1989, and 1990, and high rankings in the coaches and writers polls characterized Tennessee football throughout the last decade.

During most of Majors' tenure at Tennessee the Vols were a perennial bowl team, earning invitations to the Garden State, Peach (twice), Florida Citrus, Sun, Sugar (twice), Liberty, Cotton, Fiesta, and Hall of Fame bowls during his 12 years in Knoxville.

Majors' professional stature was reflected when he served as president of the American Football Coaches Association in 1990, a year in which Tennessee's SEC title gave the school its first back-to-back conference championships since the Vols won three in a row from 1938 through 1940.

A member of the most famous football family in Tennessee, John Majors was destined to carry on family tradition. His father, the late Shirley Majors, was a successful high school coach for 13 years in Tennessee and later served for 21 years as the head coach at Sewanee (University of the South), compiling a record of 93-74-5. He was selected as the Football Writers Association Small College Coach of the Year in 1973, the same year his son, John, received the Division I coach of the year honor at Pitt. Two of John's brothers, Bill and Bobby, were great stars at Tennessee. Another brother, Joe, starred at Florida State, while a fourth brother, Larry, played for his father at Sewanee.

But John was the biggest football star in the Majors family. He played for his father at Huntland High School, where he scored an incredible 565 points. As an All-America tailback at Tennessee, he led the Vols to a 10-0 record in 1956, a No. 2 ranking, and a trip to the Sugar Bowl. That year he was named as UPI's Back of the Year and finished second to Notre Dame's Paul Hornung in the Heisman Trophy balloting. Majors was twice named MVP in the Southeastern Conference, and in 1975 was named to the 25-year All-SEC Team (1950-74). He is a member of the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame and is a charter member of the Tennessee Hall of Fame.

Following his brilliant playing career at Tennessee, Majors began his coaching career as an assistant at his alma mater. He served additional stints as an assistant at Mississippi State (1959-62) and Arkansas (1963-67) before taking the head job at Iowa State in 1968. Majors took a downtrodden program at Iowa State and in just five years took the Cyclones to their first two bowl games in school history, earning Big Eight Coach of the Year honors by both wire services in 1971.

John Terill Majors, 59, was born on May 21, 1935 in Lynchburg, Tennessee. He and his wife, Mary Lynn, have a son, John, a daughter, Mary, and one grandson, Brandon.

Assistant Coaches

Charlie Coe
Assistant Head Coach/
Kansas State, '73

After spending his first season as Pitt's run offense coordinator, Charlie Coe was promoted to assistant head coach this past March by Head Coach John Majors.

Coe has served on Majors' coaching staff since 1990, and soon after Majors was hired at Pitt, Majors brought Coe with him to Pittsburgh as the Panthers' run offense coordinator. Prior to Tennessee, where he served as the receivers and running backs coach for Majors, Coe held assistant coaching positions at his alma mater Kansas State (1989); Missouri (1985-88); Louisville (1983-84); Ball State (1982); Cincinnati (1977-78); and Iowa (1976).

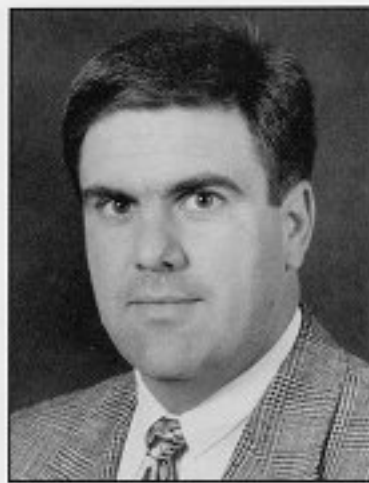

A native of St. Louis, Coe starred as a defensive back and return man for the Kansas State Wildcats, also garnering All-Big Eight honors as a second baseman for the Wildcat baseball team.

Following his stellar collegiate career, Coe was selected in the first round of the 1971 Major League baseball draft by the Detroit Tigers and spent two years in their system. Coe also spent part of the 1974 season with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League, making him one of the first two-sport athletes that are becoming more prevalent today.

Bob Babich
Linebackers
Tulsa, '84

Aliquippa native Bob Babich is the newest member of Pitt's coaching staff.

Babich was named Pitt's linebackers coach by Coach Majors this past February, replacing Rusty Russell. He came to Pitt after serving the past two seasons in a similar capacity at East Carolina.

Prior to his East Carolina appointment, Babich was the linebacker coach at Bowling Green for one year. He also held assistant coaching positions at his alma mater, Tulsa (1985-87, 1990), and Wisconsin (1988-89). He helped coach Tulsa to two Missouri Valley Conference championships in 1984 and 1985.

Babich matriculated at Tulsa after a stellar career at Mesa (Ariz.) Community College, where he earned All-America honors in 1979 and was the team's MVP and captain in 1980. At Tulsa, Babich was the leading tackler and captain on the 1982 Hurricane team that finished with a 10-1 record.

Assistant Coaches

Steve Bird
Receivers/Kickers
Eastern Kentucky, '82

Steve Bird begins his second season as Pitt's receivers and kickers coach. The first assistant named to Coach Majors' Pitt staff, after serving as a graduate assistant for Majors at Tennessee, Bird and Assistant Head Coach Charlie Coe are the two assistants from Coach Majors' present staff who served with him at Tennessee.

Bird joined the Tennessee staff after working for two years at Kentucky (1990 and 1991). He also was an assistant at his alma mater, Eastern Kentucky, from 1988 through 1989.

An All-American wide receiver and kick returner at Eastern Kentucky, Bird started in four national championship games. In 1982, he was named the Ohio Valley Conference Player of the Year during his senior season, when the Colonels captured the NCAA 1-AA national championship, after being the national runner-up his junior season.

Following a stellar collegiate career, in which he caught 112 passes for 2,056 yards and 18 touchdowns, Bird spent five seasons in the NFL with the St. Louis Cardinals, the San Diego Chargers, and the Philadelphia Eagles as a wide receiver and kick return specialist.

Curt Cignetti
Tight Ends/Recruiting Coordinator
West Virginia, '82

Curt Cignetti will return to the coaching ranks in 1994 after spending the past season as Pitt's recruiting coordinator. Cignetti was appointed the Panthers' tight end coach this past summer by Head Coach John Majors, replacing Matt Cavanaugh, who joined the NFL Arizona Cardinals' coaching staff.

In addition to his coaching duties, Cignetti will continue to supervise Pitt football's recruiting efforts.

The son of Indiana University of Pennsylvania Head Football Coach and Athletic Director Frank Cignetti, Cignetti was a two-year football letterman at WVU, where he was a member of two consecutive bowl teams -- the 1981 Peach, and the 1982 Gator -- and earned the Lewis D. Meisel Award for academics and the A.C. Whitney Gwynn Award for character.

Cignetti spent the 1983 and 1984 seasons at Pitt as a graduate assistant under Foge Fazio, working with the quarterbacks and the defensive secondary.

Cignetti left Pitt prior to the 1985 season to coach the quarterbacks at Davidson College. He then moved on to join Jerry Berndt's staff in the same capacity at Rice University, where he coached for three seasons. In 1989, he joined Berndt's staff at Temple, where he coached the quarterbacks for four seasons, through 1992, before accepting Majors' offer to return to Pitt as recruiting coordinator.

Assistant Coaches

Chuck Driesbach
Defensive Coordinator
Villanova, '75

When Coach John Majors searched for a defensive coordinator to help revive a Pitt defense that was once known for its hard hitting and tenacity, he wanted someone with a diverse background on both defense and offense. Majors believes Chuck Driesbach fits those qualifications.

Beginning his second season as Pitt's defensive coordinator, Driesbach has accumulated a wealth of football knowledge, bringing more than 18 years of Division I-A coaching experience to Pitt. Prior to his Pitt appointment, he served as the defensive coordinator for the Cornell Big Red.

Driesbach previously held assistant coaching positions at Mississippi (1989), coaching the defensive secondary; East Carolina (1987-88), where he coached the running backs; Wake Forest (1984-86), coaching the tight ends and receivers; and at Kansas State (1976-83), where he coached tight ends, receivers, offensive tackles and defensive backs.

Before joining the coaching ranks, Driesbach was a three-year starter at Villanova, serving as team captain in his senior season in 1974. He then played one year for the Philadelphia Bell of the World Football League in 1975, before the league folded.

Jack Henry
Offensive Line
Indiana Univ. of Pa., '69

Jack Henry will once again be charged with the responsibility of coaching Pitt's offensive line.

A Pittsburgh area native, Henry brings 25 years of experience from all levels of coaching to Coach John Majors' staff.

Henry previously served as the offensive line coach for Coach Chuck Noll and the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1990-91. Prior to his Steelers appointment, Henry served as offensive coordinator and associate head coach at his alma mater, Indiana University of Pennsylvania, from 1986-89. Henry, who began his collegiate career as a linebacker at Penn State (1964-65), played guard for the Indians in 1967-68 before graduating in 1969. He was the captain of IUP's 1968 Boardwalk Bowl championship team.

From 1981-85, Henry coached at Wake Forest, where he served as offensive line coach and was later promoted to offensive coordinator. Between 1973-79, Henry held similar posts on the collegiate level at Appalachian State (1980), West Virginia (1978-79), Southern Illinois (1977), Millersville State (1975-76), Louisville (1974) and Edinboro State (1973).

Assistant Coaches

Ken Karcher
Offensive Coordinator/Quarterbacks
Tulane, '86

A former college and NFL quarterback, Ken Karcher brings both playing and coaching experience to the Pitt coaching staff. This past March Coach Majors promoted Karcher to offensive coordinator.

Prior to joining Pitt's staff in December of 1992, Karcher served as the offensive coordinator for the 1992 World League of American Football runner-up Orlando Thunder. He also served as an assistant coach at Idaho State (1989) and North Texas (1991).

After an outstanding scholastic career at Pittsburgh's Shaler High School, Karcher matriculated at Notre Dame before transferring to Tulane University, where he finished his illustrious career for the Green Wave as the school's second all-time leading passer with 3,332 yards. The following year, Karcher signed with the Denver Broncos as a free agent and with the New Orleans Saints. He re-signed with the Broncos after the 1987 season and remained there through 1990. He started all three replacement games for the Broncos in the 1987 season.

Tim Lewis
Defensive Backs
Pittsburgh, '83

Tim Lewis, a star cornerback at Pitt from 1979 through 1982, is in his second season as the Panthers' defensive secondary coach.

A native of Quakertown, Pennsylvania, Lewis was a starting cornerback for the Panthers in 1981 and 1982 and was named an NEA All-American in 1982. He was also selected to the Senior Bowl and East-West Shrine Bowl that year.

Following his outstanding career at Pitt, Lewis went on to star for the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League before a serious neck injury shortened his professional career. In all, Lewis played four years in Green Bay, earning All-Pro recognition twice.

When his NFL career ended, Lewis entered the coaching ranks as a graduate assistant at Texas A&M for two years under his former college coach, Jackie Sherrill. Lewis then accepted an assistant coaching position at Southern Methodist, where he coached the defensive backs for four years (1989-92). His 1992 Mustang secondary led the Southwest Conference in pass defense, allowing just 182.3 yards passing per game.

Assistant Coaches

Tom Turchetta
Defensive Line
Miami, '72

Defensive line coach Tom Turchetta returns for his third season on the Panthers' coaching staff and will continue to direct the defensive front for Coach John Majors.

An Altoona, Pennsylvania, native, Turchetta joined the Pitt staff in March of 1992, after two seasons as the defensive line coach at Texas-El Paso.

Turchetta has helped the development of Pitt's young defensive linemen such as Matt Hosilyk, Mike Halapin, as well as Mike Mohring and Tim Robbins, both of whom sat out their freshman season.

In addition to Texas-El Paso, Turchetta also held assistant coaching positions at Memphis State, Temple, Kentucky State, East Tennessee State and Kentucky. Prior to coaching on the college level, Turchetta was the head football and wrestling coach at North Miami Beach High School, as well as the school librarian. A former college star at the University of Miami, Turchetta won the Jack Harding Award as the Hurricanes' Most Valuable Player in 1971.

Alex Kramer
Administrative Assistant

A glance at his resume indicates this is the 17th year for Alex Kramer as the administrative assistant in the Pitt football program, but to those who know him well, tales of Kramer's ties to Pitt tell a story which dates back to the late 1930s, when he first started attending Pitt football games.

Kramer, an avid historian of Pitt football and Sir Winston Churchill, was the Panthers' student football manager from 1948-51, rooming with future Pro Football Hall of Famer Joe Schmidt. After graduating from Pitt, he enlisted in the Air Force, where he remained for four years before becoming a teacher and administrator in the Moon Area School District. He left his position as director of curriculum at Moon to return to Pitt in 1978.

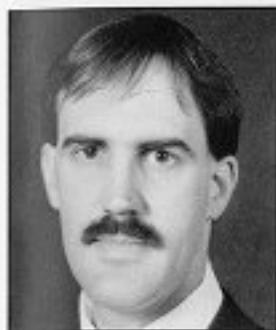

Kramer's assignments include making the team's travel arrangements, serving as the football program's liaison with other offices and departments within the university, and expanding the services that Pitt football players provide to the community. He continues to lead a group that he organized in 1978 called the John Pruitt Children's Hospital Volunteer Group, which is comprised of Pitt football players who make regularly scheduled bedside visits to young patients.

His long-standing ties to Pitt football prove valuable when Pitt stages its annual football alumni weekend, a series of activities which brings back to the Pitt campus many former Panther players. In addition to Pitt football, Kramer has a keen interest in animal and environmental issues.

Kramer graduated from Pitt in 1952 and received his master's degree in history in 1961.

Born July 8, 1929, Kramer is married to the former Betty McCormick and the father of Charles and Michele.

Football Staff

Tim Wilson

Strength and Conditioning Coach

Football training and conditioning have made the sport virtually a year-round proposition, and the proper strength and conditioning coach is vital to a team's overall performance.

Pitt has a skilled professional in fourth-year coach Tim Wilson, who came to Pitt before the 1991 season after working at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas during the 1989-90 season. At Pitt, Wilson works with the football and baseball teams.

A native of Falls City, Nebraska, Wilson had also worked at UNLV from 1982-85, before joining the Chicago White Sox baseball team as strength coach from 1987-89. In 1986 and 1987, he worked for Vermeil Sports and Fitness of Chicago, which provided strength and conditioning consulting services to the Chicago Bulls and White Sox.

Wilson is a 1981 graduate of the University of Nebraska with a bachelor's degree in physical education.

Wilson, 36, is married to the former Retta Small and is the father of Sara (8) and Whitney (5).

John Hatfield

Equipment Supervisor

John Hatfield is in his fifth year as equipment supervisor for the Pitt football team. His responsibilities include the purchasing, reconditioning, repairment and inventory of all football equipment, as well as assisting in general game operations, and supervising Pitt's student managers. He also serves as coordinator of equipment for Pitt's women's teams, which operate from Fitzgerald Field House.

A native of Canton, Ohio, he graduated from the University of Maryland in 1970, and his college years included a three-year stint with the United States Army.

Prior to Pitt, Hatfield was athletic equipment manager at Kent State University (1979-85); at John Carroll University (1986-87); and at the College of Wooster (1987-89). He also worked part-time with the Cleveland Browns from 1978-87 as an equipment and operations assistant.

Married, Hatfield's wife's name is Mary.

Rob Blanc

Head Trainer

Rob Blanc is in his seventh season as Pitt's head football trainer.

Last year, Blanc was promoted to head trainer for the entire Athletic Department and is responsible for equipment and inventory purchases, drug education and testing, as well as coordinating all clinical services for the athletic department.

Blanc graduated from Slippery Rock in 1982, and earned a master's degree in athletic training in 1984 at Ohio University. He is a certified paramedic, and works in that capacity in nearby Bethel Park. He is a certified member of the National Athletic Trainers Association.

Prior to Pitt, Blanc served as head athletic trainer at nearby Duquesne University for two years. Blanc began his training career as the head athletic trainer at New Lexington (OH) High School in 1983. A year later, he began working for the Pittsburgh Steelers on a part-time basis. In that capacity, Blanc worked at training camp and at home games in all aspects of sports medicine.

Blanc, 34, and his wife Margie reside in Whitehall. The couple have two children, Jason (4) and Jordan (2).

Kevin Conley

Assistant Trainer

Kevin Conley begins his second season as assistant football trainer, after serving as a graduate assistant the previous two years at Pitt. His responsibilities include assisting Head Trainer Rob Blanc in all areas of football coverage, as well as assisting in the supervision of eight student trainers. In addition to his clinical assignments, Conley is a faculty member in the School of Education, providing classroom instruction to students enrolled in the sports medicine curriculum.

After receiving a bachelor's degree from SUNY Cortland, Conley was the head trainer at Cazenovia High School in Syracuse, New York, for a year prior to coming to Pitt as a graduate assistant. He completed his master's degree in exercise physiology in April 1993. He is a certified member of the National Athletic Trainers Association.

Football Staff

Mike Pettine

Football Video Coordinator

Mike Pettine begins his second season on the Pitt football staff. After spending his first year as a graduate assistant for the defense, Pettine was promoted to football video coordinator this past summer.

Prior to his Pitt appointment, Pettine coached the quarterbacks and defensive secondary at his high school alma mater, Central Bucks West, in Doylestown, Pennsylvania, from 1988 through 1991.

Pettine comes from a football family; he played quarterback for, and eventually coached under his father Mike Sr. at Central Bucks West.

A 1988 graduate of the University of Virginia with a degree in economics, Pettine, who began his collegiate career as a quarterback, redshirted his freshman season and then moved to free safety, where he started his junior and senior years. During his time at Virginia, the Cavaliers played in the 1984 Peach Bowl and the 1987 All-American Bowl.

Pettine was married this past April to the former Marlene Carlisle. They are expecting their first child in September.

Jim Schmus

Strength and Conditioning

Jim Schmus joined the Pitt football staff in May 1993, after working as a strength and conditioning graduate assistant at Temple University for a year. Promoted to a full-time assistant this summer, Schmus assists Head Strength and Conditioning Coach Tim Wilson with the Pitt football and baseball teams.

A 1991 graduate of Montclair State College, Schmus received his bachelor's degree in physical education with a concentration in adult fitness. He also was a nose guard for the Red Hawk football team.

Schmus's future plans are to become a head strength and conditioning coach at a college or university and to someday work in the NFL.

A native of Voorhees, N.J., Schmus graduated from Eastern Regional High School, where he started at linebacker for three years. He also coached for a year at his alma mater before enrolling at Temple.

He is pursuing a master's degree in exercise physiology at Pitt.

Marc Hudak

Graduate Assistant

Marc Hudak joined the Pitt coaching staff this past April after spending three years as a graduate assistant at Syracuse University.

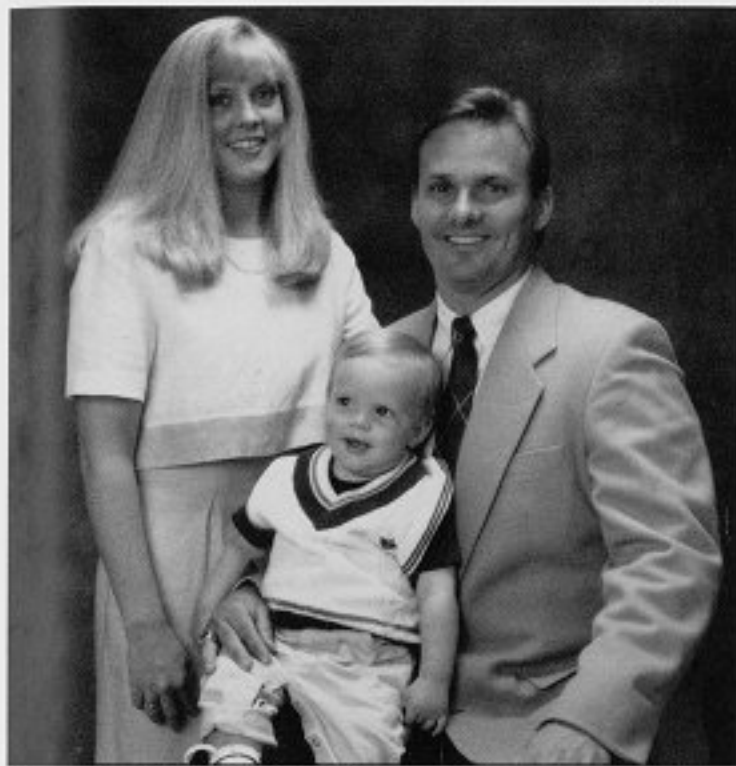

Hudak will work primarily with the tight ends and offensive lines at Pitt.

Prior to his Syracuse position, Hudak, an Orchard Park, N.Y., native, served as an assistant coach during Cornell's 1990 Ivy League Championship season.

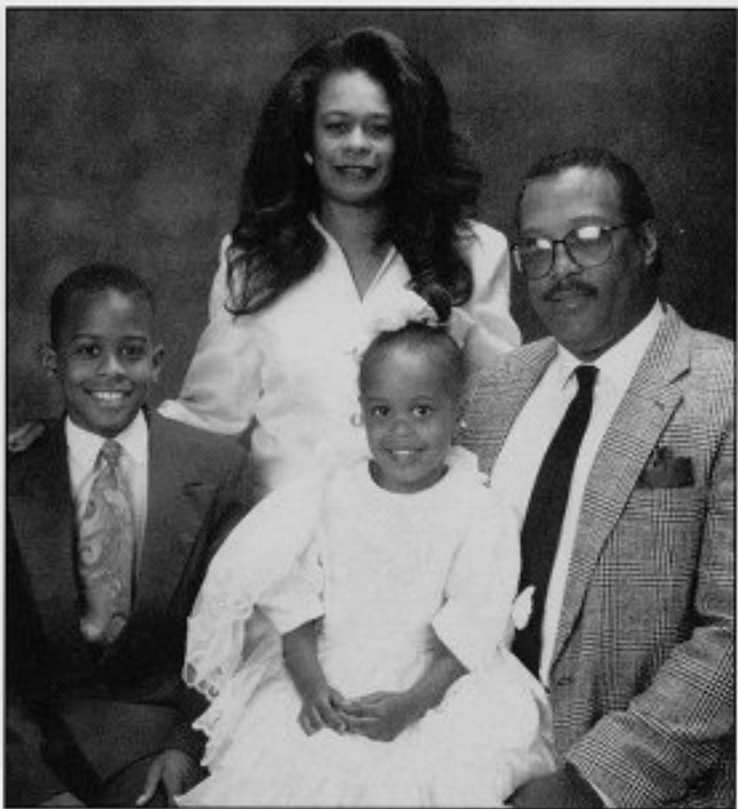

A 1990 Ithaca (N.Y.) graduate, Hudak was a two-time All-American at center for the Bombers, who compiled a 32-5 record during Hudak's three seasons. He also was a senior captain on Ithaca's 1988 Division III national championship team.

Hudak received his master's degree in physical education at Syracuse in 1993 and is currently pursuing his doctorate degree in higher education at Pitt.

Pitt Football Support Staff

Running a major college football program requires a team effort behind the scenes. The Pitt support staff is experienced, and their functions are quite varied. The Pitt football team's success is one example of the whole being greater than the sum of its parts.

What Others Are Saying About Brown....

"Reuben Brown is an outstanding offensive lineman. He has all the tools to become an All-American."

Dennis Erickson
 Head Coach, Univ. of Miami

"Reuben Brown would have been the first offensive lineman drafted in the 1994 NFL Draft if he were available. He is a fine athlete with an excellent temperament for the game. He plays with great enthusiasm and he's what a coach wants in an offensive lineman. He's going to have a long career at the very critical left tackle position, but he is versatile and athletic enough to play the other offensive line positions."

Bill Meyers
 Offensive Line/Tight Ends Coach
 Los Angeles Raiders

"The thing that stands out with Reuben is that he continues to get better every year, and he has become a real anchor at left tackle for Pitt. He has a unique combination of size and strength, but still has the quickness in his feet and hands, a flashback to his days as a defensive lineman. He has used all these tools to keep getting better and better."

Todd Blackledge
 ABC Sports Color Analyst

Senior tackle Reuben Brown will once again anchor Pitt's offensive line and is poised for an All-America season.

Curtis Martin
SR RB/6-0/200
Pittsburgh, PA

A dynamic and explosive runner, Martin has emerged as one of the top running backs in the country...has developed his strength and durability significantly in the last two years and should be poised for his best season...is an All-America and Doak Walker Award candidate...burst onto the Pitt scene in 1991 with a running style not seen by Pitt fans in recent years...possesses outstanding speed...runs a 4.5 40-yard dash, one of the top five fastest times on the team...is capable of changing the scoreboard anytime he touches the football...exhibits an exceptional work ethic...committed to a rigorous offseason conditioning program prior to the 1993 season, which greatly improved his strength and conditioning...has tremendous vision and has a knack for finding a crack of daylight while running full speed...is also a good receiver, which adds another dimension to his arsenal of skills...is especially lethal on swing passes out of the backfield, where he can use his speed and elusiveness on the perimeter...has the best vertical leap on the team (39 inches). 1993: Produced his best season at Pitt and became Pitt's first 1,000-yard rusher since 1989, when Curvin Richards rushed for 1,282 yards...remained injury-free throughout most of the season...suffered a bruised shoulder against West Virginia that forced him from most of that contest and the entire Rutgers game ... compiled a career-high 1,075 yards on 210 carries...averaged 5.1 yards a carry...finished third in the Big East and 14th in the country with 107.5 yards a game...also was third in the Big East and 22nd in the country in all-purpose yardage, averaging 132.4 yards a game...led the Panthers with 33 receptions for 249 yards...led the team in scoring with 52 points...accounted for 47 percent of the team's offensive yardage (1,324 of 2,821 yards)...eclipsed the 1,000-yard mark for the season on a spectacular run in the season-fine versus Temple...on the play Martin gathered a pitch to the left, outran Temple's containment at the line of scrimmage, and burst past two Owl defenders, racing 80 yards for a game-clinching TD...rushed for a career-high 206 yards versus Syracuse, Pitt's first 200-yard rushing performance by a Pitt player since Curvin Richards' 264 yards against East Carolina in 1989...shared the Big East Offensive Player of the Week honor with Rutgers' Terrell Willis for his performance in that game...had a career-high eight receptions versus Temple for 81 yards...recorded four 100-yard rushing performances, giving him 10 for his career...is currently fifth on Pitt's all-time rushing yardage list and needs 389 more yards to move into fourth place, past Elliott Walker (2,748 yards, 1974-77)...was named first team All-Big East and was selected to the 1993 ECAC All-Star team...also was listed on the Football News' Almost All-America team. 1992: Slowed by an Achilles' heel and ankle injury in 1992, Martin came on strongly toward the end of the season and finished as Pitt's second-leading rusher behind Tim Colicchio...despite his injuries, he established career highs in every statistical category...missed two complete games...started in four games...compiled 730 yards on 148 carries...in Pitt's season finale against Hawaii, he rushed for 128 yards and two TDs on 32 carries...recorded four 100-yard games, giving him six

What Others are Saying About Martin...

"The two things that amazed me most about Curtis Martin are his durability and his productivity. He was involved in so much of the offense but he still played week in and week out. Even more amazing was his productivity. Despite the fact that everyone in the stadium would know he would be involved in two of out every three of Pitt's plays, he still managed to compile some impressive numbers."

Todd Blackledge
ABC Sports Color Analyst

"Curtis Martin is one of the most elusive, productive tailbacks we have faced. He'll earn his place among the very elite ball carriers that have come out of Pittsburgh."

Paul Pasqualoni
Head Football Coach
Syracuse University

"Curtis Martin is one of those marquee players who reminds you of so many of the great players who have played for Pitt over the years. He's a north-south guy and he makes great cuts -- a very special back. Obviously, you don't want to give him a chance to show what he can do."

Don Nehlen
Head Football Coach
West Virginia University

GAME 1

Pitt 14 S. Mississippi 10 September 2, 1993

HATTIESBURG, Miss. -- Head Coach John Majors began a new era in Pitt football the way he left it 17 years earlier -- with a win.

The Panthers, in Majors' second term at Pitt, opened their 1993 season with a 14-10 upset at Southern Mississippi in front of an ESPN national television audience and in the sweltering heat and humidity of the Mississippi Delta.

Pitt used a highly efficient offense, which committed no turnovers, and an opportunistic defense that forced five turnovers, including four interceptions, to defeat the Golden Eagles, who entered the game as much as a 10-point favorite.

The Panther defense, which featured six sophomores, gave Pitt its first scoring opportunity by forcing a fumble on the second offensive play of the game. Defensive end Zaiti Moody stripped USM's Barry Boyd and recovered the loose ball, giving the Panthers possession at Southern Mississippi's 40-yard line. Seven plays later tailback Curtis Martin scored Pitt's first touchdown of the 1993 season on a one-yard plunge. Freshman kicker Steve Kalmanides added the PAT to give Pitt a 7-0 lead.

Southern Mississippi answered on its ensuing series to tie the score at 7-7 and added a field goal late in the first half for a 10-7 halftime lead.

Pitt opened the second half in spectacular fashion. Dietrich Jells returned the second-half kickoff 66 yards to the Eagles' 26-yard line, but Pitt failed to score when a Kalmanides 47-yard field goal attempt sailed wide to the left.

The Panthers added their game-winning TD on its next possession, when quarterback John Ryan connected with Martin on a nine-yard pass play.

Southern Mississippi twice marched within scoring distance in the fourth quarter, but both drives were squelched by Pitt interceptions, one by linebacker Tom Tumulty (his second of the game) and the final one with 13 seconds remaining by strong safety David Sumner.

Ryan completed 12 of 19 passes for 118 yards and one TD in his starting debut, while Martin rushed for 68 yards and one TD and caught seven passes for 84 yards and a touchdown.

Playing in his first game since suffering a chest injury in 1992's opener, Tumulty led the Panthers defense with 17 tackles (10 solos), a sack, and his first two career interceptions.

Virginia Tech 63 Pitt 21 September 11, 1993

PITTSBURGH -- Virginia Tech spoiled Head Coach John Majors' return to Pitt Stadium and handed Pitt its first home-opener loss since 1986 by defeating the Panthers, 63-21, at Pitt Stadium in a Big East Football Conference opener for both teams.

The Hokies scored touchdowns on six of their first seven offensive possessions and countered a mild comeback attempt by Pitt to improve their record to 2-0. Pitt suffered its first loss of the season, after an impressive victory at Southern Mississippi nine days earlier.

Pitt began where it left off against Southern Mississippi and scored the first points of the game. Defensive end Mike Halapin recovered a fumble by Tech's Dwayne Thomas, which the Pitt offense converted into three points. Placekicker Steve Kalmanides kicked a 36-yard field goal, his first career field goal at Pitt, to give the Panthers a 3-0 lead.

But the Hokies scored touchdowns on their next six consecutive possessions, and despite another Kalmanides field goal, Virginia Tech held a commanding 42-6 halftime lead.

After Virginia Tech opened the scoring in the second half with a third-quarter touchdown, increasing its lead to 49-6, Pitt scored two consecutive touchdowns -- the first on a 12-yard pass play from Ken Ferguson, who replaced starter John Ryan in the second half, to Junior Green, the second on a 51-yard run by tailback Curtis Martin.

But Virginia Tech responded with two more scores to secure the victory.

Martin finished the game with 140 yards on 20 carries, while wide receiver Dietrich Jells was Pitt's top receiver with three catches for 74 yards.

Backup inside linebacker Hayes Clark led Pitt with 15 tackles (12 solos), while safeties Doug Whaley and David Sumner had 13 apiece.

Ohio State 63 Pitt 28

September 18, 1993

PITTSBURGH -- Surrendering four first-quarter touchdowns -- and five unanswered scores -- to 11th-ranked Ohio State, Pitt suffered its second consecutive defeat of the early season, 63-28, at Pitt Stadium.

Although the Panthers (1-2) allowed 63 points for the second consecutive game, Pitt scored a season-high 28 points against a highly regarded Ohio State defense, while compiling a season-high 339 yards in total offense.

The Buckeyes (3-0) wasted little time taking command of the game. Ohio State's Butler By'not'e gathered the opening kickoff and sprinted virtually untouched for an 89-yard touchdown. Ohio State added touchdowns on each of its next four offensive possessions and held a comfortable 35-0 lead 54 seconds into the second quarter. The Panther defense tightened the rest of the quarter and the half ended with Ohio State holding its 35-0 advantage.

As it has all season, Pitt opened the third quarter strongly and scored two touchdowns five minutes apart in the period. Quarterback John Ryan, who replaced starter Ken Ferguson with 3:09 remaining in the second quarter, connected on two TD passes to slice Ohio State's lead to 35-14.

The Buckeyes countered with consecutive touchdowns, before Ryan threw his third TD pass of the game, a 60-yard bomb to flanker Junior Green, cutting OSU's advantage to 49-21. Ohio State added two more TDs, sandwiched around Ryan's fourth TD pass, a 17-yard toss to Jells, for the 63-28 final.

Ryan completed 15 of 21 passes for 236 yards and four TDs, all career highs. Green led all Pitt receivers with a career-high five receptions for 111 yards, including his career-long 60-yard TD reception.

Defensively, the Panthers were led by linebacker Tom Tumulty, who moved from outside to middle linebacker for the game. Despite playing with a tender elbow, Tumulty finished with a team-high 16 tackles (nine solos).

Louisville 29 Pitt 7

October 2, 1993

PITTSBURGH -- Pitt contained Louisville's explosive offense for a half -- and even held a halftime lead for the first time in two games -- but could not control the high-scoring Cardinals in the second half and lost its third straight game, 29-7, at Pitt Stadium.

For the first time in two games, Pitt (1-3) held its opponent scoreless in the first quarter. In fact, Louisville (5-0), which entered the game averaging 40 points a game, did not score until midway through the second period, when the Cardinals produced a 14-play, 45-yard scoring drive that ended with a 30-yard field goal by Louisville's David Akers. Akers added another field goal less than five minutes later to give the Cardinals a 6-0 advantage.

Pitt tailback Curtis Martin set up Pitt's score with a 59-yard run that appeared to have been stopped after just a short gain. But, Martin bounced from a pack of would-be tacklers and raced downfield before being stopped at Louisville's 22-yard line. The junior tailback, who finished with a career-high 175 yards on 25 carries, capped the drive with a six-yard burst, and freshman Steve Kalmanides added the PAT, giving Pitt a 7-6 halftime lead.

Martin finished the first half with 101 yards on 13 carries, but the Pitt offense managed little production in the second half. Louisville capitalized on two fluke plays and converted them into touchdowns. Louisville's first TD was set up by a tipped pass that was eventually caught by Aaron Bailey at the Pitt 2-yard line. The second score was the result of John Ryan's errant pass that bounced off the heels of Pitt flanker Billy Davis and into the hands of Louisville linebacker Tom Cavallo, which he returned 42 yards for a TD. The Cardinals added their final TD with 4:21 remaining in the game to seal the victory.

Defensively, the Panthers registered a season-high four sacks and forced one interception. Middle linebacker Tom Tumulty led the team with 12 tackles and one sack. Senior cornerback Maurice Williams collected the first interception of his Pitt career and also deflected a team-high four passes. Linebacker Hayes Clark, and defensive ends Mike Halapin and Zlati Moody, each recorded a sack for the Panthers.

Notre Dame 44 Pitt 0

October 9, 1993

SOUTH BEND, Ind. -- Heading into the Notre Dame game a decided underdog, Pitt kept the game close for more than a half before the nationally ranked Fighting Irish exerted their power and cruised to a 44-0 victory in an NBC nationally televised game at Notre Dame Stadium.

The shutout was Pitt's first scoreless game since a 45-0 contest against Miami on Nov. 5, 1990, at the Orange Bowl.

Notre Dame (5-0) scored its first points of the game 6 minutes into the contest, when Lee Becton ran eight yards for the TD. Pittsburgh native Ray Zellars added a 19-yard TD run early in the second quarter, and after a missed PAT attempt, Notre Dame led 13-0. The Fighting Irish threatened on their next two offensive series, but the Pitt defense forced consecutive turnovers -- a fumble and an interception -- and the half ended with Pitt trailing by just 13-0.

The Panther defense held Notre Dame on its initial series of the second half, stopping Notre Dame on a fourth-and-four from the Pitt 28-yard line. Pitt's offense could not convert, though, and the Fighting Irish scored on their next four offensive possessions to put the game out of reach.

Defensively, the Panthers were led by cornerback Maurice Williams, who finished with a team-high nine tackles (seven solos) and had his second interception of the season. Strong safety David Sumner, returning from a shoulder injury, also collected his second interception to go along with his six tackles.

October 16, 1993

PITTSBURGH -- Pitt nearly produced its second major upset of the season, but came up short and was defeated by nationally ranked Syracuse, 24-21, in Pitt's Homecoming game at Pitt Stadium.

The Panthers had an opportunity for what could have been a game-clinching touchdown with two minutes left in the game, but tailback Curtis Martin was stopped a yard short on a fourth-and-two situation at the Syracuse three-yard line. Pitt could have tied the game with a relatively close field-goal attempt, but Head Coach John Majors elected to go for a go-ahead touchdown. Syracuse improved to 4-1-1 (1-1 in the Big East) with the victory.

Playing its best overall game of the season, Pitt (1-5, 0-2) scored quickly on an 84-yard punt return by sophomore Jay Jones on the fourth play from scrimmage. It was Pitt's first punt return for a touchdown since 1989 and Jones's first Pitt career TD. Pitt's defense held the Orangemen's explosive offense in check throughout most of the first half. The Panthers stopped Syracuse's only scoring drive of the first quarter, and when kicker Pat O'Neil sent a field goal attempt wide left, Pitt held a 7-0 first-quarter lead.

Syracuse's big-play offense struck early in the second quarter on a 64-yard bomb from quarterback Marvin Graves to wide receiver Marvin Harrison. After another Syracuse TD, Pitt added a 31-yard field goal by Steve Kalmanides with 2:15 in the half to slice Syracuse's halftime margin to 14-10.

Kalmanides opened the second-half scoring with his second field goal of the day, before Syracuse increased its advantage to 21-13 on another big play, a 37-yard pass from Graves to Harrison. Martin, who finished with a career-high 206 yards on 37 carries, tied the game at 21-21 by scoring on a three-yard TD dive and then adding the ensuing two-point conversion on a pass from John Ryan. On Syracuse's next offensive possession, though, the Orangemen connected on another long pass play, a 59 yarder from Graves to tight end Eric Chenoweth, setting up Syracuse's game-winning field goal.

Pitt quarterback John Ryan finished with one of his most efficient performances this season, completing 13 of 20 passes for 192 yards and no interceptions.

Defensively, the Panthers were led by middle linebacker Tom Tumulty's nine tackles, while defensive end Mike Halapin collected the first interception of his Pitt career.

1993 Game-By-Game Review

GAME 7

West Virginia 42 Pitt 21

October 23, 1993

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. -- For the first time in seven years, the home team won the Pitt-West Virginia game, when the nationally ranked Mountaineers, powered by a balanced offense that produced 574 yards in total offense, defeated Pitt, 42-21, at Mountaineer Field.

With the victory, West Virginia (6-0, 2-0) remained undefeated and in contention for the Big East title. Pitt (1-6, 0-3) once again had several early opportunities to claim an upset victory, but self destructed with penalties and turnovers.

After West Virginia opened the scoring on its initial series, Pitt answered with its own TD, set up by Curtis Martin's splendid 86-yard run to the WVU 1-yard line. On the next play, freshman Billy West scored the first TD of his career -- and the first rushing TD by any other Pitt back besides Martin to that point of the season. The Mountaineers took the lead again, but the Panthers came back with a 78-yard scoring drive, capped by Martin's 2-yard run, to tie the score at 14-14 at the end of the first quarter.

WVU capitalized on several Pitt miscues in the second quarter, including two interceptions and five penalties for 50 yards, to build a 28-14 halftime advantage.

Despite some nifty running by fullback Chad Dukes, who finished with a career-high 109 yards on 10 carries, Pitt could not sustain any offense and managed only 17 yards through the air in the second half. The Mountaineers scored 14 points in the final quarter to seal the victory.

Martin, who was off to another outstanding game, missed most of the second half with a shoulder injury. He finished with 94 yards and one TD on 12 carries. His 86-yard run was the fourth-longest run in Pitt history.

Defensively, the Panthers were led by linebacker Jon McCray, who registered a career-high 15 tackles, and had a sack and forced fumble. Defensive tackle Matt Hosilyk collected his first career interception -- marking the second consecutive week a Pitt defensive lineman had an interception -- and rambled 43 yards, the longest interception return of the season for Pitt.

GAME 8

Pitt 21 Rutgers 10

October 28, 1993

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. -- Pitt worked its Thursday night ESPN magic once again to upset Rutgers, 21-10, at Giants Stadium, while snapping a six-game losing streak and capturing its first Big East Conference victory of the season.

Producing their best overall performance of the season and playing without their most potent offensive weapon -- Curtis Martin -- the Panthers (2-6, 1-3) claimed their second upset of the season on an ESPN Thursday night telecast. With the victory, Pitt improved its series record against Rutgers to 10-1.

After Rutgers opened the scoring on a 42-yard field goal by kicker John Benestad, Pitt took the lead for good with less than three minutes left in the first quarter, when freshman Billy West capped an eight-play, 78-yard scoring drive with a five-yard run.

Pitt added another TD six minutes into the second quarter on a three-yard pass from John Ryan to Junior Green for a 14-3 halftime lead. But the story of the first half was Pitt's defense. Playing one of its most inspired games of the season, the Panther defense thwarted three Rutgers drives deep in Pitt territory and forced two Rutgers turnovers during the first half. The Scarlet Knights entered the game with the fourth-highest scoring offense in the country and had not committed a turnover in their four previous games.

The Panthers opened the second half with their most impressive scoring drive of the season, marching 78 yards on 13 plays, culminated by West's two-yard TD, his second touchdown run of the game. Pitt's defense forced two more Rutgers fumbles and yielded only one score in the second half, a 40-yard scramble by quarterback Ray Lucas.

West, making his first career start for the injured Curtis Martin, finished with a career-high 108 yards and two TDs on 20 carries.

The Pitt defense, which registered a season-high seven sacks, was led by defensive tackle Tom Barndt, who finished with five solo tackles, including a career-high four sacks, and forced a fumble. Middle linebacker Tom Tumulty was Pitt's leading tackler with 16 total tackles (13 solos). Outside linebacker Jon McCray had 13 tackles (six solos), while linebacker mate Gerald Simpson, making his first start since injuring his knee early in the Virginia Tech game, registered 11 tackles, including six solo stops. Strong safety David Sumner collected his third interception of the season.

GAME 9

Miami 35 Pitt 7

November 6, 1993

PITTSBURGH -- Pitt surrendered two scores in the first five minutes of the game and faced a ferocious Miami pass rush that registered nine quarterback sacks and, despite a strong second-half performance, lost to number-four ranked Miami, 35-7, at Pitt Stadium.

The Hurricanes (7-1, 5-0) unleashed a swarming defense that limited the Panthers (2-7, 1-4) to just 138 yards in total offense and only 19 net yards rushing. Miami's offense countered with 516 yards in total offense, including 228 yards rushing.

Miami quickly took command of the game in the opening five minutes, when the Hurricanes scored on their second play from scrimmage and also on their second offensive possession to build a 14-0 advantage. Miami added two more TDs in the second quarter for a 28-0 lead at halftime. While the Miami offense was constructing its big margin, the Hurricane defense was shutting down Pitt's offense, recording three sacks and limiting the Panthers to just 67 net offensive yards in the first half.

Pitt began the second half with an impressive offensive series, marching 62 yards on 11 plays, but could not convert and was stopped on the Miami 3-yard line. The third quarter ended with neither team scoring.

The Panthers scored first in the fourth quarter. Following a 70-yard punt by freshman Nate Cochran, which was downed at the Miami two-yard line, the Pitt defense set up the Panthers' only score of the game when backup linebacker Tony Reardon intercepted a deflected pass and carried several Miami tacklers before being stopped within a foot of the goal line. One play later Billy West leaped for his fifth rushing touchdown of the season, slicing Miami's lead to 28-7.

The Hurricanes answered that score quickly on their next play from scrimmage, when Lawrence Jones broke free for an 88-yard TD run for the 35-7 final.

The Panther defense forced two interceptions, continuing Pitt's trend of at least one interception in every game so far this season. Middle linebacker Tom Tumulty recorded a team-high 14 tackles (10 solos) and also had a sack and two pass deflections.

GAME 10

Boston College 33 Pitt 0

November 13, 1993

PITTSBURGH -- Pitt closed its 1993 home schedule when nationally ranked Boston College defeated the Panthers, 33-0, at Pitt Stadium.

Boston College (7-2, 5-1) opened a 16-0 lead in the first 10 minutes of the game and Pitt (2-8, 1-5) could not recover. With the victory, Boston College clinched at least third place in the Big East Football Conference standings and a bowl berth. The loss marked the first time since the 1967 season that Pitt went through a season without winning a home contest.

The Eagles wasted little time building a lead and scored on their first two offensive possessions. Boston College marched 80 yards on its initial offensive series for a 7-0 advantage less than six minutes into the game, and then went 84 yards in only four plays less than five minutes later for a second TD. The Eagles muffed the extra-point attempt and led 13-0 after the first 10 minutes.

Pitt orchestrated its most impressive offensive drive of the game on the ensuing series. But the drive ended without any score when placekicker Steve Kalmanides' 30-yard field goal attempt sailed wide left. After a Pitt offside penalty nullified a missed BC field goal as time expired in the half, Boston College converted its second opportunity with a 36-yard field goal for a 16-0 halftime lead.

Boston College took control of the game in the second half, scoring once again on its first two offensive possessions for a 30-0 margin. Pitt managed just 50 yards in total offense in the second half. The Eagles added a field goal early in the fourth quarter for the 33-0 victory.

Pitt running back Curtis Martin finished with a team-high 51 yards on 16 carries. Wide receiver Junior Green, one of eight seniors honored in a pregame ceremony, had four receptions for 41 yards before leaving the game with bruised ribs.

The Pitt defense was led by linebacker Jon McCray with 13 tackles, including nine solo stops. Cornerback Maurice Williams kept Pitt's streak of consecutive games with an interception intact with his third of the season.

GAME 11

Pitt 28 Temple 18

November 20, 1993

PHILADELPHIA -- Pitt concluded its 1993 football season the way it began -- with a victory -- bringing an end to the first season of the second John Majors era at Pitt with a 28-18 win against Temple at Veterans Stadium.

But Temple, which entered the game with a 1-9 record, gave Pitt all it could handle. It was not until Curtis Martin broke free on an 80-yard sprint with 4:39 left in the game that Pitt secured its third victory of the season and second Big East conference win. Pitt finished with a 3-8 record overall and a 2-5 Big East mark.

Pitt started the game strongly and on its initial offensive series drove to the Temple nine-yard line. But the drive ended at the nine-yard line, where Martin's fumble was recovered by Temple's Cory Green. Neither team managed much offense the rest of the quarter, and the game remained scoreless, until Temple quarterback Henry Burris connected with Sidney Morse on a seven-yard TD pass to give Temple a 7-0 lead 1:57 into the second quarter. The Owls added another score six minutes later, when Rich Maston connected on a 47-yard field goal, giving Temple a 10-0 advantage. Pitt cut the lead to 10-7 on a 1-yard run by Billy West with 2:23 remaining in the half.

The Panthers produced two scores in the third period -- a 1-yard burst by Martin and a 15-yard run by West with 24 seconds remaining in the third quarter -- to increase their lead to 21-10 at the end of three periods. Temple, though, countered with a TD and successful two-point conversion with 4:54 left in the game to pull to within 21-18, before Martin sealed Pitt's victory with his run, which put him over the 1,000-yard rushing mark for the season.

Martin finished with 167 yards and two TDs on 29 carries. Ryan had one of his most efficient games, completing 14 of 22 passes for 177 yards with one interception.

Inside linebacker Jon McCray led Pitt with 13 tackles (11 solos), while Gerald Simpson finished with 13 tackles (10 solos.)

OFFENSE: Brian Curran, Offensive Guard

DEFENSE: Mike Mohring, Defensive End

The Ed Conway Memorial Award

Ed Conway, the "Voice of Pitt Football" for four years, was a sportscaster in Pittsburgh before his death in 1974. He was an honest, hard working professional, and above all, a friend.

In appreciation of Ed Conway's work, and in keeping alive memories of him, Pitt football presents an award in his honor annually to the most improved offensive and defensive players each spring.

HISTORY

A Legacy of Success

A simple accounting of the University of Pittsburgh's football accomplishments during its first 104 years would lead to an unmistakable conclusion: Pitt has a football heritage rich with achievement and glory.

Its nine national championships rank Pitt sixth in NCAA annals. The football program has produced 81 first-team All-Americans, and ranks sixth among Division 1-A schools with 39 consensus All-Americans. Only 14 schools have more victories than Pitt's 566. Pitt players have won the Heisman Trophy, the Maxwell Award, the Walter Camp Award, the Outland Trophy, and the Lombardi Trophy.

Sixteen men associated with Pitt football—players and coaches alike—have been elected to the College Football Hall of Fame, and more are on the way. There have been approximately 200 former Panthers who have played in the National Football League, while 11 men have coached in the league, including Marty Schottenheimer, head coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, and Dave Wannstedt, head coach of the Chicago Bears who replaced another Pitt man—Mike Ditka.

Any listing of Pitt's gridiron immortals is a roll call of football greatness. The names Joe Thompson, Pop Warner, Jock Sutherland, Hube Wagner, Bob Peck, Tommy Davies, George McLaren, Joe Skladany, Herb Stein, Charles Hartwig, Glibby Welch, Ave Daniell, Marshall Goldberg, Bill Daddio, Joe Schmidt, Mike Ditka, Tony Dorsett, Hugh Green, Ricky Jackson, Mark May, Russ Grimm, Dan Marino, Jimbo Covert, Bill Fralic, and Chris Doleman hardly scratch the surface.

But Pitt football is about more than its great players, its victories, its awards, and its championships. It is also about courage and character and unified commitment — from first-team All-Americans to fourth-team reserves, in undefeated seasons and in years when the victory total could be counted on one finger.

While Jock Sutherland was coaching at Pitt, he once wrote an article for The Saturday Evening Post, in which he said:

"I honestly do not want to have my teams undefeated, untied, and unscored upon. [Our schedules] are deliberately arranged so that we won't win all of our games. Our idea is to play each fall the toughest set of opponents we can assemble on one schedule and then sock it to as many of them as we can.

"But at some point in the season, we want to have to face the situation of seeing whether we have what it takes to rebound after a defeat, and give perhaps one that beat us the week before the whole works. We want to demonstrate to the players and to the spectators that tomorrow is another day...

and that one or two defeats are only temporary setbacks which can be canceled at the next opportunity."

Anyone who understood Sutherland would know he truly meant that. He believed more than anything in developing character.

The strong character associated with Pitt football through the decades, both in good times and in bad, perhaps can be traced to the mettle of the city of Pittsburgh and the surrounding Western Pennsylvania region.

It is an area that grew up around the steel industry, a city that used to be lit up 24 hours a day, with the night sky glowing from furnaces that burned so fiercely they were sometimes described as "hell on earth."

The close-knit ethnic neighborhoods in the cities and towns of the region spawned a strong sense of family and commitment. The relentless work ethic learned in the mills was passed along from generation-to-generation. Pride and inner toughness came from overcoming adversity and persevering in the face of long odds.

Some of these things surely have played a role in the tradition of Pitt football, permeating the players and coaches so profoundly that the football program itself has reflected the region's own strength, power, and purpose.

And like the surrounding region, which has been forced to weather the death of the steel industry and other hard times, so too has Pitt football endured difficult periods. But also like Pittsburgh, which has been reborn into a thriving city teeming with new opportunities, so has Pitt football always bounced back from its periods of drought. It has to do with mental tenacity and the will to win.

"There is a drive, a desire to succeed that is instilled in virtually every player that comes out of the University of Pittsburgh," says Kansas City Chiefs Head Coach Marty Schottenheimer, an outstanding linebacker at Pitt in the early 1960s. "I've been around a lot of players, both as a player myself and as a coach, and I haven't seen that same trait from the players from any other school.

"I can't exactly put my finger on why it's there, because I'm sure every team and coach attempts to teach a desire to be the best, as well as instilling an attitude of mental toughness. But it seems the players coming out of Pitt all get those qualities, ones that help not only on the football field, but in most other challenging professions of life."

More than the victories and the honors, the bonds that are established in quest to succeed sum up more than anything else the essence of Pitt football.

The University's administration took a "Major" step forward in December 1992, when it named John Majors its 32nd head football coach. Majors, who spent the previous 16 seasons at the University of Tennessee, directed Pitt's modern football renaissance when he inherited a program in 1973 that had been 1-10 the previous season. Majors coached Pitt to four consecutive winning seasons, including a national championship performance in 1976.

As evidenced by Majors' first stay at Pitt, the Panther program has been to the mountaintop more than once; both the climb and the view can be breathtaking. As Majors leads the program into a new era of competition -- Pitt's fourth season in the Big East Football Conference -- he too has set the sights high for Pitt to return to the summit.

Rating Systems

To settle countless arguments, Sports Illustrated in 1970 researched the first and only complete and wholly accurate list ever compiled of college football's mythical national champions. Every recognized authority that ever presumed to name a No. 1 is included:

Associated Press (1936-current); poll of sports-writers and broadcasters.

Park H. Davis Ratings (1889-1935); chosen by Davis, a player at Princeton in 1889 and a former coach at Wisconsin, Amherst and Lafayette, and first published in the 1934 Spaulding's Football Guide.

Dickinson System (1924-40); chosen by University of Illinois economics professor Frank G. Dickinson; based on system that awarded various point totals for wins over teams with winning or non-winning records.

Dunkel System (1929-current); a power index rating system devised by Dick Dunkel and syndicated to newspapers around the nation.

Football Writers Association of America (1954-current); chosen by a five-man committee representing membership.

Helms First Interstate Bank Athletic Foundation (1889-current); originally founded in 1936 as Helms Athletic Foundation and changed in early 1970s to Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation before current name was adopted in 1981.

Illustrated Football Annual (1924-41); an "azazel" system published in this highly regarded magazine by William F. Board.

Litkenhouse System (1934-current); a "difference-by-score" method syndicated by Fred Litkenhouse and his brother Edward.

National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame (1959-current); chosen annually by committee representing membership.

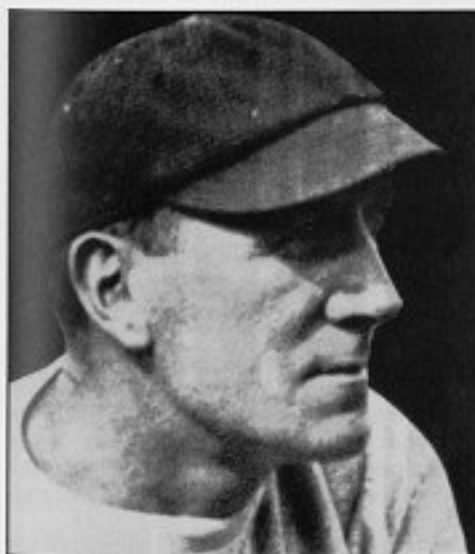

The Football Thesaurus (1927-58); system devised by Duke Houlgate and published in book of same title.

United Press International (1950-current); poll of 35 college coaches.

Origins Of Pitt Football

In 1889, a spindly, 130-pound lad named Burt Smyers graduated from Bucknell Academy and went on to Western University of Pennsylvania. That autumn, along with a senior named John D. Scott, Smyers gathered a small, curious, group of students together into the first organized football team at the University.

Only three members of what Smyers later called "our motley crew" had ever even seen a football contest before enlisting their services. Smyers installed himself as the quarterback. Scott, also a baseball pitcher, became a center. Frank Rhea and John McGrew were the guards; Harry Calvert and A.B. McGrew were the tackles. Calvert's brother, George, was an end, along with E. C. Shaler, an opera singer. Joe Griggs and Billy Gill were the halfbacks. The fullback was John Hansen.

That group played a game against Shadyside Academy, which it lost. "We had a long way to go before we could tear down any goal posts," Smyers recalled years later.

Pat Hartrich and Albert Marshall replaced the original ends for the first true "season" of play in 1890, and George Neale took Hansen's place at fullback.

"We started out with one football each fall and used it in every game and every practice," Smyers said. "We furnished our own uniforms and paid our own traveling expenses."

"Our equipment really was thrown together. In my own case, I had no money to spend recklessly, so I wrote home to mother and told her I needed a pair of football pants. She made them by cutting off the legs of an old grey pair and putting rubber elastic around the knees.

"The stockings were contributed by my sister. The girls wore heavier stockings than they do now. Football players also wore jackets, and I tried to describe in a letter to my mother that they were made of canvas. But the only canvas she had was from some old oat sacks around the barn. So she made me a vest of that with laces from an old corset, and I was all ready to play."

The uniforms were primitive, and it was a different game as well.

"Those were days of the flying wedge and every five-yard advance meant a first down," Smyers said. "We had four plays: end run, line buck, punt, and a lateral pass. We played our games at Expo Park and our crowds ranged from 50 to 100 people."

Many games in the early years involved high schools and athletic clubs; in fact, only 27 of the school's 56 games in the 1890s were intercollegiate.

The inaugural season's first game, on October 11, 1890, actually was something of a fluke. When a game scheduled between the Shadyside Academy and Allegheny Athletic Association was canceled because Shadyside failed to show, Western's team

"We started out with one football each fall and used it in every game and every practice. We furnished our own uniforms and paid our own traveling expenses."

--Burt Smyers

Colonel Joe Thompson was a team captain, later a successful coach, and a World War I hero.

was summoned to Exposition Park. Allegheny AA won the game, 38-0.

Western also began the first of many long-standing rivalries in 1890 when it lost, 32-0, to Washington and Jefferson. The game between Western and Washington and Jefferson the following year was a rough affair, with game accounts describing Harry Calvert's head being split open, and Smyers having his nose broken. The final score added insult to injury: W & J 40, WUP 6.

The two schools enjoyed a great rivalry and would meet 33 times before the series ended after the 1935 season.

Joe Trees, a talented 210-pound tackle, became Pitt's first subsidized athlete in 1891.

"We had played a few practice games with Indiana Normal (now Indiana University of Pennsylvania)," Smyers recalled, "and Trees was the biggest man on the Indiana team. I asked him if he'd like to come and play at Pitt. He said he would, but he didn't have any money."

"I arranged for the various classes at Pitt to take care of him. One class paid his tuition, another his room, and another his board."

Trees, who later made millions in oil, never forgot his alma mater, and maintained close ties with the University until his death in 1943. "Call on Joe" became a byword at Pitt, and he always came through for his alma mater. If the band wanted to make a trip to a big game but lacked funds, he would be there with his checkbook. He donated $100,000 to Trees Gymnasium, deeded the practice field to the school, gave $75,000 to the building of Alumni Hall, and bought $200,000 worth of stadium bonds.

After finishing 2-5 in 1891, WUP posted its first winning record in 1892, ending with a 4-2 mark.

The following season Western hired Anson F. Harold as its first true coach, but the team slipped to a 1-4 record.

Dr. Fred Robinson, a former Penn State player, took over as head coach in 1898 and guided the team to a 5-2-1 record, and followed that up the next year with a 3-1-1 mark.

Dr. M. Roy Jackson succeeded Robinson in 1900, and led WUP to a 5-4 record. Then Wilber D. Hockensmith coached the team in 1901, posting a 7-2-1 record.

Hockensmith also played in the late 1890s. The following are some of his recollections from the period around the turn of the century:

"In the fall of 1897, about 16 boys enrolled in the Western University of Pennsylvania who had played football in their hometowns or for preparatory schools. A student in the School of Law named Thomas Trenchard, who had graduated from Princeton, coached the varsity team. He had been quite famous as an end, and was known to players and fans as 'Doggie' Trenchard. The varsity, in those days, was composed mostly of seniors and graduate students; only upper-classmen and postgraduates were considered physically strong enough to play football as it was played at that time.

The freshmen entering in 1897 organized a class team and began to play teams whenever they could be scheduled. Each player purchased his own nose guards, shin guards, shoes, and moleskin vests, which were then in vogue, and all contributed to a fund to buy a football for the first game.

"We played some of our games in the late 1890s at Recreational Park, but in 1901 we obtained the Schenley Oval for our games, introducing football to the Schenley district for the first time. The games were free to all who wished to attend."

The 1904 campaign began a string of eight consecutive winning seasons, including a 10-0 record under Arthur St. L. Mosse that year and a 10-2 mark in 1905; a 6-4 mark under E. R. Wingard in 1906, and 8-2 under scholarly John Moorhead, a Yale product, in 1907.

In 1908, Joe Thompson, a member of the undefeated 1904 squad and the captain of the 1905 team, took over as head coach through the 1912 season. Thompson was followed by Joseph Duff, who coached the Panthers until 1915, when Pop Warner took over.

The Pop Warner Era

Glen Scobey "Pop" Warner coached at Pitt from 1915-23, and under his command the Panthers evolved into a national power. His teams were 59-12-4 (.787) and were recognized as national champions in 1915, 1916 (unanimously), and 1918 (unanimously).

Some of the greatest players in Pitt history including Bob Peck, George McLaren, Tommy Davies, Herb Stein, Andy Hastings, Tiny Thornhill, H.C. "Doc" Carlson, Leonard Hilty, Dale Seis, Jack Sack, Pud Seidel, and Jock Sutherland, played under Warner.

Warner, a stalwart, 200-pound guard at Cornell in the early 1890s, when Pitt's own football program was finding its legs, began his coaching career at Georgia in 1895. He returned to Cornell in 1897, and two years later took charge at the government school for Indians at Carlisle, where he was football coach, athletic director, baseball, track, and boxing coach through 1914 except for 1904, 1905, and 1906, when he was back at Cornell.

He left Pitt in 1924 for Stanford, where he remained through 1932. He returned East to coach Temple from 1933-38, after which he retired from active coaching. His nine-year record at Pitt was 59-12-4, and his overall career mark was 313-106-32.

Few coaches in the history of college football have influenced their players—and their peers—as significantly as Warner.

"His was a contemplative and deliberate mind," wrote Allison Danzig in The History of American Football. "It was behind the scenes, in the quiet of his study, that the genius of Warner, a tinkerer whose hobby was to take apart worn-out automobile engines and put them together again, found its expression. There he worked out the stratagems, and devised the departures from orthodox football that won him recognition as one of the two most fertile and original minds football has known, the other's being Amos Alonzo Stagg.

"Warner was preeminently a creator, and his fame is secure as one of the trail-blazers who led football out of the wilderness of massed, close-order, push-and-pull play into the more open game of speed, deception, and brains. His was one of the more intelligent and visionary minds that helped bring about the evolution of football from a mere physical test of unimaginative brute strength to a contest of skill in which the college youth was given the chance to show that there was something underneath his long hair besides a skull.

Coach Pop Warner's Pitt teams (1915-23) produced the first dominant era of Panther football excellence.

"There can be no questioning that Warner ranks among the greatest coaches football has known, and that he ranks second to none in the imagination, perception, and originality he brought to bear in moving eleven men upon a plain of turf."

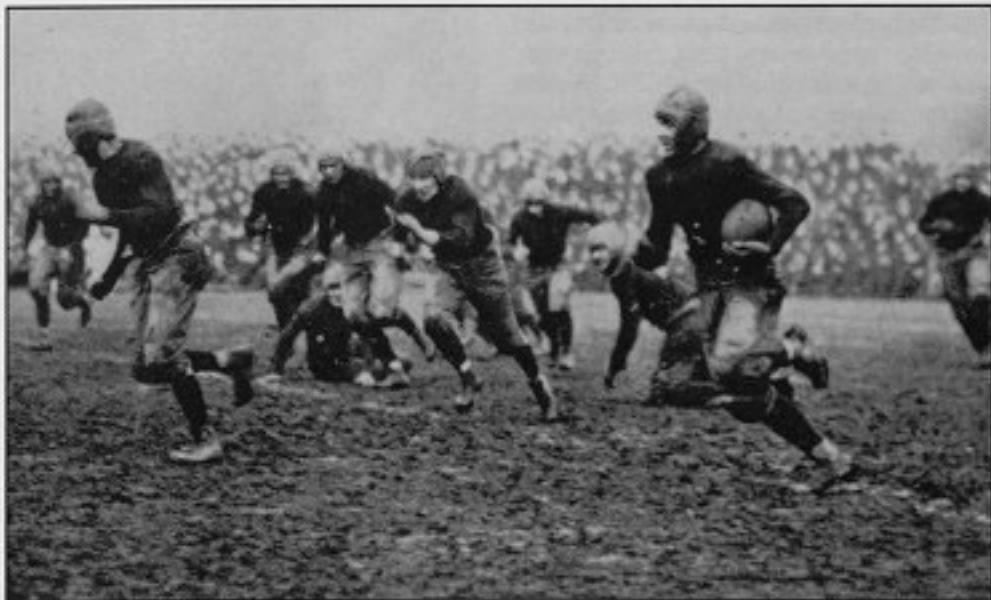

His teams operated from both the single wing and the double wing, inventions which sprang from his imagination. From those formations he used a bewildering set of spins, reverses, double reverses, fake reverses, runs from fake passes, and passes from fake runs.

Red Smith wrote in the New York Herald Tribune in 1954, "Pop Warner was a gruff old gent, kind and forthright and obstinate and honest. He was one of the few truly original minds in football coaching, and that made him a big man in his world. There is, however, a more important measure of a football coach than his contribution to and influence on the technique of the game. The quality of the man himself is revealed in the attitude of his former players after they have outgrown the awed hero worship of undergraduate days. After the boys who played for him had become men, Pop remained a hero to them."

That was certainly true of his Pitt players.

Doc Carlson, an All-American end under Warner and for 31 years a Hall of Fame basketball coach at Pitt, wrote of Warner in a letter dated March, 1953, "Over the years Glenn S. Warner proved himself to be most ingenious in football and in many of the harassing details of everyday life. From the repair of a newspaperman's eyeglasses to the invention of player equipment and the origin and development of football plays, Warner filled in many details to make a wonderful experience of association with him. Personality, originality, and the promotion of kindly human relationships are only part of the great trademarks of Glenn Scobey Warner. You couldn't tell any of his boys there was a finer gentleman, or a greater coach."

The 1917 Panthers finished the season with a 9-0 record, and shut out six of their opponents.

Jock Sutherland: A Football Man

The legacy of John Bain "Jock" Sutherland is perhaps best summed up this way: He was a football man.

Sutherland, a native of Scotland who, according to legend, played in the first football game he ever saw, is Pitt football's all-time crown jewel. Both as an All-America guard for the Panthers during a brilliant four-year playing career under Pop Warner, and later as a Hall of Fame coach whose dominating teams were knighted as national champions five times, he set impeccable standards of excellence at Pitt.

Sutherland became a larger than life figure not only at Pitt, but throughout the college football world.

When he died unexpectedly of a brain tumor in 1948, the city of Pittsburgh and the sporting world mourned the loss of one of the truly great men in sports.

"Jock, above all, was a leader," said the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette in an editorial upon his death. "This impressed you at once on first meeting him. Character, restraint, and sincerity were written in his bearing."

"There is nothing anybody can say about the passing of Jock Sutherland that isn't felt in the heart of every man and woman in Pittsburgh. In any list of the district's assets, he was close to the top."

Johnny Sutherland was one of seven children born to Mary Burns Sutherland, a descendant of the poet, Robert Burns. When his father, Archibald, suffered a fatal internal rupture trying to save the life of a fellow worker pinned under a fallen girder, Mary Sutherland sent young Johnny to America to join relatives here and escape from a life of certain poverty in Scotland.

When he arrived in America, the 16-year-old Sutherland was determined to educate himself and get ahead. After working his way through several prep schools, including one job as a night policeman in the Pittsburgh suburb of Sewickley, he entered Pitt's School of Dentistry in 1914.

During his early years in America, Sutherland focused his sturdy, 6-4, 210-pound frame on soccer, the game most popular in his native Scotland. But when Joe Duff, the Pitt football coach in 1914, got one look at this tall, strapping Scot, he convinced him to try his hand at football.

By the second game of the season, "Jock," as he came to be known, became a starting guard. He flourished at the game. Like a bridge player who understands the system behind the play, Sutherland sensed the reasons for the moves on the gridiron, and he developed into one of the greatest guards in Pitt history. He became an All-American under Pop Warner, who succeeded Duff as head coach in 1915.

During his four years as a player, Sutherland only tasted defeat once; the Panthers were undefeated in his final three seasons, and were recognized as national champions in 1915 and 1916. Sutherland also had a perfect record, as both a player and a coach, against Penn State. The taste he acquired for victory as a player would carry over into his brilliant coaching career.

After a tour in the Army, during which he coached several camp teams, he accepted an offer in 1919 to become the head coach at Lafayette College. He spent five years at Lafayette, producing an eastern championship team in 1921, and defeating Pitt twice in a row.

When Pop Warner left Pitt for Stanford in 1924, Sutherland returned to his alma mater as head coach, where he remained through the 1938 season.

There was a touch of grandeur to Sutherland. Tall, strong, ruggedly handsome, with a formidable jaw and piercing blue eyes, "Jock Sutherland," wrote Look Magazine's Tim Cohane, "had a strength of mind, body, and purpose as unshakable and craggy as the hills enveloping his native Coupar Angus."

He was a commanding, almost majestic figure, an austere man of few words with a reserve not even his players could break down. To those who did not know him, he could seem forbidding. As a result, he earned a few unflattering nicknames over the years, including "the Great Stone Face," and the "dour Scot."

"But in his relaxed hours," wrote New York sportswriter Joe Williams, "which were not infrequent, there could not have been a more companionable man. His soft, pleasing voice rolled with the thistle of his native Scotland. He had wit and wisdom and a certain grace."

Jock Sutherland

None of his players ever dreamed of addressing Sutherland, either during their playing days or in later years, as anything but "Doctor." The fierce devotion and respect they had for him lasted a lifetime.

Sutherland was a stern taskmaster. He sometimes would set the pace for his players by striding up the long steep hill leading to Pitt Stadium and insisting that his players do the same. He admonished those who hitched a ride from a passing car, in his Scottish burr, to "get off that curr." The penalty for those he caught riding up the hill: extra laps.

Sutherland never criticized a player publicly, and was privately considerate of them, especially in bad times. He was their champion, who fought tirelessly for them, who encouraged them and who rejoiced proudly in every advance each made both during their college days and long afterward.

"Although he was a driver, an exacting teacher, a stern disciplinarian, Sutherland's players knew he was interested in their futures," Cohane wrote. "He steered many of them into the professions. They knew also that he was inwardly warm, sympathetic to their problems, always their defender. When they lost, they had a feeling they had betrayed him."

That didn't happen often. In his 15 years as coach at Pitt, the Panthers compiled a brilliant 111-20-12 record. Four times, playing a rugged schedule, his teams were undefeated. Five times they were invited to the Rose Bowl. Five times they were recognized as national champions.

Pitt played Notre Dame six times from 1932-1937, and the Panthers claimed victory five times. After a decisive 21-6 loss to Pitt in 1937, Irish Coach Elmer Layden decided "no mas" and reasoned Notre Dame would be better off not playing the Panthers. "I'm through with Pittsburgh," Layden said. "We haven't got a chance. They not only knock our ears back, but we are no good the next week. I'm calling off the Pittsburgh series."

Notre Dame was just one of the powerful teams Pitt faced in those years. Sutherland insisted on playing the most formidable schedule possible, and as a result he generally resisted pointing his team for any one game. For the most part, as far as the Pitt players were concerned, one opponent was just like another. They were taught to have a high regard for all of their opponents and to go—as Jock put it—helter-skelter from whistle-to-whistle.

He managed to keep his players at a high level all season by coaching them in a calm, professional manner. Locker room histrionics had no place in his system. There were no known "Win one for the Gipper" pep talks from Sutherland.

Before a game he would tell his players what he wanted them to do. At halftime he would inform them if they had failed to do that. If they were losing at halftime, he wouldn't whip them into a fury by screaming at them, pleading with them, or shedding tears over the calamity about to befall the old alma mater.

Consequently, Sutherland's teams didn't rush out of the locker room in a lather. He simply didn't believe in furious football—the fighting, crying, hysterical kind of football. He wanted his players to fight hard all the way. But he didn't want them to play with their heads whirling and tears of rage in their eyes. That wasn't his kind of football. His teams were known for their slamming, hammering, power football. But the force they exerted was a precision that called for clear, cold thinking rather than emotion.

Sutherland was a genius of defensive football, and his teams were always powerfully arrayed on that side of the ball.

Under his command, Pitt shut out its opponents 79 times in 15 seasons.

"His teams were hard to score on, even when you beat him, as Bernie Bierman, with two of the greatest teams in Minnesota history, found out," Grantland Rice wrote. "As great a coach as Bierman was, he needed the better material to beat Jock. They all needed better material to beat Jock. No one with inferior material ever drew a decision over Scotland's greatest football son."

Probably no football coach ever constructed a running attack with more precision, power, and sheen than Jock Sutherland. His teams were power teams, the backs running with fury behind devastating blocking.

Pitt would begin by attacking the flanks and off tackle by sweeps, cutbacks, and reverses. After the defensive line would widen to compensate, Sutherland then would attack inside tackle and up the middle.

In some ways, Sutherland wanted the center to be the best man on his team. "The running game," he said, "which is, or should be, the better part of football, depends on split-second accuracy and timing from the center. If the ball gets to the runner a tenth of a second too soon -- or too late -- the running play may be spoiled. So in looking over my talent I pick a man for center who is never rattled or hurried or upset by anything."

"Sutherland rehearsed every play as if it were an investment in millions," wrote Tim Cohane. "He would trace the blocking routes with a stick until the pulling linemen ran them to the inch and split second. No other coach came closer to reducing the running game to a pure science."

As another sportswriter of the time put it, "There was no chi-chi in Sutherland football." He scorned frills and fancy stuff. The essence of his attack, which was dubbed the Sutherland Scythe, was the unsubtle, power-animating off-tackle play from the single wing he had learned under Warner. He also introduced the double-wing formation, with which Warner had experimented when Sutherland was a player. (Warner initially had been dissatisfied with the double wing, but Sutherland recognized possibilities in it which Warner, and others, would later also recognize.)

"Jock had the finest running attack football has known," wrote Grantland Rice, "and this doesn't bar Knute Rockne, Lou Little, Percy Haughton, Hurry Up Yost, Howard Jones, Pop Warner, and anyone you can mention. Jock's great Pitt teams rumbled and blasted out their yardage in the single-wing, unbalanced line attack. When Jock had the horses, which was his custom, the Panthers' attack was something to behold."

The Dream Backfield

The glory years of Pitt under Jock Sutherland in the 1930s featured tremendous backfield play, climaxing in 1938 with the marvelous "Dream Backfield."

The formation of the "Dream Backfield," which was intact as a starting unit for that one season only—1938—evolved this way:

In 1935, Frank Patrick was a triple-threat fullback, and shared the job with fellow sophomore Bill Stapulis; they were interchangeable for the next three years. The right halfback was junior Bobby LaRue, the climax man in Pitt's dreaded deep reverse, and, according to one scribe, "the neatest, most elusive runner Jock Sutherland ever had."

In 1936, a pair of flashy sophomore halfbacks joined Patrick, Stapulis, and LaRue in the Panther backfield: Marshall Goldberg, a compact sophomore fire-brand from Elkins, West Virginia, and Harold "Curly" Stebbins, a rangy all-purpose back from Williamsport, Pennsylvania. John Chickemeo, another young sophomore from Warren, Ohio, also entered the picture that year as an understudy quarterback behind John Michelosen.

Goldberg—who was named All-America at left halfback—Stebbins, Stapulis and Patrick were joined by a new sophomore phenom in 1937, Dick Cassiano. With such a deep and gifted stable of running backs, and with the clever Michelosen and Chickemeo sharing the quarterbacking job, Sutherland had an embarrassment of backfield riches. In fact, although the quartet of Goldberg, Stebbins, Cassiano, and Chickemeo would be dubbed the "Dream Backfield" the following season and would earn more fame as a unit, Pitt's 1937 backfield wrecking crew was much deeper at every position, and helped the Panthers win a national championship.

In 1938, with Patrick, Stapulis, and Michelosen gone, Sutherland felt he had to make room in the starting backfield for Cassiano, the brilliant junior from Albany, New York. Since "Dandy Dick" was a natural left halfback, and because Sutherland wanted him on the field, he asked Goldberg to switch to fullback for his senior season.

The unselfish Goldberg, who had led Pitt in rushing in 1936 (886 yards) and in 1937 (698 yards), readily complied, relinquishing his starting left halfback post to the talented, fuzzy-haired comet, Cassiano. With Chickemeo operating as the No. 1 quarterback, and Stebbins entrenched at right halfback, the Dream Backfield was in place.

The dazzling quartet became the blade of the Sutherland Scythe, earning kudos not only as the best backfield in the country, but as one of the best ever to play the game.

Fordham Coach Jimmy Crowley, one of the legendary Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, claimed the Dream Backfield was even more formidable than the immortal Irish executioners of 1924.

Crowley, who helped write football history at Notre Dame with fellow Four Horsemen Harry Stuhldreher, Elmer Layden, and Don Miller, said he never saw a backfield with the all-around capabilities of Marshall Goldberg, Curly Stebbins, John Chickemeo, and Dick Cassiano.

"The Notre Dame backs of 1924 were as fast as Goldberg, Stebbins, Cassiano, and Chickemeo," said Crowley after Pitt's 21-13 victory over Crowley's Fordham team in 1938. "We had superior passing and more skillful kicking by Layden. But we lacked the physical advantages—and consequently the power—of the four phenomenal Panthers."

"It is extremely doubtful that any backfield ever matched them for sheer power," wrote New York sportswriter Harry Grayson. "All are highly proficient and can run in either direction."

"Goldberg, who weighs 184 pounds and stands 5 feet 10, would be the best guard or end on the Pitt varsity were he not a back. Goldberg is the hardest runner of the four, and is of good speed, although he and Chickemeo are not as rapid as Curly Stebbins, and Cassiano is the speediest of the quartet."

"Strictly a team man, Goldberg sacrificed

the running position of left halfback this fall to block, and his teammates love him for it. He kicks well enough and throws a short pass with deadly accuracy.

"Chickemeo, who calls the plays, is the ideal blocker ... would rather throw a good one than score a touchdown. It doesn't pay an end to fool Chick, for the next time the Panther quarterback will swipe him right up into the bleacher seats. Chick, who scales 188 pounds and is 6 feet 1 inch tall, kicks well enough and throws a nice, long pass."

"Stebbins weighs 192 pounds and stands 6-1. He runs like a thief and can pass uncommonly well when called upon."

"Cassiano, the smallest of the lot at 172 pounds and standing 5-10, has blazing speed, drive, and bounce, and while he plays the key position of left halfback, he has a fullback's instinct of picking up that extra yard."

A Different Proving Ground

The 1940s and early 1950s were not a glorious era of success on the field for Pitt.

The University suffered the same kinds of problems as many other "big-time" schools during the war years: decline in attendance, funding shortages, transportation problems, game cancellations, the discontinuance of athletic scholarships, and reductions in recruiting.

"Some of the more fortunate colleges escaped the dragnet of trouble by using service trainees to play football," wrote Jack Henry in Hall To Pitt, "but Pitt was among those forced to survive with 17-year-old freshmen and 4-F's. An added blow was that when the Pearl Harbor tragedy occurred, Pitt had not yet recovered from the malady known as the post-Sutherland blues."

After nearly a quarter century of coaching stability in the hands of Sutherland and, before him, Pop Warner, the head coaching position turned into a revolving door.

During the 16 years from 1939-1954 — the years between the reigns of Sutherland and John Michelosen — seven coaches came and went: Charlie Bowser (1939-1942); Clark Shaughnessy (1943-1945); Wes Fesler (1946); Walt Milligan (1947-1949); Len Casanova (1950); Tom Hamilton (1951); and Red Dawson (1952-54).

The Panthers' record during that 16-year stretch was 57-84-3. There were only four winning seasons, no bowl games ... plenty of frustration. (By comparison, Pitt's record in the previous 16 years was 114-24-12, with five national championships, five Rose Bowl invitations, All-Americans galore, and the respect of the college football world.)

Yet if the '40s and early '50s represented a comparatively bleak period on the field in Pitt's football history, it also was a different kind of proving ground for the gallant young men who strove against long odds to try to reclaim Pitt's place among football's elite.

They weren't always successful, but according to Nick Bolkovac, a talented tackle and Pitt's captain in 1950, there were some different rewards for the players on those teams.

"The men of the Sutherland era, those of the Johnny Michelosen and Johnny Majors teams, and the players of the modern era have their own pockets of camaraderie," says Bolkovac, whose 23-yard interception return for a touchdown helped Pitt beat Penn State 7-0 to hand the Nittany Lions their only loss of the 1949 season. "Their accomplishments in each of their periods form a basis of understanding which bind them together."

"But those of us in the '40s suffered with the limited support the University gave us, we survived the politics, but more importantly we understood that mental and physical toughness were prerequisites for survival. We knew that intestinal fortitude and pride were required to overcome adversity and to enable us to stand toe-to-toe and to do battle with the best the country had to offer.

"We knew how the deck was stacked, but it did not deter us. Adversity was a companion we accepted as a teacher. It taught us what we were made of and what we could be. We knew who we were and what we were. We were Pitt!

"It was that determination to defeat adversity that enabled us to garner many unexpected victories and many near victories. And I believe what gave us our strength to persevere, what gave us the determination to stand up to the best, was the Pitt spirit and tradition. That tradition may have been tarnished slightly during our era, but it was never trampled upon. In many ways, it may have been Pitt's finest hour."

Pitt certainly also had its share of stars during that era. Edgar "Special Delivery" Jones was a wonderful running back in the early 1940s. He almost single-handedly helped Pitt upset a great Fordham team in 1941 with a performance that ranks among Pitt's greatest.

"It was the most amazing individual performance I have ever seen," said Fordham Head Coach Jimmy Crowley of Jones's effort, which included 106 yards rushing, returning an interception 30 yards for a touchdown, pinpoint passing, and continually coming through in the clutch when the Panthers needed him.

"Special Delivery" Jones was special on defense too; in 1941 he set Pitt records that still stand for most interception yardage in one game (132 vs. Nebraska) and in a season (224).

There were other standouts. Ralph Fife, an All-America guard in 1941; Jimmy Joe Robinson, Pitt's first black player and a game-breaking running back in the mid-1940s; Bill McPeak, an outstanding end and Pitt's 1948 captain; Lou "Bimbo" Cecconi, who led Pitt in rushing in 1947, 1948, and 1949 and captained the Panthers as a senior in '49; Carl DePasqua, a top back and premier punter in the late 1940s; halfback Billy Reynolds, whose 748 yards rushing in 1952 was the highest figure in between Marshall Goldberg's 886 yards in 1936 and Tony Dorsett's 1,686 in 1973; quarterback Bob Bestwick, who became the first Pitt quarterback to pass for more than 1,000 yards (1,165) in 1951; Bernie Barkouskie, an All-America guard in the late 1940s; Eldred Kraemer, an All-America tackle in 1952; and Joe Schmidt, the Panthers' All-America linebacker who played from 1950-52, and later coached the Detroit Lions.

John Paluck was a standout defensive lineman who lettered from 1953-55.

Joe Schmidt: Football At The Boiling Point

Although Pitt's success as a team was handicapped during Joe Schmidt's career by the fact that in his four years he played for four different head coaches, he established himself—both at Pitt and later during a sterling career with the Detroit Lions—as one of the finest linebackers the game has known.

At Pitt, Joe began as a fullback and a guard, but as a sophomore Len Casanova switched him to linebacker, where he became an All-American. At Pitt he displayed the skills of anticipation, split-second defensive instincts, and deadly tackling that made him an eight-time All-Pro with the Lions.

Schmidt was destined to be a football player from an early age.

"Joe began playing rough, tough football against full-grown men on the sandlots of Western Pennsylvania when he was only 14," wrote Myron Cope in The Saturday Evening Post. "Joe was a tackle on the St. Clair Veterans, a team that was otherwise made up of men who had served in World War II. He was a big boy then, weighing 175 pounds, but he didn't have a whisker on his chin. When the St. Clair Veterans visited the Western State Penitentiary to play a team of convicts, he had to lie about his age to get inside the prison walls."

Joe's older brother John, who had played for a Carnegie Tech team that went to the Sugar Bowl, coached the St. Clair Veterans.

It was watching John play in games against the Panthers that helped persuade Joe to attend Pitt.

His college career was rife with injuries. As a freshman, he broke two ribs. In his sophomore season he broke his wrist in spring practice and separated his shoulder in the fall. As a junior, he badly wrenched his knee in the preseason. As a senior in 1952, he tore knee cartilage in the opening game against Iowa, and then came back two weeks later against Notre Dame, in which he received a concussion and hemorrhage that put him in the hospital for 10 days.

But when he was on the field, he was a force to behold.

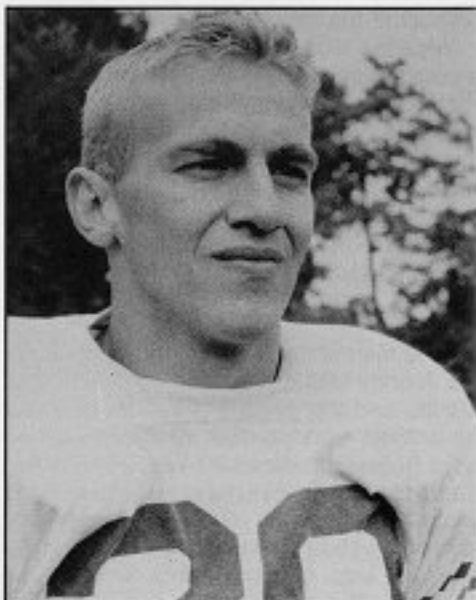

He played the game at the boiling point. Head down, he would charge straight into thundering linemen. They would meet him head on ... with a crashing of helmets and a thudding of shoulder pads, Schmidt would split the would-be blockers like wooden soldiers and blast a ball carrier into the next county.

He personally—sometimes almost single-handedly—led Pitt to some tremendous victories during his career—a 21-7 victory over Miami in 1951, a 13-7 win over Penn State in 1951, a 21-14 win over Ohio State in 1952, and the memorable 1952 victory against Notre Dame, when Schmidt's pregame address to his teammates (along with his 60-yard return of an interception) helped spirit the underdog Panthers to a 22-19 decision against the Fighting Irish in South Bend.

Following his playing career with Detroit in the NFL, which earned him a spot in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Schmidt served briefly as an assistant coach for the Lions, and then as head coach from 1967-1972, leading Detroit to its only playoff appearance in the 1970s.

Lou Cimarillo was a dependable, quality running back for the Panthers from 1951-54.

Michelsen To The Rescue

In the 24-year stretch from 1915-1938, Pitt had only two head coaches. But in the 16-year period from 1939-1954, no fewer than eight men were summoned to the helm. Charlie Bowser, a former Pitt center in the early 1920s, replaced Jock Sutherland in 1939, but stepped aside three years later after back-to-back 3-6 logs in 1941 and 1942.

Amid tremendous fanfare, Clark Shaughnessy took over for Bowser, Shaughnessy, who had guided Stanford to a perfect season in 1940 and later achieved fame as an offensive genius in the NFL, stayed only three years at Pitt, compiling a 10-17 record.

Wes Fesler, a combination All-America end and matinee idol from Ohio State, gave it a shot for one season (1946), but returned to coach his alma mater in 1947. A former Pitt guard, Mike Milligan, stepped up from an assistant's post to replace Fesler. After a rocky beginning, he had a pair of satisfactory 6-3 seasons in 1948 and 1949, then left in a dispute over his contract longevity.

Len Casanova of Santa Clara fame took over in 1950. From the beginning, his wife yearned to return to the west coast, and when Pittsburgh received a record snowfall in 1950 (until the March 1993 blizzard), her pleading picked up momentum. A 1-8 record and a job offer from Oregon persuaded Casanova to leave.

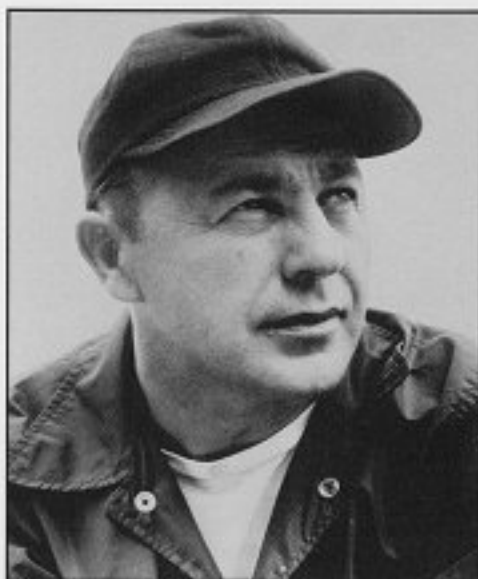

Tom Hamilton, who had been named athletic director in 1949, took over the coaching for one year, then brought in Lowell "Red" Dawson in 1952. When Dawson became ill in 1954, Hamilton again handled both jobs.

In 1955, Pitt reached back into its past and selected John Michelsen to breathe renewed vigor into its ailing football program.

Since his playing days as a quarterback and captain under Jock Sutherland in the mid-1930s, Michelsen had become, in some ways, almost an extension of the good Doctor.

After Michelsen graduated in 1938, Sutherland made him his backfield coach at Pitt. When Sutherland resigned after the 1938 season, he and Michelsen walked away together. Sutherland became a head coach in the NFL, where Michelsen continued his apprenticeship under his mentor, first with the Brooklyn Dodgers, and then with the Pittsburgh Steelers. When Sutherland died unexpectedly in 1948, the Steelers by right of succession promoted the 32-year-old Michelsen to head coach.

Michelsen, a strong, silent figure who embodied much of Sutherland's football philosophy, returned to Pitt in 1952 as the top defensive coach after being dismissed by the Steelers. In 1955, after incorporating some of the old single-wing blocking principles into Pitt's split-T offense -- as well as inspiring his men to play a lethal brand of defense -- Michelsen guided the Panthers to a 7-4 record and a berth in the Sugar Bowl -- Pitt's first bowl game in 19 years.

Proving that was no fluke, Pitt finished 7-3-1 the following season, and earned an invitation to the Gator Bowl.

Pitt lost both bowl games--both against Georgia Tech--but the football program was back on firm ground, playing solid, fundamental football--on both sides of the ball.

"When you played under John Michelsen," said Joe Walton, an All-America end for the Panthers in the mid-1950s, "you knew how to block and tackle. We were a strong running football team, and we played good, tough defense. He was a master of teaching fundamentals."

In 1955, Pitt had held Syracuse's great Jim Brown to just 38 yards rushing. Penn State's Lenny Moore could manage only 10 yards in 13 carries against the Panthers that year. The following season, Pitt again stopped Brown, holding him to 52 yards. Notre Dame's Paul Hornung, the Heisman Trophy winner, had to struggle to manage 59 yards.

"Slowly but surely," wrote The Owl, Pitt's student yearbook, "Coach Johnny Michelsen's Panthers are showing the nation that a team unversed in theatrics and sleight-of-hand magic tricks can play winning football. For the second consecutive year Pitt finished in the upper echelon of football powers--and did it with a relentless, hard-driving ground attack and a sturdy defense."

It was true. That was the way the Panthers played under Michelsen, whose passionate devotion to the game's fundamental elements mirrored that of Sutherland.

"They didn't depend upon tricks of any sort to win ball games," continued The Owl. "They used talented material coached to perfection in the fundamentals--and it worked better than any razzle-dazzle that numerous coaches have used at Pitt since Jock Sutherland left in 1938."

Pitt dipped to 4-6 in 1957 before posting three consecutive winning seasons, including a 4-3-3 mark in 1960. The '60 campaign was an odd one that included three identical 7-7 ties and a pair of one-point losses. The Panthers opened the season with an 8-7 loss at UCLA, tied Michigan State 7-7, and then fell 15-14 at Oklahoma. Convincing victories over Miami and West Virginia and another tie against TCU evened the Panthers' record at 2-2-2. Pitt then clipped Ernie Davis-led, number-one ranked Syracuse 10-0 at Archbold Stadium, and beat Notre Dame 20-13 at South Bend. But the season's third 7-7 tie -- against Army, and a closing 14-3 loss to Penn State erased any bowl hopes. Still, only five points separated Pitt from 4-3-3 to 9-1.

The freshman class of 1960, which included future All-American Paul Martha, was rich with talent, and came of age in 1963, when the Panthers posted a 9-1 record -- Pitt's best mark in 25 years -- and finished the season ranked third in the country.

But things began to unravel the following season, when Pitt fell to 3-5-2, and Michelsen was fired in the wake of a 3-7 record in 1965.

Nevertheless, Michelsen had restored a measure of respect and stability to the Pitt program. Although it would be nearly a decade more before Pitt would come all the way back under Johnny Majors, Michelsen gave Pitt 11 solid years of wise leadership.

It was surely no accident that Joe Walton, Mike Ditka, and Marty Schottenheimer, who all played under Michelsen, later went on to become head coaches in the NFL.

The Legend Of Mike Ditka

One of the legendary figures in Pitt football history is Mike Ditka, who played under John Michelosen from 1958-60.

"Iron Mike" was a fierce tight end and defensive lineman for the Panthers, whose immense athletic skills and competitive drive earned him All-America honors at Pitt. He led the Panthers in receiving for three straight years.

Ditka then went on, of course, to earn All-Pro honors as a tight end in the NFL, and was eventually selected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame. He was a member of the Chicago Bears' 1963 NFL championship team and the Dallas Cowboys' Super Bowl VI champions. He also worked as an assistant coach for the Cowboys for nine seasons, and was part of another Dallas Super Bowl championship squad.

As the coach of the Chicago Bears for 11 seasons, Ditka rebuilt that franchise into an NFL power. The Bears won Super Bowl XX under Ditka and he took the Bears to the NFC Championship Game three times.

But it was at Pitt that Ditka first earned fame for his competitive fury and relentless will to win.

"You'd see him in the huddle, or on the sidelines waiting to get back onto the field, and you knew just by looking at him he was ready," remembers Foge Fazio, a teammate of Ditka's who later served as Pitt's head coach in the mid-1980s. "He was always ready. He was like a prize fighter in the ring. He just couldn't wait for that bell to ring and get back out there."

Ernie Hefferle, who coached the ends under Michelosen during Ditka's Pitt career, said this about Ditka: "He was the damnedest player I ever came across; you get one in a lifetime if you're lucky. He used to forearm our own guys in practice. He used to complain that our practices weren't tough enough. He wanted more hitting. All he wanted to do was hit, hit, hit."

Ditka was a three-sport athlete at Pitt. He was a baseball outfielder and was a forward on the Panther basketball team. As Jim O'Brien put it in Hail to Pitt, Ditka was an enforcer in basketball, "saving his best boardwork for the annual grudge games against West Virginia."

Bob Timmons coached Ditka in both football and basketball at Pitt. "He'll hit the first guy he sees," said Timmons. That was in both sports.

Ditka was also the intramural wrestling champion at Pitt. Rex Peery, the Panthers' legendary wrestling coach, was convinced Ditka could have been an NCAA wrestling champion had he wrestled on the varsity.

Ditka was a tenacious, incendiary competitor. He was not diplomatic. He once punched two Pitt guards in the same game during huddles because he didn't think they were putting out.

Wrote O'Brien in Hail to Pitt: "In Ditka's senior season, he went after teammate Chuck Reinhold at halftime. Reinhold, a well-mannered, scholarly type, was a safety from Mt. Lebanon. He did something wrong near the end of the first half of the game with Michigan State, permitting Herb Adderly to escape his grasp and go for a touchdown.

"Not long afterward, as the Pitt squad clattered into the dressing room, Reinhold hollered, 'Let's get 'em in the second half.'"

"Ditka cried out, 'If you hadn't given up that touchdown in the first half we wouldn't be in the fix we're in!' With that, he went for Reinhold. It took about six teammates to restrain Ditka."

"His last game against Penn State will always stand out in my mind," said Lou Cecconi, a former star running back for the Panthers who was an assistant coach at Pitt during Ditka's playing days. "He went in to block a punt and then played the whole game with a dislocated shoulder."

Ditka was a marauding defensive end, and claimed he may have even been better on that side of the ball.

"In the pros, Mike just played offense," said Fred Cox, a teammate of Ditka's at Pitt who went on to a 15-year career of his own as a placekicker with the Minnesota Vikings. "That was always a mystery to me, because he was such a fiery defender. He would have made one of the best linebackers ever to come near the NFL if he had been played there by the Bears."

"The attitude of a defensive player is a little bit more aggressive, and that helped me on offense," Ditka says. "That aggressive attitude helps the way you approach blocking and catching the ball and running over people and everything else. Catching the ball means very little if you don't enjoy running with it afterward. It becomes a competitive one-on-one challenge that you really don't want just one person to bring you down."

Ditka's aggressive nature as a player always earmarked him as a leader. He captained Pitt as a senior. He captained the East in the East-West postseason all-star game. He captained the college all-stars against the NFL champions. He later captained the Bears' offensive unit.

Ditka, a native of Aliquippa, has never forgotten his Pitt roots. In 1990, he made a contribution to the University for the establishment of a $100,000 endowed scholarship fund. The fund provides valuable assistance to both male and female varsity athletes at Pitt from the Beaver Valley area who have distinguished themselves in athletic competition and in their academic pursuits.

"I think life is about paying your dues," Ditka said. "There were a lot of people that helped Mike Ditka along the way, and the University of Pittsburgh certainly played an important role during my formative years. Looking back at my college career, Pitt means to me my whole life — what I am now."

Ditka coached the Chicago Bears for 11 seasons, including a victory in the 1986 Super Bowl.

The 1963 Season: 9-1 And No Place To Go

Imagine a major college football team finishing 9-1 and ranked third in the nation and not appearing in a post-season bowl game.

That is exactly what happened to Pitt's 1963 squad, which won all but one of its 10 games against a tough schedule.

The Panthers featured All-America halfback Paul Martha, fullback Rick Leeson, and quarterback Freddie Mazurek in a talented backfield, along with an outstanding line anchored by tackles John Maczuzak and All-American Ernie Borghetti.

Pitt opened the year by defeating UCLA in Los Angeles, and then beat Washington, California, and West Virginia to run its record to 4-0.

The following week, Pitt lost 24-12 at Navy, which was quarterbacked by eventual Heisman Trophy winner Roger Staubach.

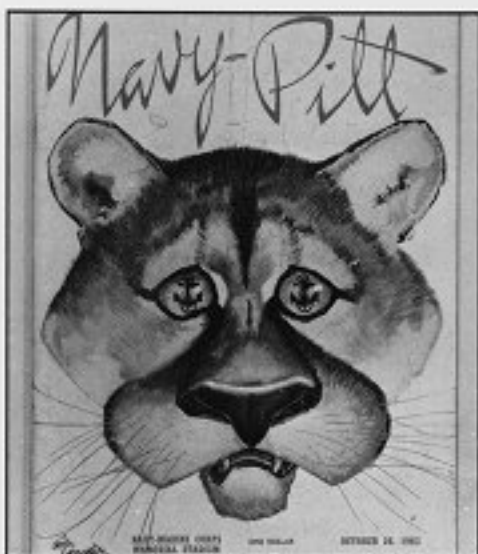

The Panthers bounced back the next week by beating Syracuse, and then finished the season with successive victories over Notre Dame, Army, Miami, and Penn State.

But despite its sterling 9-1 record, there was no bowl game for the Panthers. In fact, on watches the Pitt players received after the season, the inscription read, "9-1, The No-Bowl Team."

Why?

It wasn't for lack of interest by the bowl scouts. Late in the season scouts from the Gator, Sun, Liberty, Sugar, and Orange Bowls were all interested in Pitt.

After Pitt's 28-0 win over Army in the eighth game of the season, Gator Bowl representative Harold Mason said, "The Penn State game . . . I think that's the key to Pitt's

Pitt wound up beating the Nittany Lions 22-21, but not on the day the game was originally scheduled to be played. The game had been scheduled for Nov. 23, but it was postponed until Dec. 7 because of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy on Nov. 22. Kennedy's death wound up hurting Pitt's bowl chances.

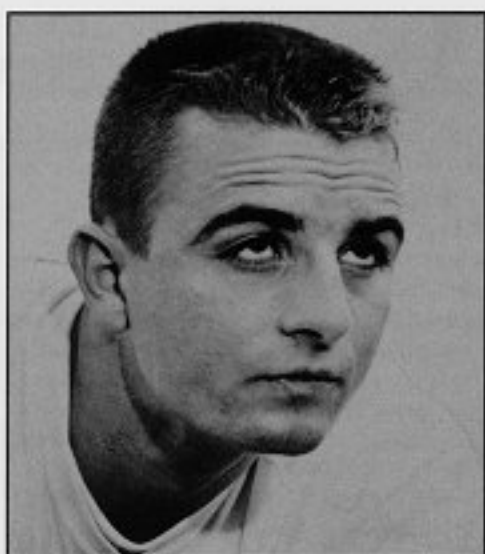

Pitt officials themselves had scratched off the possibility of playing in the Sugar Bowl, because of the prevailing prejudicial treatment against blacks at that time. Pitt, which had two black players on its team, wouldn't tolerate the bias.

"I don't think anybody had any reservations about that decision," said end Al Grigaliunas, the team captain.

The Liberty Bowl, Gator, and Sun Bowl were shunned by Athletic Director Frank Carver, because he was aiming high. He wanted Pitt to play in the Cotton Bowl, or the Orange Bowl, possibly for the national title.

As late as the eighth week of the season Pitt was the best bet to meet Big Eight champion Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

"The Orange Bowl had promised Frank Carver that if Pitt beat Penn State, Pitt would get the invitation to the Orange Bowl," said Roy McHugh, the retired Pittsburgh Press sports writer who covered Pitt in 1963. "Banking on that, Carver turned down the Gator Bowl, and maybe some other bowls, too. But Kennedy's assassination forced postponement of the Pitt-Penn State game and the Orange Bowl [not wanting to take the chance that Pitt might lose to Penn State after being chosen] picked Auburn. The key was the postponement of the game. It left Pitt high and dry."

The Cotton Bowl was high on Pitt, but it was higher on Navy. Like Pitt, Navy had a 9-1 record, but the Midshipmen owned a victory over the Panthers. Cotton Bowl officials thus opted for a natural matchup: the No. 1 Texas Longhorns vs. the No. 2 Midshipmen for the national championship. (Texas won, 28-6.)

After the Penn State game, Pitt was offered a Sun Bowl bid, but turned it down.

"No, I don't think we were that disappointed," said Martha, now serving as general counsel for the Pittsburgh Penguins of the National Hockey League. "It was getting late in the season, and it was getting cold in Pittsburgh. And bowl games in 1963 weren't quite as big as they are today. They didn't have the lure."

"Perhaps another reason why the '63 Panthers weren't crushed about staying home was that football wasn't the main reason they were in school," wrote Mike Bires of the Beaver County Times. "Those players gave true meaning to the term student athlete."

Bob Long was a senior end for the '63 Panthers.

A Major Change

In December of 1972, in the wake of a 1-10 season, Pitt's administration tabbed 37-year-old Johnny Majors, who had been the head coach at Iowa State, to try to reverse the Panthers' football fortunes. When Chancellor Wesley W. Posvar and Director of Athletics Cas Myslinski announced Majors' hiring at a campus press conference, they had no idea how dramatic — and how sudden — that turnaround would be. Pitt posted a 6-4-1 regular season mark, including impressive wins against West Virginia, Syracuse, Boston College, Army and Navy, and freshman halfback Tony Dorsett set the college football world on its ear by rushing for 1,686 yards. Pitt tied Georgia, 7-7, in the first game of the Majors Era, as Dorsett rushed for exactly 100 yards. The foundation had been laid — and the catalyst found — for near-future greatness.

With a winning season in 1973 as a building block, expectations were high for the 1974 Panthers. Pitt opened with road victories at Florida State and at Georgia Tech, setting up an intersectional battle against Southern California at Pitt Stadium. The game was billed as a meeting between "T.D. East" (Dorsett) and "T.D. West" (USC's Anthony Davis), but the Trojans dominated the Panthers more than the final 16-7 score indicated. Davis gained 149 yards rushing to Dorsett's 59. Pitt lost at North Carolina the following week, but bounced back to win five straight games, including an exciting 35-24 home decision against Temple. That day, Dorsett missed the only game of his collegiate career because of injury, but freshman Elliott Walker stepped in and ran for 169 yards and four touchdowns. The following week, Pitt came close to scoring its first win against Notre Dame since 1963, but Irish quarterback Tom Clements (a Pittsburgh product) scored on a short run with three minutes remaining to put ND up, 14-10. Pitt senior quarterback Bob Medwid, playing in place of the injured Billy Daniels, led the Panthers on a last-ditch march to the Irish 20, but a flurry of end zone passes fell incomplete, and Pitt would have to wait another year to defeat the Fighting Irish. Sophomore placekicker Carson Long booted a 52-yard field goal in the third quarter to give Pitt its first second-half lead against the Irish since the '63 affair. The Panthers' 1974 Thanksgiving Night game against Penn State at Three Rivers Stadium was Pitt's first network telecast since 1965, but the Lions spoiled the evening for Pitt, defeating the Panthers, 31-10. Dorsett ended the season with 1,004 yards, and became Pitt's all-time leading rusher in only his second season of competition. The '74 Panthers finished with a 7-4 record, but did not receive a bowl invitation, the only time during Majors' first Pittsburgh stay that the Panthers did not go bowling.

1975: "The Year of the Veer"

The 1975 season was known as the "Year of the Veer." With the explosive one-two backfield punch of Tony Dorsett and Elliott Walker (pictured above), plus speedy, shifty junior quarterback Robert Haygood (right), Pitt practically had three running backs in its offense.

became known as the "Year of the Veer." The Panthers opened the season with a 19-9 victory at Georgia before venturing to Oklahoma, where they were defeated by the Sooners, 46-10, the worst loss during the Majors Era. Dorsett ran for a career-low 17 yards on 12 carries. Pitt rebounded to post back-to-back shutouts of William & Mary and Duke, before the offense erupted in a 55-6 victory against Temple at Veterans Stadium, then in a 52-20 rout of Army at West Point. In that game, Dorsett rushed for a school-record 268 yards in less than three quarters of action. But Pitt's balloon burst the following week as Navy spoiled Homecoming '75 with a 17-0 upset of the Panthers, Haygood going down with an injury late in the game. Sophomore Matt Cavanaugh made his first collegiate start the following week, a 38-0 shutout win at Syracuse. The Panthers lost at West Virginia, 17-14, the next week, but came back to defeat Notre Dame, 34-20, with Dorsett running for 303 yards. Pitt lost another heartbreaker, 7-6, to Penn State at Three Rivers, but Haygood, Dorsett and Walker each topped 100 yards rushing as Pitt defeated Kansas, 33-19, at the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Texas, setting the stage for the 1976 season.

With 18 of the 22 starters returning from the 1975 season, a few brave souls (none of the pollsters) dared to predict that Pitt would win the 1976 national championship. The '75 Panthers ended the season ranked in both wire service polls for the first since 1963. And with a veteran team led by the senior Dorsett, the Panthers appeared to be a better-than-even choice against each of their 11 scheduled opponents. Pitt was originally scheduled to visit Notre Dame in mid-October, but ABC television officials, recognizing an intriguing matchup when they saw one, persuaded both schools to open the season on September 11 in South Bend. Pitt's 31-10 victory, highlighted by Dorsett's 181-yard rushing performance, provided the perfect forum from which the Panthers could state their case to the nation -- and the pollsters. The convincing win was the springboard to the most memorable season in modern Pitt football history. Along the way, Dorsett became the school's first -- and only -- Heisman Trophy winner, as well as the leading ground gainer in NCAA Division I-A history; Carson Long became the nation's all-time leading scorer; and Pitt went undefeated for the first time since the 1937 Panthers of Coach Jock Sutherland. Prior to Pitt's Sugar Bowl victory against Georgia that gave the Panthers the national championship, Majors announced his decision to leave Pitt at the end of the season to return to coach his alma mater, Tennessee, where he stayed as head coach through the 1992 season. On December 11, 1992, Majors was reintroduced as Pitt's new football coach. In Majors' first season back, the Panthers exceeded pre-season expectations by winning three games, including two dramatic victories on ESPN Thursday night telecasts against heavily favored Southern Mississippi and Rutgers.

Those victories and the foundation laid by Majors have set the tone for the future of Pitt Football.

Al Romano (left) and Gary Burley (right) were two of Pitt's star defensive linemen during Majors' first four years at Pitt and helped forged Pitt's defensive reputation which became a model for college football through the mid-1980s. Romano was a three-year starter along Pitt's underdrafted defensive front from 1974-76. Burley, a junior-college transfer from Texas, solidified Pitt's defensive line during Majors' first two seasons at Pitt before going on to a standout NFL career with the Cincinnati Bengals.

Majors' first four seasons at Pitt were capped with the national championship in 1976, when the team finished with a 12-0 record and defeated Georgia in the Sugar Bowl, 27-3. After that game, Majors made the triumphant ride on his players' shoulders.

Sixteen years later Majors returned to Pitt in hopes of returning the Panthers to national prominence.

Tony Dorsett: Heisman Trophy Winner

In 1973, a skinny freshman tailback from Hopewell High School in Aliquippa, Pennsylvania, named Tony Dorsett, began a career at Pitt that would lead to a national championship, the Heisman Trophy, and individual acclaim as the greatest running back in the history of college football.

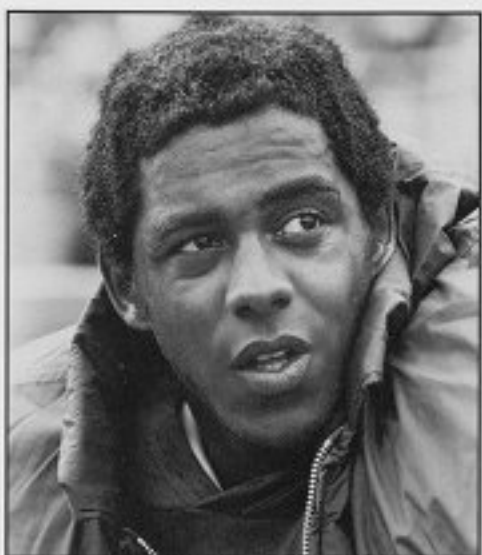

In his fabulous four-year career at Pitt, Dorsett set or tied 18 collegiate rushing records -- more than any other player in the history of college football. He established the NCAA's all-time career rushing record with 6,082 yards. (His overall total at Pitt, including his yardage from three bowl games, was 6,526.)

This past winter, Dorsett added to his list of impressive accolades by being named to both the college and pro football Halls of Fame.

He was the first major college back to compile four 1,000-yard seasons. He became the first freshman consensus All-American since 1944, and was the first sophomore ever named to the Playboy All-America team.

Pitt had finished 1-10 in 1972, the year before Dorsett entered Pitt. As a freshman in 1973, Dorsett burst on the college scene with 100 yards rushing against Georgia in Pitt's opening game. In the 1973 regular season he went on to rush for 1,586 yards, the most ever by a college freshman, while recording the first 1,000-yard season in Pitt history. He helped lead Pitt to a 6-5-1 record and a berth in the Fiesta Bowl.

In only his 15th game, early in his sophomore season, he broke Marshall Goldberg's Pitt career rushing record of 1,957 yards. He rushed for 1,004 yards as a sophomore.

As a junior in 1975, he rushed for 1,544 yards in the regular season, including a memorable 303-yard performance against Notre Dame.

In the final seven games of his senior season, as Pitt was charging toward the national championship, he averaged 215 yards rushing per game en route to leading the nation in rushing with 1,948 yards.

Having finished fourth in the Heisman balloting as a junior in 1975, Dorsett became Pitt's first Heisman Trophy winner in 1976. He earned 701 of a possible 842 first-place votes for an overall total of 2,357 points, finishing far ahead of second-place Ricky Bell of USC (1,346 points).

The 5-11, 192-pound Dorsett was a magical optical illusion, blending his 4.3 speed, supernatural acceleration, and Houdini-like escape artistry with open-field cutting so superbly executed it tended to escape detection by the naked eye.

As teammate Al Romano once put it, "I hate to practice against him. Trying to tackle him is like trying to catch a fly."

One revealing measure of his greatness occurred late in his senior season against Penn State. At halftime, with the game tied 7-7, Head Coach Johnny Majors decided to switch Dorsett, who despite scoring one touchdown had pretty much been held in check by the Nittany Lions in the first half, from tailback to fullback.

Dorsett wound up rushing for 173 yards and scoring a touchdown in the second half as Pitt coasted to a 24-7 win. Dorsett finished with 224 yards rushing, and his two touchdowns enabled him to break a 30-year-old record set by Glenn Davis of Army. Dorsett scored 356 points in his four seasons, two more than Davis, the 1946 Heisman Trophy winner, had in his four campaigns as a Cadet.

"I didn't think they could run up the gut like that on us," said Penn State Head Coach Joe Paterno. "I didn't think I'd see Dorsett at fullback. We just weren't ready for the unbalanced stuff."

Asked to describe Dorsett in more detail, Paterno simply said, "How many ways can you say great?"

Pitt Head Coach Johnny Majors said it differently.

"I could coach another 100 years and never get the opportunity to coach another back like Dorsett," he said. "I consider it an honor to be his college coach."

With Dorsett setting a Sugar Bowl record by rushing for 202 yards, Pitt went on to crush Georgia, 27-3, to become the first Eastern team since Syracuse in 1959 to win the national championship.

"We had accomplished our mission," Dorsett said. "I think back to those college days often, and I can't help but smile. I've never had more fun in my life. We were a part of history. We helped save Pitt football."

And 21 years later, Anthony Dorsett Jr., son of Pitt's only Heisman Trophy winner, is an outside linebacker for the Panthers.

With this touchdown run at Navy on October 23, 1976, Tony Dorsett became NCAA college football's all-time rushing leader. The Panthers won the game, 45-0.

Sherrill's Panthers: Beasts of the East

The Sporting News in 1987 selected the 25 greatest college football teams of all time. The 1980-81 Pitt teams, selected as a tandem entry, ranked 12th. Pitt's 1976 national championship squad was tabbed the 17th best team in history.

In The Sporting News' tribute to the 1980 and 1981 Panthers, writer Phil Axelrod recalled a poignant moment just prior to the start of the 1980 season: "Jackie Sherrill was in a mischievous mood when he pitted college football's most overpowering defense against one of its most explosive offenses on that sultry summer afternoon in 1980.

"A sharp blast from his whistle halted practice and sent players scurrying into a huddle at midfield. Sherrill walked to the 1-yard line, put down a ball, and smiled. 'First-team offense, first-team defense,' he barked. 'Get out there.' Hugh Green, Rickey Jackson, and the rest of the Panthers' defensive crew strapped on their helmets and sauntered into position. Stoically, Dan Marino, Mark May, and Russ Grimm led the offense into position for battle.

"I knew it would be a war," Sherrill recalled. "There was a lot of talent on that field. A lot of pride, too."

"Marino took the snap from center, spun to his right and planted the ball into the midsection of 230-pound fullback Randy McMillan. The lines collided with a thunderous crash and McMillan lunged toward the goal line, grinding his torso through a maze of tangled shoulder pads.

"The offensive players shot their arms skyward to signal a touchdown. The defense stomped up and down in celebration.

"We stuffed it," remembered linebacker Sal Sunseri. "No way did they make it. They thought they made it."

"After a brief scuffle, Sherrill's directive clarified matters. Obediently, Marino and Co. tramped off to run laps as the howling defenders sprinted to the locker room.

"That was the final play of the final scrimmage of fall camp. It was also the first, and last, time Sherrill pitted his first-team offense against his starting defense. I didn't do it again because I didn't want them to hurt each other," he said. They really went after each other."

The collection of talent Pitt had in the early 1980s was almost unfathomable. Wrote Axelrod:

"The names roll off the tongue, a litany of

Coach Jackie Sherrill with quarterback Dan Marino, one of a long line of local greats who stayed at home during Sherrill's Pitt term.

All-America and All-Pro talent. Hugh Green, Rickey Jackson, Dan Marino, Russ Grimm, Jimbo Covert, Carlton Williamson, Bill Maas, Bill Fralic, Mark May, Sal Sunseri.

"That was the best football team ever assembled, talent-wise," Sherrill said of his 1980 squad. "They get a lot better when you sit back and look at what they've done. Never, ever, has a team produced that many great players."

"I have never seen a college defense like that," Foge Fazio, then the Panthers' defensive coordinator, said of those Pitt squads. It was an attacking defense. They shut people down and took the ball away from them."

Green and Jackson, the defensive ends in 1980, were quiet assassins. Linemates Greg Meisner, Bill Neill, and Jerry Boyarsky howled like wild animals as they lined up over the ball. The middle three linemen in '81 -- Dave Puzzuoli, J.C. Pelusi, and Maas -- were known as the "Pac-Men."

"The huddles were wild," Sunseri said. "We knew what we had. We knew we had the No. 1 defense in the country. We dominated teams."

"We knew there was not a tackle in the country faster than Meisner. There was nobody from a technique standpoint better than Neill. There was not a better nose guard than Boyarsky. And when you looked outside, my God, there was Hugh Green on one side, and there was Rickey Jackson on the other.

"What I had to do was clog up the middle and bounce people to the outside to the All-Pros."

All five starters in Pitt's defensive front in 1980 -- Green, Jackson, Boyarsky, Meisner, and Neill -- went on to become starters in the NFL as rookies, but that 1980 defense had some additional TNT behind it, including Sunseri, a first-team All-American, and safety Carlton Williamson, who would start for the Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers in 1981.

Marino and fellow quarterback Rick Trocano, running backs McMillan and Bryan Thomas, and receivers Julius Dawkins and Dwight Collins gave the Panthers great strength at the skill positions. But it was an immensely gifted group in the engine room -- the offensive line coached by Joe Moore -- that provided the foundation for success for those teams.

"There were games when my uniform never got dirty," said Marino. "There were games when I never hit the ground. That's incredible."

Marino's mammoth wall of protection in 1980 included tackles Jim Covert and Mark May, who won the Outland Trophy; guards Emil Boures, Rob Fada, Ron Sams, and Paul Dunn; and center Russ Grimm.

"I don't know if anybody'd ever had a line like that," said Moore. "They were mean. They were tough. They beat people up. Grimm was the leader. He was all business when he put on his helmet. He was a total football player."

And when future All-Pros Covert, May, and Grimm departed for the NFL, along with Sams, Fada, and Boures, there were some richly talented replacements waiting in the wings, including Jim Sweeney, a great lineman at Pitt who has gone on to have an outstanding career as a center for the New York Jets, and Bill Fralic, a three-time All-American who was one of the finest college linemen in the history of the game.

"I don't know if Pitt, or anybody else, will ever have that many great athletes at the same time," said Jackie Sherrill of his Pitt teams in the early 1980s. "We had a great player at every position on the field, offense and defense. We didn't have a weakness in those years"

Hugh Green and Dan Marino

"No. 99 . . .Huuugh . . .Green!"

"People were petrified of (Hugh) Green. But they couldn't run away from him because we had Rickey Jackson on the other side of the line."

--Sal Sunseri
Pitt All-American

Hugh Green was an amazing player, arguably, the most devastating defensive end in collegiate history. He started every game but one in his four-year career at Pitt.

In his debut against Notre Dame as a freshman in 1977, he served notice of what was to come by racking up 11 tackles, a blocked punt, and two sacks against the eventual national champions.

His mere presence could control an entire game, something the pro scouts noticed.

Said Tampa Bay Buccaneers scouting director Ken Herock: "He was used like the MX missile, rotating from standup defensive end to all four linebacker positions, waiting for the proper time to explode. They disguised him so he could make plays, they moved him around a lot so that when the other team came up to the line of scrimmage, they'd say, 'Where's Green?'"

"People were petrified of Green," Sunseri said. "But they couldn't run away from him because we had Rickey Jackson on the other side of the line."

Even when teams did try to run away from Green, it was usually fruitless.

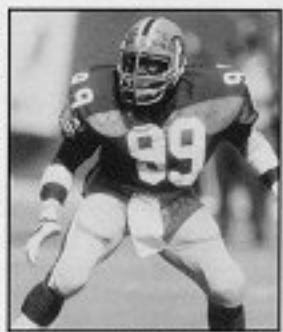

"I remember watching from the sidelines," said John Brown, a sophomore tight end on that 1980 team. "He'd be lined up on one side, and the other team would run a sweep wide to the opposite side. All of a sudden Green would just fly across the field and the runner would just disappear in a big roll of dust, and then you'd see Green -- with his eyes real wide -- just standing over the guy. He was awesome."

The rest of the country agreed. Green, Pitt's all-time career quarterback sack leader with 53, won the 1980 Maxwell Award as college football's outstanding player and the Lombardi Award as the nation's outstanding lineman. He was the UPI Player of the Year, and was second to South Carolina's George Rogers in the Heisman Trophy balloting -- the highest finish ever by a purely defensive player.

Green was a first-round draft pick by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 1981, and was traded to the Miami Dolphins in 1985. He was twice named to the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl.

Green won the 1980 Maxwell and Lombardi Awards.

"Danny:" Hometown Hero

Of all the kudos directed at quarterback Dan Marino during his four-year career at Pitt from 1979-82, this one from Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden summed Marino up best: "He's a pro quarterback in college, really."

Marino, a hometown hero who attended Central Catholic High School in the shadow of the Pitt campus in Oakland, was one of the most eagerly sought high school athletes in the country, both for his immense football skills and his baseball ability.

Marino was a bona fide Major League Baseball prospect, both as a pitcher and a shortstop, and was drafted in the fourth round in 1979 by the Kansas City Royals, who projected him as a third baseman or outfielder. But he decided to cast his lot with football, and with Pitt, and by the time he graduated in 1983, he had become Pitt's all-time passing leader with 8,597 yards and 79 touchdown passes.

"Dan Marino is the best quarterback I've ever coached against at the collegiate level," said Penn State Head Coach Joe Paterno.

The 6-4, 215-pound All-American had a rocket-launching right arm and a lightning release. Marino was a classic drop-back quarterback. But his success as a quarterback, and as a leader, transcended his physical skills.

In 1979, Marino led the Panthers to a Fiesta Bowl victory after replacing injured Rick Trocano in the season's seventh game. He set a Pitt freshman record with 1,680 yards passing.

As a sophomore in 1980 he was one of the country's leading passers until he was sidelined with a knee injury, and replaced by Trocano. He still finished with 1,513 yards and 14 touchdowns.

But it was his magical junior season in 1981 that truly earmarked him for greatness, and put him on a path that one day surely will lead to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton.

Marino passed for 2,876 yards and 37 touchdowns that year, leading Pitt to its third consecutive 11-1 record. He enhanced his reputation for delivering in the clutch in the 1982 Sugar Bowl, when he fired a 33-yard touchdown pass to tight end John Brown with just 35 seconds remaining in the game to give Pitt a pulsating, come-from-behind 24-20 victory over Georgia. That victory put the icing on the winningest three-year stretch in Pitt history-- three consecutive 11-1 seasons for a combined record of 33-3. It was also the third consecutive bowl victory for the Panthers, who defeated Arizona, 16-10, in the Fiesta Bowl to close the 1979 season and crushed South Carolina, 37-9, in the 1980 Gator Bowl.

Marino closed out his career at Pitt in 1982 by passing for 2,432 yards and 17 touchdowns, as Pitt, under new Head Coach Foge Fazio, finished 9-3, including a loss to SMU in the Cotton Bowl.

A first-round draft pick by the Miami Dolphins in 1981, Marino has rewritten many of the NFL's passing records and has been selected to the Pro Bowl five times.

Bill Fralic: Man-Child to All-Pro

"Forget Superman. He's the sissy who has to leap over tall buildings. Fralic knocks them down."

-Joe Gilmartin, The Phoenix Gazette

It must have been a disguise.

The baby boy born to William and Dorothy Fralic on Halloween of 1962 tipped the scales at seven pounds, three ounces. Who could have predicted this growth rate?

At the age of nine, Billy Fralic weighed 175 pounds. As an eighth grader, he stood 6-foot-3 and weighed 235 pounds. And tales of his size are now almost as numerous (and legendary) as what he has accomplished in athletics.

"I've always been big," Fralic told former UPI writer Pohla Smith during an interview from Fralic's playing days at Pitt. "I was always the biggest guy in my class. Even in grade school."

At the age of 13, Fralic developed a passion for weightlifting. Somewhat envious of his older brothers Mike and Joe, who would also grow up to play college football, young Bill wanted to pump the iron and develop his frame as well, even to the point of enlisting Mrs. Fralic to serve as spotter if the two older boys weren't around.

Andy Urbanic, who was the football coach at Penn Hills, and then an assistant at Pitt during part of Fralic's career with the Panthers, remembers the uncommon dedication in Bill.

"I never remember a kid who had such specific goals at such an early age," Urbanic said. "He not only wanted to be a football player, but an offensive tackle in the NFL."

Bill Fralic, a prototypical offensive lineman, had his sights set on a playing career at an early age.

Fralic became the first sophomore ever to letter at Penn Hills, where he also became the WPIAL heavyweight wrestling champion as a junior, while becoming a Parade All-American as a senior football player. That same year, he was named Dial Male Athlete-of-the-Year, the same honor which went to Herschel Walker the year before.

Considering his prolific career and reputation as an offensive lineman, few may remember that Fralic's initial preseason (1981) camp at Pitt included a persistent question: "Will Fralic play offensive or defensive line?"

Offensive line coach Joe Moore was the happiest man in training camp when it was resolved to play Fralic at offensive tackle, in the spot vacated by Outland Trophy winner Mark May following the 1980 season.

Following the Panthers' 1983 win against Notre Dame in South Bend, the accolades began to pick up in intensity.

"It's [playing against Fralic] something I can tell my kids 30 years from now," said Notre Dame defensive lineman Eric Dorsey. "I've read so much about him; it's like playing against a god. When you think of Pitt, you think of Bill Fralic."

Said Pitt Coach Foge Fazio: "I haven't seen a better offensive lineman as a player or as a coach. I can't believe anybody can be better than Bill."

And from his line coach, Joe Moore, one of the nation's most highly respected teachers at that position: "Bill Fralic is the best. If you can find somebody better, bring him to me. I've been privileged to coach some good ones here. But none better than Bill Fralic. Those kind only pass through once."

Fralic was a three-time All-American for the Panthers, and was the only underclassman to be among the four finalists for the Lombardi Trophy as a junior in 1983.

For Fralic's senior year, in an effort to find a tangible tool for Fralic's accomplishments, the Pitt Sports Information Office conceived the "Pancake," a statistical barometer for each time Fralic put an opposing defensive lineman on his back. An intern monitored every Pitt offensive play to determine if the Panthers ran the play over Fralic's position. In a 1983 game at Maryland, Pitt ran 11 consecutive plays over its star tackle.

One of the first players selected in the 1985 NFL draft, Fralic was a four-time All-Pro member of the Atlanta Falcons.

Defensive end Rickey Jackson was Pitt's stalwart opposite Hugh Green. Jackson has enjoyed a stellar career with the New Orleans Saints.

Offensive tackle Mark May won the Outland Trophy in 1980, and is still playing in the NFL.

The NFL Connection

Pitt's teams from the late 1980s until the present have continued to supply the National Football League with its players. Starting with first-round draft pick Tony Woods (by the Seattle Seahawks) in 1987 and then Craig "Ironhead" Heyward's first-round selection by the New Orleans Saints in 1988, Panther players have made their mark at professional football's most established level of competition.

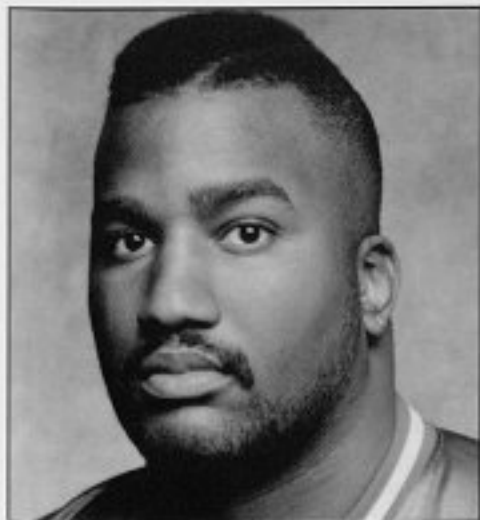

Other prominent NFL draft picks who played at Pitt during the late '80s and early '90s include: Burt Grossman (first round, 1989, by the San Diego Chargers); Tom Ricketts (first round, 1989, by the Pittsburgh Steelers); Marc Spindler (third round, 1990, by the Detroit Lions); Mark Stepanoski (third round, 1990, by the Dallas Cowboys); Sean Gilbert (first round, 1992, by the Los Angeles Rams); Steve Israel (second round, 1992, by the Los Angeles Rams); Keith Hamilton (fourth round, 1992, by the New York Giants); and Ricardo McDonald (fourth round, 1992, by the Cincinnati Bengals).

In addition, former Pitt players of the late 1980s and early 1990s who continue to distinguish themselves in the NFL, include Randy Dixon (Indianapolis Colts), Jerry Olsavsky (Pittsburgh Steelers), Mark Gunn (New York Jets), and Tom Sims (Indianapolis Colts).

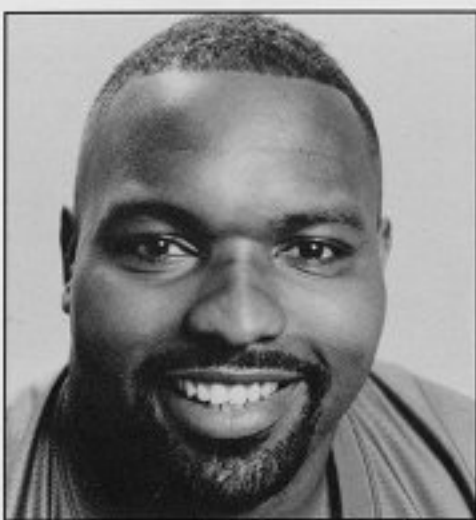

In April 1993, another Pitt quarterback, Alex Van Pelt, was selected in the eighth round by his adopted hometown team, the Pittsburgh Steelers. He was the first Pitt quarterback drafted by the Steelers since they selected Rick Trocano in the 12th round of the 1981 draft. Van Pelt will join the Kansas Chiefs in training camp this summer.

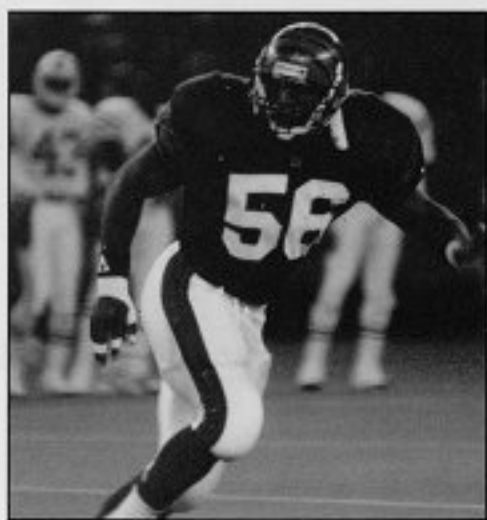

Mark Stepanoski was an All-Pro center for the Super Bowl XXVII Champion Dallas Cowboys, but missed last year's Super Bowl triumph after having late-season knee surgery.

The Backyard Brawl

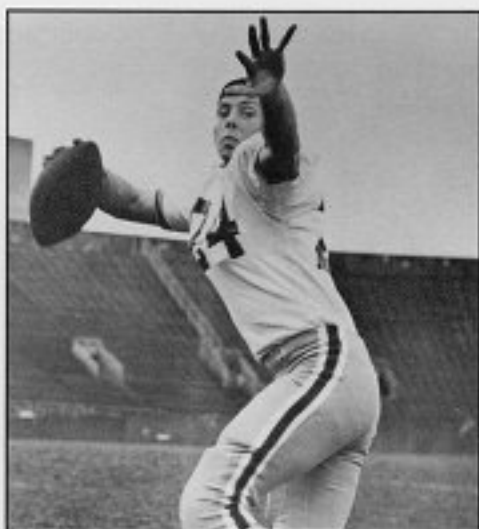

It is called "The Backyard Brawl," and for good reason. When Pitt and West Virginia, the Panthers' neighbor some 70 miles to the south in Morgantown, square off on the gridiron, players, coaches, and fans from both schools can count on 60 minutes of furious football.

In the 97 years since the inaugural game in 1895, Pitt has dominated the series, holding a 55-26-3 advantage. And while upsets may not have been the rule in this series, there have been more than a few.

In 1955—half a century after the first meeting between the two teams—the Panthers hosted West Virginia at Pitt Stadium before a crowd of 57,996. Pitt was a slight underdog, and scouts from the Sugar Bowl and Gator Bowl were on hand to check out the Mountaineers. But after Pitt knocked off West Virginia 26-7, and followed that victory with a 20-0 whitewash of Penn State the next week, it was the Panthers (7-3) who were invited to the Sugar Bowl. West Virginia, despite an 8-2 record, went uninvited.

Ten years later, in a game played at Mountaineer Field, Pitt and West Virginia exploded for a combined total of 111 points—the greatest offensive display in the series.

West Virginia jumped out to a 21-0 lead, but Pitt roared back to knot the score at 28. It was tied again, 42-42 before the Mountaineers went ahead, 49-42. Pitt then scored to make it 49-48, and had a chance to knot the score one more time, but instead opted for a two-point conversion, which would have given the Panthers a one-point lead. The conversion attempt failed, and West Virginia pulled away for a 63-48 win. Eric Crabtree had a phenomenal day for the Panthers, totaling 304 yards in rushing, receiving, and kick returns.

For sheer drama, the 1970 matchup might have been the greatest game in the history of the series.

"It was two games in one," said Jack Henry, a former Pittsburgh sportswriter. "West Virginia dominated the first half and Pitt the second. West Virginia was beating Pitt so bad at halftime that people were walking out."

"In the second half all West Virginia could do was hold on. If they got maybe one more first down, time would have run out on Pitt. But they couldn't do it, and Pitt could."

The Panthers were 3-1 heading into that game; West Virginia, a six-point favorite, was 4-1. The winner would emerge as the No. 1 team in the East.

West Virginia, with Ed Williams rushing for three touchdowns, spurred to a 21-0 lead early in the second quarter and led 35-8 at halftime.

Despite trailing by 27 points, Pitt came out in the second half determined to establish a running game. (Incredibly, despite trailing by big margins throughout the game, Pitt ran 97 plays, and only 16 were passes.)

No one paid much attention when Pitt tailback Dennis Ferris scored from one yard out early in the third quarter, and quarterback Dave Havern completed a two-point conversion pass to Joel Klimek to make it 35-16. But after Dave Garnett's five-yard touchdown run and another two-point conversion pass from Havern to Klimek cut the Mountaineers' advantage to 35-24, Pitt fans began to dream of a miracle.

After another Pitt score sliced WVU's lead to 35-30, things got interesting.

"When Pitt got the ball for what was to be its final drive, there was no rush," wrote Bob Smizik of the Pittsburgh Press. "The Panthers marched 65 yards in 17 plays to the West Virginia 5 without throwing a pass. But on third and four, Havern surprised everyone by flipping to Bill Pilconis in the end zone with 55 seconds to go to put Pitt ahead."

West Virginia didn't quit, and quickly moved the ball to the Pitt 39. But the Panthers recovered a fumble and emerged with one of the most dramatic victories in its football history.

Five years ago, there was some déjà vu in a classic game at Mountaineer Field.

With Pitt trailing 31-9 in the fourth quarter, the Panthers scored 22 unanswered points with fewer than 10 minutes remaining and Ed Frazier kicked a game-tying field goal as time expired to give Pitt a stunning 31-31 tie.

Three years ago, before a capacity crowd and national TV (ESPN) audience from Mountaineer Field, the Panthers avenged a 38-24 loss to WVU in 1990 with a convincing 34-3 victory in the season opener for both teams. It was also the initial Big East Football Conference game for both the Panthers and the Mountaineers. WVU returned the favor to the Panthers in Pittsburgh during the 1992 season, 44-6. Last season the Mountaineers defeated Pitt, 42-21. Strangely, it was that victory was only the first by the home team in the series since 1986, when Pitt defeated the WVU, 48-16, at Pitt Stadium.

Pitt Hall of Famers

National Football Foundation Hall of Fame

Tony Dorsett, Pitt's first Heisman Trophy winner who led Pitt to a national championship in 1976, is Pitt's newest player to be selected to the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame. He will be enshrined in ceremonies this December in New York. Dorsett concluded his record-breaking career at Pitt as the all-time NCAA Division I-A rushing leader, finishing with 6,082 rushing yards.

Dorsett set or tied 18 NCAA records -- more than any other running back in the history of college football. He was also the first major college back to compile four 1,000-yard seasons and the only rusher to have three 1,500-yard seasons to his credit.

Dorsett is the only football player in history to have won the Heisman Trophy, to have been inducted in both the college and pro football Halls of Fame, and to have been a member of both a college national championship and Super Bowl championship team.

Pitt Football Coach John Majors was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame on June 10, 1988, to recognize his brilliant playing days at Tennessee (1954-56).

*Majors was inducted for his accomplishments as a player at Tennessee.

Pitt Coach John Majors (left) and Tony Dorsett led Pitt to its last national championship in 1976 and both were later selected to the College Football Hall of Fame.

Pro Football Hall of Fame

Tony Dorsett became the second and most recent Pitt football player to be selected into both the pro and college football Halls of Fame.

Dorsett ended a brilliant career at Pitt and started his NFL career by guiding Dallas to a victory in Super Bowl XII. He left his professional mark as the NFL's third-leading rusher behind Walter Payton and Eric Dickerson.

Dorsett has the distinction of being the only player in the history of football to win the Heisman Trophy, a collegiate national championship, a Super Bowl championship, and to be elected into the college and pro football Halls of Fame.

Mike Ditka, who was inducted in 1988, was Pitt's first player to be inducted into both Halls. Ditka was an All-America tight end at Pitt in 1960, his senior season. Ditka's pro football career included All-Pro honors. He also was a member of the Chicago Bears' 1963 NFL Championship squad. Ditka worked as an assistant coach at Dallas for nine seasons and spent another 11 seasons as the head coach of the Chicago Bears. The Bears won Super Bowl XX under Ditka.

Joe Schmidt, Pitt's other inductee in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, was an All-American linebacker at Pitt in 1952. He went on to spend 13 years with the Detroit Lions, and was a member of the Lions' two NFL championship teams. He later coached the team for six seasons, and led Detroit to its only playoff appearance of the 1970s. He was inducted in 1973.

Joe Schmidt, an All-American linebacker at Pitt, was named to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1973, after a brilliant 13-year NFL career.

Pitt's College of Coaches

An extension of the great Pitt football tradition is the list of men who played at Pitt and/or served as assistant or head coaches at Pitt, and then moved on to coach at either the collegiate or professional levels. Products of the Panther football program can still be seen along the sidelines at college and professional football games across the United States.

Quite a few men who have worked as assistant coaches at Pitt -- but did not necessarily attend Pitt as undergraduates -- have also gone on to distinguished careers at other schools besides Pitt.

In the 104 years of Pitt football history, eight men who went to school and played their football at Pitt later coached the Panthers: W.D. Hockensmith (1901), Joe Thompson (1908-12), Jock Sutherland (1924-38), Charley Bowser (1939-42), Walter Milligan (1947-49), John Michelosen (1955-65), Carl DePasqua (1969-72), and Serafino "Foge" Fazio (1982-85).

Three former Pitt players also coached the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League. John Michelosen coached the Steelers from 1948-51, and compiled a 20-26-2 record during that period, while Jock Sutherland directed the Steelers for the 1946 and 1947 campaigns, posting a 13-9-1 mark. A third Pitt alumnus Mike Nixon -- known as Mike Nicksick during his playing and assistant coaching career at Pitt -- never served as head coach of the Panthers, but was the Steelers' head coach in 1965 when the pro team played its home games at Pitt Stadium.

Here is a list of former Pitt assistants, the years they were staff members with the Panthers, and the head coaching jobs they later had:

Bill Lewis

Marty Schottenheimer

Dave Wannstedt

Pitt's NFL Head Coaches

Consistent with Pitt's impressive list of players who have gone on to distinguish themselves as players in the National Football League, so too is the list of men who have served as head coaches in that professional circuit.

All-Americans

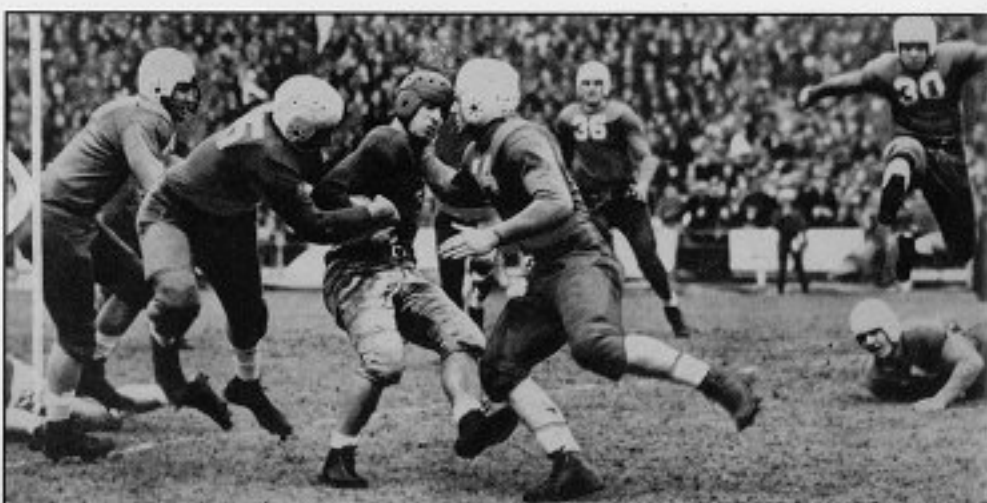

The following list of Pitt's First Team All-Americans was compiled from various sources, including the NCAA Football Guide, and consists of players who were first team selections on one or more of the All-American teams of the last 73 years. Over the years, these selections were made by Walter Camp, Grantland Rice, Casper Whitney, INS, AP, UPI, NANA, NEA, the Football Writers, the Football Coaches Association, the All-America Board, Newsweek and The Sporting News.

For a more detailed accounting of Pitt's All-Americans, see the profiles on the following pages.

All-Americans

Robert Peck was Pitt's first All-American, an honor he claimed in three different seasons. The Panthers lost one game during his playing career.

A total of 65 players at the University of Pittsburgh have been honored as first-team All-Americans. The following describes each player's career in brief:

Robert Peck, 1914-16, center

Robert Peck was Pitt's initial first-team All-American, being selected in 1914, 1915 and 1916. Pitt only lost one game in those three years. He was captain of the 1916 team that is rated among the greatest of all time, both at Pitt and in the nation. He was a roving center of the old variety and also an accurate passing center. After his graduation he moved to Culver Military Academy, where he was athletic director and head coach until his sudden death in 1934.

James Herron, 1916, end

James Herron became a consensus All-American end in 1916 after earning his fourth letter playing football for Pitt. He was a hard-nosed player who was known for his aggressive play on both offense and defense. He spent one year in the NFL playing for the Cleveland Tigers.

Andy Hastings, 1916, back

Andy Hastings became an All-American in 1916 after leading Pitt in scoring for the third consecutive year. He is in 15th place on Pitt's all-time rushing list with 1,527 yards. He led the Panthers in rushing in 1914 and 1915, and led the team in passing and interceptions in 1916.

Claude "Tiny" Thornhill, 1916, guard

Claude "Tiny" Thornhill was an All-American guard in 1916. He was a smart and aggressive guard who was quick off the line. Thornhill was a four-year letterman from 1913-1916. He spent one season in the NFL playing for the Cleveland Tigers and the Buffalo All-Americans.

H.C. Carlson, 1917, end

H.C. Carlson gained All-American honors in 1917 after being the captain of an undefeated team. He rates as one of the finest players Pitt has had. While at Pitt he earned four letters each in football, basketball and baseball, starring in each sport. In 1920, he earned his M.D. degree at the Pitt Medical School resulting in his nickname of "Doc." He won great fame as Pitt's basketball coach for 31 years. He won two national championships while compiling a 369-247 record, achievements which earned Carlson a spot in The Basketball Hall of Fame.

Dale Sies, 1917, guard

Dale Sies was an All-American guard in 1917. He was one of the finest athletes on the Pitt squad and was also known as a fierce defender. After spending some time in the armed forces he returned to football where he became an NFL quarterback. He spent five years in the NFL playing for the Cleveland Tigers, Dayton Triangles, Rock Island Independents and the Kenosha Maroons.

Jock Sutherland, 1917, guard

Dr. John Bain (Jock) Sutherland was an All-American guard in 1917 and later became a great coach at Pitt. He entered Pitt a few years after leaving his native Scotland and was a regular on the teams of 1914-1917 that lost one game during the entire period. In 1924, he became head coach at Pitt and in the next 15 years he won five national titles and took his teams to four Rose Bowls. He left Pitt in 1939 to coach the NFL's Brooklyn Dodgers in 1940 and 1941. He later took over as head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers until his very sudden death in the spring of 1948.

George McLaren, 1917-18, fullback

George McLaren, who was an All-American fullback in 1917 and 1918, is regarded by many as Pitt's all-time finest fullback. The Panthers were 29-1 during his career. He still holds the Pitt fullback rushing record for a season, with 782 yards, and has the record for the longest run from scrimmage. He scored 13 touchdowns in 1917 and was the team captain in 1918. McLaren's most amazing achievement: he was never stopped without a gain on a running play. He is Pitt's fifth all-time leading scorer with 183 points and 10th all-time rusher with 1,920 yards. He also spent two years apiece on the basketball and track teams.

Tom Davies, 1918-20, back

Tom Davies was a two-time All-American, including his freshman season of 1918 and also in 1920. He weighed less than 155 pounds, but had great speed and physical abilities. In 1918, he led Pitt in rushing, passing and receiving. He was Pitt's all-purpose yardage leader all four years that he played. In Pitt's 27-21 victory over Penn in 1920, Davies threw a touchdown pass, rushed for a touchdown, returned a kickoff for a touchdown and intercepted a pass to set up another touchdown. He is sixth on Pitt's all-time scoring list with 181 points and eighth in all-purpose yards with 3,931. Davies played one year in the NFL with the Hammond Pros and also briefly played baseball with the New York Giants.

Leonard Hilty, 1918, tackle

Leonard Hilty became an All-American tackle in 1918 after spending a year in the Navy. He played for Pitt in 1916 and then spent 1917 in the Navy. Hilty, who went to Peabody High School, was ordered back to Pitt by the naval authorities to complete his education. He didn't tell anybody he was coming back and just showed up for practice at the beginning of the 1918 season. He was bigger, stronger and in perfect physical condition leading to his All-American season.

Herb Stein, 1920-21, center

Herb Stein was a consensus All-American for Pitt in both his junior and senior seasons. Stein, who served as the team captain in 1920, was regarded as one of Pitt's greatest offensive and defensive centers. His efforts at Pitt earned him induction into the College Football Hall of Fame. After leaving Pitt he went on to the NFL, where he played six seasons with Buffalo, Toledo, Frankford and Pottsville. While playing with Toledo in 1922, he was selected as an All-Pro. His brother, Russ, was an All-American tackle at Washington and Jefferson.

Ralph "Horse" Chase, 1925, tackle

Ralph "Horse" Chase became a consensus All-American for his play at tackle in 1925. He was a three-year letterman for the Panthers who was very strong and agile. Following Pitt he spent one year in the NFL playing tackle for the Akron Indians.

Bill Kern, 1927, tackle

Bill Kern was selected as an All-American tackle in 1927. His relentless enthusiasm made him a leader both on and off the field to his teammates. Following his All-American season, he spent two years in the NFL playing tackle for the Green Bay Packers.

Gilbert "Gibby" Welch, 1927, running back

Gilbert "Gibby" Welch, who was known as a two-way offensive weapon with his running and passing ability, was selected as an All-American in 1927. In 1925, he led Pitt in rushing and passing. In 1926, he led the Panthers in rushing, passing, receiving and scoring. In 1927, Welch was the leading rusher in the nation. He ranks 11th on Pitt's all-time rushing list with 1,880 yards. He is in a three-way tie for Pitt's longest kickoff return with his 105-yard runback against West Virginia in 1927. He spent two years in the NFL with the New York Yankees and the Providence Steamroller.

Mike Getto, 1928, tackle

In 1928, Mike Getto was a unanimous choice as an All-American tackle. He was picked as the Outstanding Panther of the Year and played in the East-West Shrine Game.

Toby Uansa, 1929, halfback

Toby Uansa earned All-American honors in 1929 after leading Pitt in rushing, interceptions and scoring. The previous season he led the Panthers in passing and interceptions. Uansa grew up in McKees Rocks, where he earned 16 letters in sports in high school. He was a fast halfback who was very hard to stop. His speed was utilized on special teams where he twice won games for Pitt on kickoff returns.

All-Americans

Joe Donchess, 1929, end

Joe Donchess earned All-America honors in 1929 after leading Pitt in receiving for the second consecutive year. He is a member of the College Football Hall of Fame. While attending Pitt's Medical School he was a coach with the Pitt football team from 1930-32. He then coached the ends at Dartmouth from 1933-37 while attending its school of medicine. Donchess, who became an orthopedic surgeon, was a generous contributor to Pitt for more than 30 years and from 1960-62 was Chairman of the Pitt Annual Giving Fund. The Pitt football training room inside Gate 3 at Pitt Stadium was dedicated in his memory after he died in 1978.

Ray Montgomery, 1929, guard

In 1929, Ray Montgomery was selected as a consensus All-American. He was also a defensive standout and labeled "the perfect guard" by Coach Jock Sutherland. In his time Montgomery was hailed as one of the greatest linemen Pitt had ever produced.

Thomas Parkinson, 1929, fullback

Thomas Parkinson was an All-America fullback for Pitt in 1929. He was known as a triple-threat man for his ability to pass, catch and run with the ball. He was often used on short-yardage situations to plunge forward for the first down. His All-America selection was greatly aided by a 182-yard rushing performance against Penn State. After leaving Pitt, Parkinson spent one year in the NFL with the Staten Island Stapletons.

Jesse Quatse, 1931, tackle

Jesse Quatse was a consensus All-America tackle in 1931. He went on to play with three different NFL teams. He was a member of the Green Bay Packers in 1933. Quatse played the end of the 1933 season and all of 1934 with the Pittsburgh Steelers. He finished his career with the New York Giants in 1935.

Joe Skladany, 1932-33, end

Joe Skladany was a two-time consensus All-America end in 1932 and 1933. He was a good pass receiver and also known for his tough defensive play. He stole the defensive show in the 1933 Rose Bowl against Stanford. In 1932, Skladany led Pitt in receiving. He played in both the East-West Shrine Game and the College All-Star Game in 1934. He spent one season in the NFL with the Pittsburgh Steelers, and was later elected to the College Football Hall of Fame.

Warren Heller, 1932, back

Warren Heller became a consensus All-American for Pitt in 1932 after leading the Panthers in both rushing and passing for the third consecutive season. He was able to kick, pass, run the ball, block and play defensive back. He ranks ninth on the all-time Pitt rushing list with 1,949 yards. Heller rushed for 200 yards in Pitt's 19-12 win against Penn State in 1930. He went on to play three seasons in the NFL at halfback for the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Charles Hartwig, 1934, guard

In 1934, Charles Hartwig was an All-America guard as Pitt's team captain. The following season his picture was put on a Wheaties cereal box for being a football hero. He battled back from an injury which caused him to miss his entire sophomore year. A media guide referred to him as a brilliant defensive player and workmanlike on offense. He played brilliantly in the 1933 Rose Bowl. In 1935, Hartwig played in the East-West Shrine Game. His grandson, Craig Erickson, later played quarterback for the University of Miami and is currently with the NFL's Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

George Shotwell, 1934, center

George Shotwell became an All-American for his offensive line play in 1934. He was highly regarded for his all-around skills. Shotwell was an intelligent football player known as a keen diagnostician of plays. "I have never seen his superior in this respect, and only a coach knows how valuable this quality is," said Coach Jock Sutherland.

Isadore Weinstock, 1934, fullback

Isadore Weinstock was a smart and aggressive fullback who became an All-American in 1934. He was known as a crack ball-handler, especially on trick plays such as double passes and fake reverses. Weinstock was a fine blocker who also played defensive back, and kicked extra points and kickoffs. After suffering a broken nose he became one of the first players to wear a face mask. He led the Panthers in scoring in 1934 with 63 points. After Pitt he went on to the NFL, where he played three seasons at quarterback for Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Art Detzel, 1935, tackle

Art Detzel made the shift from guard to tackle and became an All-American. He was an aggressive, active player who was one of the strongest men on the squad. He was a fast and smart player on the offensive line. Detzel was also a member of the wrestling team, for which he served as captain in 1935.

William Glassford, 1936, guard

William Glassford switched from fullback to guard and became an All-American in 1936. He was a very good blocker who charged hard off the line. He was a rugged player who was also known for his aggressiveness on defense. Glassford's teammates looked to him as a leader on the field.

Averell Daniell, 1936, tackle

In 1936, Averell Daniell became a walk-on All-American. Daniell, who was from Mt. Lebanon High School, was known as a thinking man's tackle. When asked to comment on Daniell, Coach Jock Sutherland called him, "one of the smartest tackles Pitt has produced - he has no bad habits and learned how to play his position the right way." He was later elected to the College Football Hall of Fame.

Frank Souchak, 1937, end

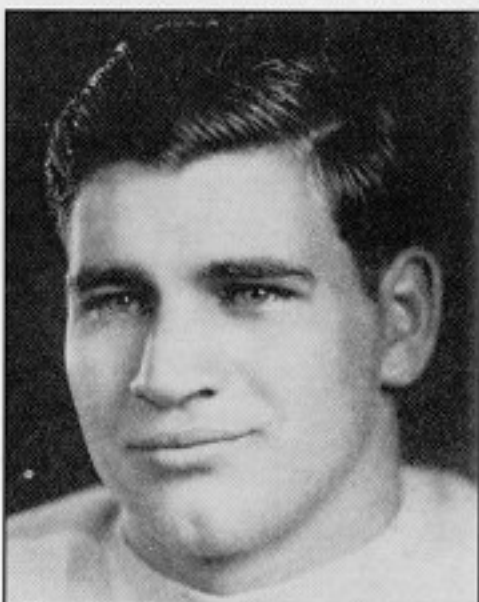

Frank Souchak was an All-America end in 1937. In 1935, he led Pitt in both receiving and interceptions. He played in the 1938 East-West Shrine Game. He was a sure pass receiver who also blocked well. He was the number one player on Pitt's golf team. Souchak spent one year in the NFL playing end for the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Bill Daddio, 1937-38, end

Bill Daddio was an All-America end in both 1937 and 1938. He was known for his great speed and also handled the placekicking duties. He led Pitt in receiving yardage in 1936. In the 1937 Rose Bowl, Daddio returned an interception 71 yards for a touchdown. He played in the 1939 East-West Shrine Game. He went on to the NFL where he spent two seasons with the Chicago Cardinals and one with the Buffalo Bills.

From nearby Mt. Lebanon, Averell Daniell was an All-America tackle in 1936.

Bill Daddio, a two-year All-America end, was named to the Rose Bowl Hall of Fame.

All-Americans

Tony Matisi, 1937, tackle

Tony Matisi was picked as a consensus All-American in 1937 for his fine play on the offensive line. He was a fast tackle with a tremendous capacity and affection for his work. Matisi was a big, aggressive player. He was also a shot putter on the track team. He spent one year playing tackle for the Detroit Lions.

Marshall Goldberg, 1937-38, running back

Marshall Goldberg earned back-to-back All-American honors as a halfback (1937) and fullback (1938). He was an accomplished quick kicker, passer and blocker. He was always the first one on the practice field. His 1,957 yards rushing place him eighth on the all-time Pitt rushing list. Goldberg led the Panthers in rushing and passing in both 1936 and 1937. In 1937 he also led Pitt in interceptions. He spent eight years in the NFL playing halfback for the Chicago Cardinals. Goldberg was later elected to the College Football Hall of Fame.

Ralph Fife, 1941, guard

Although Ralph Fife was an All-America guard more than 50 years ago in 1941 he is still remembered at Pitt. He was a fast and smart player with a keen sense of the playing field. Fife also handled the placekicking duties for the Panthers. In 1942, he played in the East-West Shrine Game. He went on to the NFL to play two seasons with the Chicago Cardinals and one with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Bernie Barkouskie, 1949, guard

Bernie Barkouskie became an All-American in 1949 after being the starting left guard for four years. He helped himself reach that status by blocking a punt that led to a dramatic 22-21 comeback victory against Penn. Following the 1949 season Barkouskie played in the Blue-Gray All-Star Classic.

Eldred Kramer, 1952, tackle

Eldred Kramer became an All-American in 1952 as a sophomore despite never playing high school football. He established himself during his freshman season when he intercepted a lateral pass and ran 49 yards and also blocked a punt. "Eldred Kramer is as worthy an All-American as you will find," said Pitt Coach Red Dawson. "He is the fastest-reacting tackle I have ever coached and a great competitor who never seems to tire." Kramer played in the 1954 East-West Shrine game and the 1955 College All-Star Game. He spent one year in the NFL playing with the San Francisco 49ers. Kramer died in an automobile accident in 1992.

Joe Schmidt, 1952, linebacker

In 1952, team captain Joe Schmidt became an All-America linebacker. He played in the 1952 North-South Game and the 1953 Senior Bowl. He often played hurt with his many knee, rib and shoulder injuries. He went on to play with the Detroit Lions for 13 seasons which included two NFL championship teams. He was an All-Pro eight times. He later coached the Detroit Lions for six seasons. Schmidt was the first Pitt player to be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Joe Walton, 1956, end

In 1956, Joe Walton became an All-American after leading Pitt in receiving for the second consecutive year. He was known for his great hands and ability to run exceptionally fine pass patterns. He used his small size to his advantage to block lower and more effectively. In 1956, he was named to the Academic All-America team. Walton played in the 1957 College All-Star Game. He spent four seasons with the Washington Redskins and two with the New York Giants in the NFL. He coached the New York Jets from 1983-1989 and was formerly the offensive coordinator for the Pittsburgh Steelers. Walton is now the head coach for nearby Robert Morris' newly formed football team.

John Guzik, 1958, guard

John Guzik, who was an All-America guard in 1958, was known as "Bull" for the way he would hit people on the field. He was the only Panther in 1958 to play over 400 minutes, averaging 42 minutes per game. He played in the 1958 East-West Shrine Game and was also named to the Academic All-America Team. He played in the 1959 College All-Star Game and the Hula Bowl. Guzik played two years with the Los Angeles Rams and one with the Houston Oilers.

Mike Ditka, 1960, end

Mike Ditka became an All-American in 1960 after leading Pitt in receiving for the third consecutive year. He was also an excellent linebacker and punter. Ditka, who was called "The Hammer" while at Pitt, was selected the winner of the Charles C. Hartwig Award as the senior who did the most to promote the cause of athletics at Pitt. He also spent two years apiece on the basketball and baseball teams. In 1961 he was a first-round draft choice of the Chicago Bears and was a member of their 1963 NFL Championship team. He was also a member of the Dallas Cowboys when they won Super Bowl VI. He was an All-Pro four times. Ditka became the second Pitt player to join the Pro Football Hall of Fame and is the only Pitt alumnus to be enshrined in both the pro and college Halls of Fame. He spent 11 seasons as head coach of the Chicago Bears where he led them to victory in Super Bowl XX.

Paul Martha, 1963, running back

After playing quarterback in 1961, Paul Martha moved to running back where he became an All-American in his second season at the new position. In 1962, he led Pitt in both receiving and scoring. Following the 1963 season Martha played in the East-West Shrine Game, the Hula Bowl and the College All-Star game. He was the number-one draft pick of the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1964. He played six years with Pittsburgh and one with the Denver Broncos. Martha retired after the 1970 season and began practicing law. He has long been active in executive capacities with the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Ernie Borghetti, 1963, tackle

In 1963, Ernie Borghetti was an All-America tackle and played in several post-season games. He was in the East-West Shrine Game, the College All-Star Game and the Hula Bowl. He was drafted by the Kansas City Chiefs but injured his knee during his first preseason. He retired from football to attend dental school and became a dentist in Youngstown, Ohio.

Tony Dorsett, 1973-76, running back

Tony Dorsett is the only four-time All-American in the history of Pitt football. He holds nearly every Pitt rushing record, such as 6,256 career yards rushing and 2,150 yards in a season. He gained 100 yards or more 36 times including 20 consecutive games. He is Pitt's all-time leading scorer with 380 points. In 1976, he became the only Pitt player to win the Heisman Trophy. He also won the Walter Camp and Maxwell Awards. Dorsett became the first player in NCAA history to reach the 6,000-yard mark. His No. 33 has been retired by Pitt. In 1977, he was the first-round pick of the Dallas Cowboys and played 11 seasons with the Cowboys including two Super Bowls. He is in second place on the all-time NFL rushing list and holds the record for the longest run from scrimmage (99 yards). He played in four Pro Bowls with Dallas before finishing his career with the Denver Broncos. His son -- Anthony Jr. -- is now a linebacker at Pitt.

Gary Burley, 1974, middle guard

Gary Burley was an All-America middle guard known for his brute strength, quickness, speed, and desire to hit. He transferred to Pitt from Wharton Junior College in Texas after being a two-time Junior College All-American. He played in the 1974 All-American Bowl and the 1975 East-West Shrine Game. He played eight years with the Cincinnati Bengals, including Super Bowl XVI, and one with the Atlanta Falcons.

Al Romano, 1976, middle guard

In 1976 not only was Al Romano an All-American but he was regarded by many as the best nose-guard in the country. He was strong, quick and blessed with tremendous instincts. Romano, who was a three-year starter, was picked as the most outstanding lineman in Pitt's 33-19 win over Kansas in the 1975 Sun Bowl. Following the 1976 season he played in the Hula Bowl and the Japan Bowl.

Matt Cavanaugh, 1977, quarterback

Matt Cavanaugh became an All-America quarterback in 1977, despite missing part of the season with a broken wrist. His 3,378 yards passing rank sixth on Pitt's all-time passing list. In the 1977 Gator Bowl, Cavanaugh completed 23 of 36 passes for 387 yards and four touchdowns. In the previous season he helped lead Pitt to the national championship with a 27-3 victory over Georgia in the Sugar Bowl. He was named the game's MVP. He was in the NFL since 1978, playing for the New England Patriots, San Francisco 49ers, Philadelphia Eagles, and finally the New York Giants. After serving on Coach John Majors' staff as tight ends coach for one season, Cavanaugh returned to the NFL as the quarterbacks coach of the Arizona Cardinals.

All-Americans

Randy Holloway, 1977, tackle

Randy Holloway followed up his honorable mention All-America junior season by being selected as a first-team All-American his senior year. He was quiet, likeable, and one of the most active Pitt players when it came to charitable affairs. He was very agile and often used his 6-6 height to knock down passes. Holloway is second on Pitt's all-time sack list with 33.5 sacks. He was a first-round draft choice of the Minnesota Vikings where he spent seven seasons. He finished his career with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bob Jury, 1977, safety

Bob Jury became an All-America safety in 1977 after becoming Pitt's all-time interception leader with 21. He also holds Pitt interception records for a season with 10 and return yardage of 266. Jury was the leader of the Pitt secondary and was known for making the big play. He had two interceptions in Pitt's 34-3 victory over Clemson in the 1977 Gator Bowl. Following the 1977 season Jury played in the Hula Bowl and the Japan Bowl. He played one season in the NFL with the San Francisco 49ers.

Tom Brzoza, 1977, center

Tom Brzoza made the move from guard to center and became an All-American in 1977. He became a starter in the fourth game of his freshman year and held that position for the rest of his Pitt career. He was a smart player with great speed, quickness and attitude. As one of Pitt's captains, Brzoza always accepted his leadership role. Following the 1977 season he played in the Hula Bowl and the Japan Bowl. He was an 11th-round pick of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Gordon Jones, 1978, split end

Gordon Jones became an All-American in 1978 as he became Pitt's all-time receiving yardage leader with 2,230 yards. He currently ranks second. He was nicknamed "Too Much" for his ability to escape swarms of defenders and the way he made impossible catches look routine. He started his career in 1975 with a bang when he made 22 catches, four of which were for touchdowns. He played in bowl games all four years. After playing in the Senior Bowl and the Hula Bowl, Jones became a second-round draft pick of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers where he played four years. He then played his last two years with the Los Angeles Raiders, including their Super Bowl XVIII season.

Hugh Green, 1978-80, defensive end

Hugh Green was a three-time All-American for Pitt and was a strong contender for the 1980 Heisman Trophy. He finished second behind George Rogers. In 1980, Green won the Lombardi Award (outstanding college lineman or linebacker), the Maxwell Award (top college player in the nation), and the Walter Camp Award (college player of the year). He is the only defensive player to win the Walter Camp Award since its inception in 1969. Green was named to Pitt's All-Time team after only his sophomore year. He was discovered by Pitt when their coaches watched films of a running back (Rooster Jones) they were recruiting and noticed that Green was making many of the tackles for the other team. In 1980, Green's No. 99 was retired and he was named Dapper Dan Man of the Year. He was a first-round draft choice of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers where he played five years before joining the Miami Dolphins. He was a Pro Bowl linebacker in 1983 and 1984.

Mark May, 1980, offensive tackle

In 1980, Mark May ended his Pitt career by being selected as an All-America offensive tackle. He also won the Outland Trophy, which goes to the outstanding collegiate interior lineman in the nation. He was called "May Day" for the distress of defensive tackles lining up against him and because he was the blocker Pitt would call upon in third-and-short running situations. May had a combination of strength, agility and the ability to think under pressure. He was bright and articulate and represented Pitt at a number of community events. He played in the 1980 Hula Bowl and Japan Bowl. May was a first-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins, where he played from 1981 through the 1990 season. He played in Super Bowls XVII, XVIII, and XXII, and in the 1989 Pro Bowl. He finished his career with the San Diego Chargers and Arizona Cardinals.

Dan Marino, 1981, quarterback

Dan Marino became an All-American in 1981 as a junior, after throwing for 37 touchdowns and 2,876 yards. He finished fourth in the Heisman Trophy voting. He finished the season by throwing the winning touchdown pass to John Brown in Pitt's come-from-behind victory over Georgia in the Sugar Bowl. Marino became Pitt's all-time leading passer after only three years and finished with 8,597 yards. He threw a touchdown pass in 19 consecutive games. His No. 13 has been retired by Pitt. In 1983, he was the first-round pick of the Miami Dolphins. He holds NFL records for yards passing in a season with 5,084 and for 48 touchdown passes thrown. He led the Dolphins to Super Bowl XIX and has been a consistent Pro Bowl performer.

Sal Sunseri, 1981, linebacker

Sal Sunseri, a four-year letterman from nearby Central Catholic High School, became an All-American in 1981. He was an enthusiastic leader as the heart and soul of the Pitt defense. He was like another coach on the field and was known for his bone-crushing tackles. In his three years at Pitt, the Panthers were 33-3 with three bowl victories while the defense allowed an average of only 11 points per game. In 1981, he played in the East-West Shrine Game and the Senior Bowl. He was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1982 and suffered a training camp injury which ended his career. Sunseri returned to Pitt where he spent eight years as an assistant coach, including the 1992 season as assistant head coach.

Jimbo Covert, 1981-82, offensive tackle

Jimbo Covert was a two-time All-American playing on the offensive line for Pitt. In 1982, he was one of four Panther team captains. Following the 1982 season Covert played in the Senior Bowl and the Hula Bowl. In 1983, he was a first-round draft pick of the Chicago Bears, where he played until his retirement following the 1991 season. He played in the 1986 and 1987 Pro Bowls. Covert was a member of the Bears when they won Super Bowl XX, and retired from football this past spring.

Julius Dawkins, 1981, split end

Julius Dawkins became an All-American as a junior when he led Pitt in receiving with 46 catches for 767 yards and 16 touchdowns. He is fifth on Pitt's all-time receiving list with 1,457 yards and 13th in scoring with 138 points. He holds the Pitt record for four touchdown catches in a game, which he did twice in 1981. Dawkins also has the school record for touchdowns in a season with 16 in 1981. In 1982, he played in the Senior Bowl and the Hula Bowl. He spent two seasons in the NFL, playing wide receiver for the Buffalo Bills.

All-Americans

Bill Maas, 1982, defensive tackle

Bill Maas gave up promising careers in both wrestling and track to concentrate on football, and became an All-American. He didn't even play organized football until his freshman year in high school and then fully devoted himself to the sport. He established himself early when, as a freshman, he blocked a punt and recorded a sack in Pitt's Gator Bowl victory over South Carolina. He then became a starter for his remaining three years at Pitt. He played in the 1983 East-West Shrine Game. In 1984 Maas was a first-round draft choice of the Kansas City Chiefs and made most NFL All-Rookie teams. In 1986 and 1987, he started in the Pro Bowl.

Bill Fralic, 1982-84, offensive tackle

Bill Fralic became a three-time All-American while earning a reputation as one of the greatest college linemen ever. NFL scout George Karras said Fralic was the most awesome offensive lineman he ever graded. Syracuse Coach Dick MacPherson said he was the best offensive lineman he had ever seen. Fralic became the first offensive lineman to twice finish in the top 10 of the Heisman Trophy voting with his eighth-place finish in 1983 followed by a sixth-place finish in 1984. His No. 79 has been retired by Pitt. In 1985, he was a first-round draft choice by the Atlanta Falcons. He has been selected to the Pro Bowl four times in his career.

Randy Dixon, 1986, offensive tackle

In 1986 Randy Dixon was named first-team All-American by Kodak, The Sporting News, the Walter Camp Foundation, UPI and the Football News. He was a formidable pass blocker and run blocker, and started three and one-half years for the Panthers. Dixon was an exceptional athlete who would often use finesse to beat his man. He was known as a determined, ambitious, strong worker. He was a starter in the Senior Bowl. In 1987, Dixon was drafted in the fourth round by the Indianapolis Colts, where he is still currently playing.

Tony Woods, 1986, defensive end

When Tony Woods was picked as an honorable mention All-American his junior year it made him very determined for his senior season. Woods was a consistent all-around player who was good in all phases of the game. He battled back from two years of injuries to become an All-American. He led Pitt in sacks for two years in a row and his four-year total of 31 places him in third place on Pitt's all-time list. In 1987, he was a first-round draft pick of the Seattle Seahawks and is currently in his seventh season with them.

Ezekial Gadson, 1987, linebacker

Zeke Gadson made the move from running back to linebacker and became an All-American in his senior season. In his only season as a full-time starter, he set a Pitt record with 24 sacks. His career total of 26 sacks ranks fourth on Pitt's all-time list. He had 137 tackles in 1987, including two 17-tackle performances. Following the season he played in the East-West Shrine Game. He was a fifth-round draft choice of the Buffalo Bills.

Craig Heyward, 1987, running back

Craig "Ironhead" Heyward became an All-American in 1987. His 1,791 yards rushing that season was the second-best season ever for a Pitt runner. He joined Tony Dorsett as the only other Pitt player to rush for 100 yards or more in all 12 games. He rushed for a career-high 259 yards against Kent State. In 1987, he set Pitt records for most rushing attempts in a game (42) and for a season (387). Heyward finished fifth in the Heisman Trophy voting. He is second on the all-time Pitt rushing list with 3,086 yards. In 1987, he was a first-round pick of the New Orleans Saints, for whom he played for five seasons (1988-92). He signed with the Atlanta Falcons in 1994.

Mark Stepnoski, 1988, guard

In 1988, Mark Stepnoski picked up numerous awards in addition to becoming an All-American guard. He was given the Pitt Blue-Gold Award which is presented to the graduating athlete with the best combination of academic and athletic achievement, leadership qualities, and citizenship. He was a recipient of the NCAA's Top Six Award, given annually to six senior student athletes based on academics, character, leadership and achievement. He was a National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Scholar-Athlete Award Winner. Stepnoski became an Academic All-American for the second time and played in the East-West Shrine Game. He was one of three finalists for the Outland Trophy which is given to the outstanding lineman in college football. He was a third-round pick of the Dallas Cowboys and was the starting center for their Super Bowl championship teams the past two years.

Jerry Olsavsky, 1988, linebacker

Jerry Olsavsky followed up an outstanding junior season when he was an honorable mention All-American, by becoming a first-team All-American in his senior year. He was a punishing defender who made up for his lack of size with strength, intelligence and aggressiveness. Olsavsky became the first Panther since Hugh Green (1979-80) to record more than 100 tackles in three straight seasons. He played in the East-West Shrine Game where he returned an interception 75 yards for a touchdown. He was the 10th-round pick of the Pittsburgh Steelers and blocked a punt in their playoff victory over the Houston Oilers in 1989.

Marc Spindler, 1989, defensive tackle

After missing the last half of the 1988 season with a knee injury, Spindler came back strong his junior year and turned in an All-American performance. He was selected as one of 12 semifinalists for the 1989 Lombardi Award. Spindler was one of the hardest workers on the team, and was remembered by many opponents for his jarring hits. Spindler led the Panthers with 78 tackles in 1989 and added four and a half sacks. In 1987 he started every game and set a Pitt record for most tackles as a freshman with 106. In 1989 he left Pitt a year early and was picked in the third round by the Detroit Lions.

Brian Greenfield, 1990, punter

Brian Greenfield was an All-America selection by UPI, The Walter Camp Foundation, The Football Writers Association of America, and The Sporting News. Greenfield came to Pitt in 1989 from Glendale Community College in California, and was the Panthers' regular punter for the 1989 and 1990 seasons. In 1990, he finished the season as the second-ranked punter in the nation with a 45.6 yards per punt average. He holds the Pitt record for longest punt, a 79-yard boomer against Boston College on September 8, 1990.

Offensive tackle Bill Fralic was a three-time All-American and was regarded as one of the best offensive linemen ever in college football.

Bowl History

Rose Bowl January 2, 1928 Pasadena, California The Rose Bowl

PITT	0	0	6	0	--	6

Pitt's first bowl trip resembled a politician's whistle-stop tour -- wherever Pitt was at lunchtime during its trek west, it practiced. The routine was simple: deboard the train around 11:15; explore the day's town until noon; lunch at 12; walk lunch off, then practice; reboard the train. So it was that Pitt practiced in Dodge City, Albuquerque and Winslow, Arizona, on the way to Pasadena. The game had a sentimental storyline: the coach against his mentor. Panther Coach John B. "Jock" Sutherland had played for Stanford Coach Glenn "Pop" Warner when the latter was at Pitt. Amidst all that, the game, although close, was controlled by Stanford. Pitt grabbed a 6-0 third-quarter lead when Jimmy Hagan scooped up a Cardinal fumble and ran 20 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was missed. Stanford, which made several marches deep into Pitt territory, finally scored on an unusual play. On fourth-and-goal at the two, Stanford quarterback Cliff Hoffman completed a pass to Bob Sims, but it was short of the goal line. Sims was hit and fumbled, but Frank Wilton picked up the loose ball and carried it in to tie the game. Hoffman's extra point won it, 7-6. Pitt, a slight favorite entering the game, mustered very little offense in its first of four Rose Bowl games.

SOUTHERN CAL	13	13	14	7	--	47

If vintage football films give you the impression that the game of the 20s and 30s was run, run, and run again, think again. USC's Trojans bombed Pitt with an all-out passing attack. The game started on a bright note for "Jock" Sutherland's team when Toby Uansa rushed 68 yards on Pitt's first play. Pitt failed to score, then the walls caved in. Gaius Shaver connected with Henry Edelson for a 55-yard touchdown. Later in the quarter, Shaver hit Ernest Pinckert for a 28-yard score, capitalizing on a Pitt fumble. Another fumble led to USC's third touchdown, a short run which opened the score to 19-0. Two Jesses set up the Trojans' next score when Jesse Mortensen and Jesse Hill teamed for a 51-yard pass play. Russell Saunders helped convert a USC interception into a 33-0 lead with his 13-yard scoring run. Pitt finally broke through in the third quarter when Uansa threw a 28-yard pass to William Wallinchus. Southern Cal sandwiched two more long touchdown passes (38 and 62 yards) around a Tom Parkinson-to-Paul Collins 36-yard TD pass for Pitt to arrive at the final score. In all, the Trojans scored the most points against Pitt since 1903. It would be Sutherland's second-worst margin of defeat in his 15 seasons at Pitt; the worst would come three years later, also against USC in the Rose Bowl.

Pitt's coach, John B. "Jock" Sutherland, would try a new play after two Rose Bowl losses, so he took the team to Tucson to practice for its first Rose Bowl win. Instead Sutherland suffered the worst loss in his Pitt career. It was the first time since 1928 that Pitt was shut out and actually lost the game; it had played four scoreless ties since a 6-0 loss to Carnegie Tech. With 83,000 in attendance, the Panthers stayed close until the fourth quarter before collapsing. USC's Homer Griffith threw, and later caught, a touchdown pass as the Trojans built a 14-0 lead through three quarters. After Irvine Warburton scored to make the score 21-0, Pitt fumbled the kickoff, and Warburton scored again shortly thereafter. A blocked punt set up the final touchdown. Several Panthers were singled out by the crowd with standing ovations: ends Ted Dailey and Joe Skladany, guard Charles Hartwig, and back Warren Heller, who rushed for 63 yards in the final game of his brilliant Pitt career.

"Jock" Sutherland was intent on winning the Rose Bowl in his fourth try. To that end, Pitt spent two weeks working out on the west coast, for Sutherland was not going to accept 0-4 in Rose Bowl play. His tactics worked, and captain Bobby LaRue led Pitt to a 21-0 victory. LaRue's running set up the first touchdown of the game, which, fittingly, he scored. LaRue's 50-yard run in the third quarter, which would have gone 75 yards for the touchdown if not for a diving tackle, set up Frank Patrick's touchdown. Pitt led, 14-0, after three quarters. The defense added a late touchdown, returning an interception. So elated was Sutherland that he substituted every player who made the trip, so each could forever relate the experience of playing in a Rose Bowl victory. After four tries, the coach had finally overcome one of the few obstacles in his brilliant career.

A controversial pass interference penalty against Pitt's Bobby Grier, the first black man ever to play in the Sugar Bowl, put Georgia Tech on the doorstep for the game's only touchdown. Pitt, under new Head Coach John Michelosen -- the only man in Pitt history to play and coach in bowl games (he was a quarterback on the 1936 Rose Bowl team) -- had several chances to tie the game but hit a wall of futility. Grier's penalty gave Tech the ball on the 1, from where Wade Mitchell snuck in for the score. A fumble killed a first-quarter drive, then quarterback Cory Salvaterra was stopped on a fourth-and-goal just before halftime. Pitt's Ray DiPasquale intercepted a pass to squelch a fourth quarter threat by Tech. In the final moments, Pitt made a furious attempt to tie the game. The Panthers, who were penalized twice on the last drive, were on Tech's 5-yard line when time ran out.

Coach John Michelosen's team had wanted a rematch with Georgia Tech, but the result was the same -- a seven-point loss. Pitt outgained Tech by 106 yards, 313-207, but was plagued by turnovers. Georgia Tech converted an early interception into a touchdown and a 7-0 lead. Pitt was stopped on a goal-line stand at the start of the second quarter, and Tech increased its lead late in the quarter with a halfback-option TD pass. Pitt quarterback Cory Salvaterra hit Dick Bowen with a 36-yard scoring pass just before the half, and Pitt trailed, 14-7. Bowen's fumble on the second-half kickoff set up the clinching touchdown. Pitt pulled to within seven on Salvaterra's sneak, but could draw no closer.

A new era in Pitt football was ushered in with the Panthers' first bowl appearance in 17 years. Coach-of-the-Year Johnny Majors had revived a struggling program and Pitt was 6-4-1 entering this game.

Elliott Walker rushed for 123 yards on 11 carries in Pitt's 33-19 victory against Kansas in the 1975 Sun Bowl.

Freshman Tony Dorsett was a big part of the turnaround, rushing for 1,686 yards. Pitt struck first, with Dorsett scoring two plays after Tom Perko recovered Arizona State quarterback Danny White's fumble on the first play of the game. But the Sun Devils, playing on their own field, proved too tough. Woody Green scored four plays after Dorsett's touchdown to tie the game. Arizona State scored three touchdowns in 6:04 of the fourth quarter, and although Pitt blocked all three extra points, the game ended one-sided after being tied at halftime. Dorsett rushed for 100 yards, but Pitt turned the ball over seven times. Both quarterbacks, White and Pitt's Billy Daniels, threw three interceptions, but White completed 14 of 19 for 269 yards. Daniels was 7-20 for just 57 yards.

A player rushing for 100 yards is impressive. Two players on the same team is remarkable. Three is unheard of, but that is how Pitt knocked off Kansas. Elliott Walker (11 carries for 123 yards, 11.2 average) got the ball rolling with a 60-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. Tony Dorsett (27-142) scored two touchdowns in the second quarter. Pitt had nearly 300 rushing yards at the intermission. Quarterback Robert Haygood ran the veer offense to perfection, rushing for 101 yards (14 carries) when he wasn't busy pitching out to Dorsett. Haygood also connected with Gordon Jones for a touchdown after Walker scored his second of the game. Jones set up his own touchdown with a 63-yard kickoff return. With eight wins, Pitt had its best season since 1963. Dorsett rushed for 1,686 yards on the season, matching his 1973 total.

The many remarkable accomplishments Tony Dorsett achieved in his four years at Pitt were punctuated by his role in this win, one that gave Pitt its first national championship in 39 years. Dorsett, quarterback Matt Cavanaugh, and a marauding defense just would not be denied in the first indoor Sugar Bowl game. Cavanaugh, named the game's MVP, scored from 6 yards out to give Pitt a 7-0 lead. The celebration of that touchdown became a Sports Illustrated cover that can be seen at several sites around Pitt's campus. The photo headline simply read: "PITT IS IT!" Gordon Jones turned a short pass into a 59-yard touchdown excursion in the second quarter. Dorsett's 10-yard score late in the half cemented the victory. He was far from through, however. After gaining 65 yards in the first half, the Heisman Trophy winner exploded in the second to finish with a Sugar Bowl record 202 yards rushing, including 67 on one run that set up one of Carson Long's two second-half field goals. The defense created six turnovers, and limited the Bulldogs to 181 yards. Pitt defenders actually caught more Georgia passes than did Georgia receivers (four interceptions, compared to three completions in 22 attempts). Vince Dooley, Georgia's head coach, said this about the 12-0 Panthers: "They proved today they are the best in the country. They have amazing balance; they are the best defensive team we've seen -- I think that is obvious. They are also the best offensive team we've faced." Pitt coach Johnny Majors, who completed his four-year stint at Pitt with a 33-13-1 record (after a combined 13-29 mark in the previous four years) was named Coach-of-the-Year for the second time at Pitt.

Pitt set five Gator Bowl records for offensive proficiency in an astounding demolition of the highly regarded Clemson Tigers. Matt Cavanaugh completed 23 of 36 passes for 387 yards and four touchdowns as Pitt outgained Clemson, 566-268. Three scoring tosses went to fullback Elliott Walker, who joined Tony Dorsett as the second Pitt back ever to rush for 1,000 yards in a season. Gordon Jones scored the other TD on one of his 10 receptions for 163 yards. Cavanaugh threw for 211 yards and two touchdowns in the first half alone. Clemson's vaunted passing combination of Steve Fuller-to-Jerry Butler was rendered ineffective by a Pitt secondary which swooped in for four interceptions, two by senior safety Bob Jury. Cavanaugh, an All-American in 1977, missed part of the season after suffering a broken wrist against Notre Dame. "I shudder to think what he could have done had he stayed healthy," said Panther Coach Jackie Sherrill, who finished his first year at Pitt with a 9-2-1 mark.

The Panthers saved their worst performance of the season for this bowl outing with North Carolina State. Primarily a running team in 1978, Pitt attempted to open it up on this night, throwing 48 passes. Four were intercepted, however. The Wolfpack, led by star running back Ted Brown, rolled up a 23-3 fourth quarter lead before Pitt quarterback Rick Trocano tried to bring the Panthers back. An 18-play drive featured four fourth-down conversions, the last of which resulted in a Freddie Jacobs touchdown. Pitt moved to State's 34-yard line with just over five minutes remaining, but an interception settled the issue. Trocano was intercepted twice more before the game ended, but he also led Pitt to the game's final touchdown. "Execution on our part was our biggest problem," Coach Jackie Sherrill said. "We didn't play well... and the turnovers hurt us." Pitt finished 8-4.

Pitt finished the 1979 season with a ten-game winning streak, built in part around the arm of freshman quarterback Dan Marino. The season finale came on Christmas Day, with the Panthers rounding out an 11-1 campaign with a 16-10 win over Arizona. The Wildcats, coached by former Pitt radio commentator Tony Mason, threatened often but did not score a touchdown until the game's waning moments. Junior cornerback Terry White intercepted two passes. One set up the second of three Mark Schubert field goals; the other allowed Pitt to run out the clock. Two of Schubert's kicks were from 46 yards out. Pitt's only touchdown came after a 12-play drive, with Marino hitting Benjie Pryor from 12 yards out. The last three plays of the drive: Marino to Mike Dombrowski for 34 yards, Marino to Ralph Still for 24 yards, and the touchdown.

Pitt's defense wanted this game badly. Its leader for four years, Hugh Green, finished second in the Heisman Trophy voting behind South Carolina's George Rogers. With the chance to avenge that result, Pitt smothered the Gamecocks with a swarming defense and an efficient offense. Rick Trocano and Dan Marino split time at quarterback; each threw a touchdown pass and Trocano added a short TD run. Although Rogers gained 113 yards, his two fumbles were more of a factor in the game than his rushing output. Tom Flynn recovered Rogers' fumble on the first play of the game, leading to Trocano's score. Randy McMillan scored two touchdowns as Pitt rolled to a 37-3 lead. The defense was led by Rickey Jackson, who made 19 tackles (14 solos). Pitt finished the season 11-1.

One of the most dramatic finishes in Pitt football history gave Pitt its second Sugar Bowl win over Georgia. Pitt trailed, 20-17, with 42 seconds remaining. It faced a fourth-and-5 at the Bulldog 33. Coach Jackie Sherrill disdained the potential 50-yard field goal attempt. "With five minutes to go I said we were not here to tie, we were here to win," Sherrill said. Dan Marino wanted to throw a short pass to a running back to get the first down, but a Georgia blitz left tight end John Brown in single coverage down the middle. Marino was right on target for the touchdown, his third of the game. The Panther defense limited Herschel Walker to 84 yards on 25 carries.

The Panthers' season came to a dismal end as Pitt lost to Southern Methodist in the Mustangs' own backyard. Dan Marino, in his last game at Pitt, was plagued by dropped passes on the cold, rainy day. He completed 19 of 37 for 181 yards. Fumbles were the story of the first quarter. Joe McCall lost one at the SMU one-yard line, but Mustang QB Lance McIlhenny returned the favor with a fumble at the Pitt seven. Eric Schubert's missed field goal attempt left the game scoreless at the half. Marino completed five straight short passes to set up Schubert's 43-yard kick which gave Pitt its only points. SMU's "Pony Express" backfield (Eric Dickerson and Craig James) led an 80-yard drive, which McIlhenny capped off with a nine-yard run. Pitt's last chance ended when a Marino pass was tipped and intercepted in the end zone.

John Congemi completed a school-record 31 passes for 341 yards, but a late Ohio State touchdown pass spoiled Congemi's, and Pitt's, afternoon. Congemi's second-quarter touchdown pass to tight end Clint Wilson tied the score at 7-7, but the Buckeyes led, 14-7, entering the fourth quarter. Wilson fell on Joe McCall's fumble in the end zone to tie the score early in the fourth quarter. Ohio State's Keith Byars scored his second touchdown by returning the ensuing kickoff 99 yards. Congemi was six-for-six on Pitt's next touchdown drive, which culminated with an 11-yard pass to Dwight Collins. Congemi, who completed 19-of-27 in the second half, had his conversion pass broken up, and Pitt trailed, 21-20. A 17-play drive later in the quarter ended with Snuffy Everett's 37-yard field goal to put the Panthers on top. Quarterback Mike Tomczak led Ohio State back, ending an 89-yard drive with a 39-yard bomb to Thad Jemison, who scored with 39 seconds remaining. Head Coach Foge Fazio's Panthers drove to the Buckeye 24, but could get no further.

Larry Wanke led an impressive second half comeback, but Pitt fell short against Texas, 32-27, in the 1987 Bluebonnet Bowl.

Despite late heroics from Larry Wanke, Pitt was grounded in this aerial circus, as Texas quarterback Brett Stafford connected with Tony Jones set Bluebonnet Bowl records. The New Year's Eve crowd was treated to an action-packed game from the start. Stafford connected with Jones for a 77-yard touchdown on the first play from scrimmage. Pitt retaliated quickly: Billy Owens returned the kickoff 45 yards, Billy Osborn hit Reggie Williams for 45 more yards on a trick play; then Craig Heyward tied the score with a four-yard burst. Six plays later, the Longhorns took the lead for good as Stafford hit Jones on a short pass and broke for a 60-yard touchdown. Stafford finished the first quarter with 202 yards passing on the way to a 368-yard night. Jones set records for receiving yards and longest receptions. Wanke replaced Darnell Dickerson early in the third quarter after Dickerson suffered a knee injury. Wanke completed 8 of 20 passes for 172 yards and three touchdowns, including two late in the fourth quarter that cut the Longhorns' lead to five. Craig Heyward rushed for 136 yards, winning his personal battle with Texas star Eric Metcalf, who finished with 95 yards rushing. Heyward ended the season with 1,791 yards, the second-best in Pitt history. The Panthers finished the year at 8-4, the most successful Pitt season since 1983.

Alex Van Pelt was named MVP of the 1989 John Hancock Bowl, when the Panthers defeated Texas A&M, 31-28.

Led by bowl MVP Alex Van Pelt's 354 yards passing, Pitt parlayed a John Hancock Bowl-record 530 yards in offense into a 31-28 come-from-behind victory over Texas A&M. It was a day of firsts for the Panthers. Paul Hackett, named head coach moments before kickoff, won his first game as a head coach. It also was Pitt's first bowl win since the Panthers' 24-20 Sugar Bowl victory over Georgia in 1982. Van Pelt, who completed 20 of 40 passes and threw for two touchdowns, rallied the Panthers from a 28-24 deficit, when he connected with Henry Tuten on a 44-yard touchdown strike with just 2:19 remaining in the game, giving Pitt a 31-28 lead. Tailback Curvin Richards rushed for 156 yards on 23 carries and scored the first points of the game with a 12-yard TD. Texas A&M countered with a nine-yard touchdown run by quarterback Lance Pavlas, tying the score at 7-7 to end the first quarter. With the score tied at 10 late in the first half, Van Pelt threw an eight-yard touchdown pass to Ronald Redmon, giving Pitt a 17-10 halftime lead. Flanker Olanda Truitt completed his freshman season in stellar fashion, catching four passes for 124 yards, including a key 59-yard reception that set up Redmon's score. Carnel Smith finished the game with 10 tackles and Barry Threats had a game-ending interception, which ended Texas A&M's final drive and secured the Panthers' victory. The Hancock Bowl win marked the end of another decade in Pitt football history and the dawn of the Hackett coaching era. The Panthers finished the 1989 season with an 8-3-1 record.

Football Lettermen (1890-1993)

The following list was compiled from various sources during the summer of 1981, and has been updated and corrected annually since then. Although all cautions were taken to avoid errors, we do realize that names were most likely omitted due to the immensity of the task. If you have additions, or find errors in the list, please contact the Sports Information Office.

PRO FOOTBALL

Pitt Players In The NFL

During the past two decades, few schools can match the number and quality quotient of players the University of Pittsburgh has forwarded to the National Football League.

Of course, Pitt through the years has been a fertile talent source for the NFL, both for players and coaches. Standouts such as Marshall Goldberg, Jock Sutherland, Joe Schmidt, Joe Walton, Fred Cox, Marty Schottenheimer, and Mike Ditka are among the prominent names in a long roll call of Panthers who have gained fame in pro football.

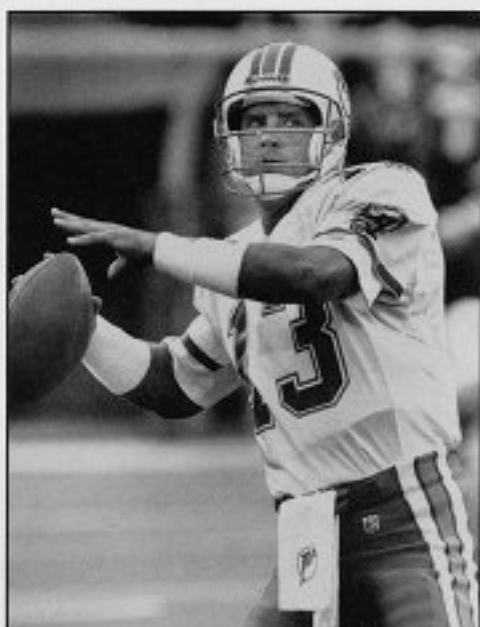

But in the past 18 years, there has been a dramatic surge of top Pitt-bred talent in the NFL. Currently, Marty Schottenheimer is the head coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, and Dave Wannstedt replaced Ditka as coach of the Chicago Bears.

Pitt's recent NFL players have made dramatic impact. Of Pitt's 15 first-round picks since 1981, 13 became starters as rookies.

The great Pitt teams of the late 1970s and early 1980s began providing this motherlode of impact talent to the NFL. Heisman Trophy running back Tony Dorsett started the stream when the Dallas Cowboys traded up with the Seattle Seahawks to select him with the second pick of the 1977 draft. A year later a pair of Dorsett's teammates on Pitt's 1976 national championship team, defensive end Randy Holloway (a Minnesota Vikings first-round pick) and quarterback Matt Cavanaugh (second round by the New England Patriots), joined Dorsett in the NFL.

Three consecutive 11-1 seasons (1979, 1980, and 1981) provided another rich haul of future professional talent. The 1980 squad, in particular, was blessed with an extraordinary number of future NFL stars.

Twelve players were drafted from Pitt's 1980 squad, including three first-round picks: defensive end Hugh Green (Tampa Bay Buccaneers), tackle Mark May (Washington Redskins), and running back Randy McMillan (Baltimore Colts). Defensive end Rickey Jackson (second round, New Orleans Saints), guard Russ Grimm (third round, Washington Redskins), safety Carlton Williamson (third round, San Francisco 49ers), tight end Benjie Pryor (fifth round, Cincinnati Bengals), defensive tackle Jerry Boyarsky (fifth round, New Orleans Saints), defensive tackle Bill Neill Dan Marino has been a stellar quarterback for the Miami Dolphins.

(fifth round, New York Giants), and quarterback Rick Trocano (11th round, Pittsburgh Steelers) were the other draftees; seven additional seniors on the 1980 squad signed free agent contracts with NFL clubs.

Among the underclassmen on that fabulous 1980 team were three players who also would all become NFL first-round draftees in 1983 -- quarterback Dan Marino (Miami Dolphins), tackle Jim Covert (Chicago Bears), and defensive back Tim Lewis (Green Bay Packers) -- as well as defensive tackle Bill Maas, whom the Kansas City Chiefs chose in the first round in 1984. Two other underclassmen in 1980, center Jim Sweeney and defensive back Tom Flynn, went on to fine NFL careers.

The Pitt player pipeline to the NFL has continued throughout the rest of the 1980s. Subsequent first-round draft picks have included guard Bill Fralic (drafted by the Atlanta Falcons) and defensive end Chris Doleman (Minnesota Vikings) in 1985; defensive tackle Bob Buczkowski (Los Angeles Raiders) in 1986; linebacker Tony Woods (Seattle Seahawks) in 1987; running back Craig Heyward (New Orleans Saints) in 1988; defensive end Burt Grossman (San Diego Chargers) and offensive tackle Tom Ricketts (Pittsburgh Steelers) in 1989; and defensive end Sean Gilbert (Los Angeles Rams) in 1992.

NFL talent scouts echo one another when they discuss Pitt prospects.

"Pitt players are a known commodity," says Les Miller, former college personnel director for the San Diego Chargers. "You hardly see any failures there. Not only do they make it, but they become the players everyone expects them to be. They all seem to have the right work ethic and a desire to be the best."

There is no question the kids from Pitt come ready to play in the National Football League," says John Butler, the director of college scouting for the Buffalo Bills.

"I think it is probably true that the kids at Pitt are a little more adaptive to the NFL than kids from most other schools," says Joe Woolley, director of player personnel for the Philadelphia Eagles. "Pitt recruits outstanding athletes, then teaches them pro techniques and uses a lot of pro schemes."

According to a former Pitt great, hard work and skillful coaching are also part of the mix.

"At Pitt, most of the players come from Western Pennsylvania and have that Western Pennsylvania work ethic," says Jim Covert, who was named the NFL Offensive Lineman of the Year in 1986. "You work as hard as you possibly can, and then you work a little harder."

* In the 1960s, the AFL established the same draft format as the NFL by drafting in an inverse order of finish. Each league had its own draft allowing for athletes to be drafted by the AFL and the NFL.

 Jack Durishan was drafted in 1943 by Pittsburgh. He served in the armed forces and after returning was drafted again in 1947 by the New York Yankees.

Steve Jastrzembski was drafted by Boston (AFL) in 1962 and Baltimore (NFL) in 1961.

Pitt Players in the Super Bowl

The Super Bowl is without a doubt the biggest annual one-day event in American sports. A number of former Pitt players have played (and coached) in the Super Bowl, and many wear the ring of victory; in fact, at least one Pitt alumnus has been associated with the winning team in each of the last 11 Super Bowls.

Most recently, Mark Stepnoski appeared as the starting center for the Super Bowl XXVII Champion Dallas Cowboys. Stepnoski was an All-America guard and Outland Trophy finalist for the Panthers in 1988, while also receiving Pitt's Blue-Gold Award, and the NCAA Top Six Award in recognition of his academic excellence.

Mike Ditka is the only Pitt man to win the Super Bowl as both a player and head coach. Ditka was a member of the Dallas Cowboys when they defeated Miami in Super Bowl VI. In 1986, Ditka coached the Chicago Bears to victory in Super Bowl XX against the New England Patriots. Among the Bears' starters that day was tackle Jim Covert, a former Pitt All-American.

Carlton Williamson added a third Super Bowl ring to his collection five years ago as a member of the NFL Champion San Francisco 49ers. The first Pitt alumnus to accomplish this feat, Williamson also earned rings in Super Bowls XVI and XIX. Only two other former Panthers, Russ Grimm and Mark May, have captured the coveted prize more than once. Grimm and May both received rings for the Washington Redskins' triumphs in Super Bowls XVII, XVIII and XXII. Grimm received another ring in 1991.

No Pitt player was more fortunate to get to the Super Bowl than Tom Flynn, who began the 1986 season with Green Bay. The Packers released him, and later in the same season he signed with the New York Giants, who captured Super Bowl XXI.

On the flipside, Fred Cox, a star at Pitt in the late 1950s and early 1960s and a placekicker with the Minnesota Vikings, endured the agony of Super Bowl defeat four times. Dan Marino had arguably the best season ever for a pro quarterback in 1984, but his Dolphins lost to San Francisco in the Super Bowl.

Russ Grimm was a standout center for the Panthers, who went on to play in four Super Bowls as member of the Washington Redskins, before his retirement in 1991.

UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

A Place to Discover

Founded in a log cabin in 1787, the University of Pittsburgh is among the oldest institutions of higher education in the United States. From Pitt classrooms have come more than 200,000 graduates, whose accomplishments range from winning Olympic gold medals to unlocking the secrets of DNA. From University laboratories have come Jonas Salk's polio vaccine and the identification of Vitamin C. Today, this former frontier University is an internationally recognized center of learning and research, strong in the arts and sciences and the professions.

Campuses

The University's Pittsburgh campus consists of more than 90 buildings on 132 acres in Oakland, the city's educational center. Pitt also has campuses in Bradford, Greensburg, Johnstown, and Titusville, Pennsylvania.

Enrollment

Enrollment at Pitt's five campuses stands at approximately 34,336 students-- 24,078 full-time and 10,258 part-time; 24,613 are undergraduates and 9,723 are graduate students. Almost 28,000 of these are enrolled at the Pittsburgh campus.

Faculty

The Pitt faculty totals 2,961 full-time and 609 part-time. The University has 49 endowed chairs and professorships. Each year the University honors faculty excellence with Chancellor's Distinguished Teaching, and Research, and Public Service Awards.

Governance

The University is a state-related, comprehensive institution serving the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the nation, and the international community through its missions of instruction, research, and public service. Its Board of Trustees has 48 members, 12 of whom are appointed by the state. Chancellor J. Dennis O'Connor, a nationally eminent biologist, took office on Aug. 1, 1991, as the 16th Chancellor of the University. O'Connor, 52, previously held top academic posts at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and UCLA.

Research

In 1974, Pitt was elected to membership in the Association of American Universities (AAU), an acknowledgement of its position as one of the top research universities in North America. University researchers bring in more than $193 million annually for sponsored research and service projects.

Pitt Facts

Pitt is 207 years old, making it one of the nation's oldest educational institutions, established in 1787, just after the original colonial colleges.

Pitt is listed among the nation's best public universities in Richard Moll's book The Public Ivys.

Pitt has nearly 20 programs among the nation's finest, including: Anthropology, Art History, Behavioral Neuroscience, Business, Chemistry, History and Philosophy of Science, Internal Medicine, Latin American Studies, Law, Library and Information Science, Microbiology, Nursing, Philosophy, Physics, Psychology, Public Administration, Social Work, Spanish, and Statistics.

Pitt's Honors College allows highly motivated undergraduate students to pursue exceptionally challenging honors courses and degrees and to conduct independent research. Pitt students have won a number of prestigious awards in recent years, including Rhodes, Marshall, and Truman scholarships, and national Mellon Fellowships in the Humanities.

Pitt athletes have won national championships in football, conference titles and national rankings in basketball, and Olympic gold medals in track.

Pitt's University Center for International Studies offers an extensive study-abroad program and the opportunity to spend an entire semester aboard the SS Universe, the world's only floating campus. UCIS also offers area studies programs in Asian, Latin American, East European, Russian, and West European studies.

Pitt offers students valuable internships in a city ranked among the nation's largest corporate headquarters cities.

Chancellor J. Dennis O'Connor

J. Dennis O'Connor makes it a point -- each year -- to meet with Pitt's football recruits and their parents. "I tell them that I expect our athletes to graduate, that our University will help them to graduate, and that our athletic program will make no compromises on integrity."

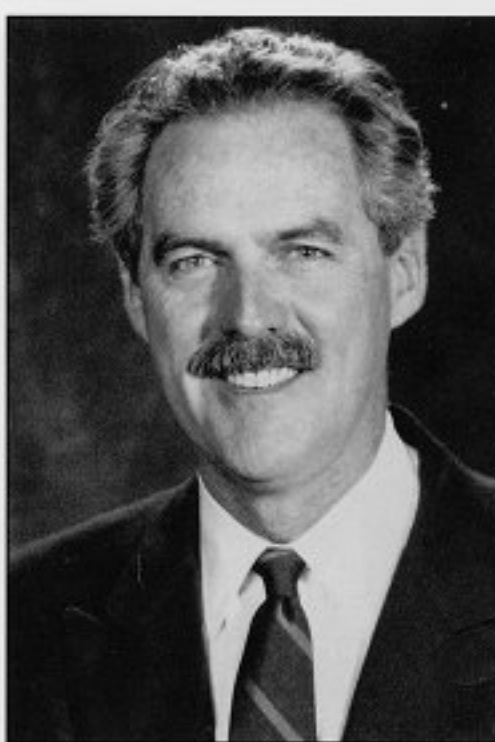

This is the kind of direct and aggressive leadership O'Connor has displayed ever since he arrived at Pitt three years ago. He believes that "university presidents and chancellors must take responsibility for intercollegiate sports, reflecting the enduring and honored values of higher education."

The University maintains a comprehensive NCAA Division I athletics program--men's and women's--and enjoys a tradition of excellence in intercollegiate sports that goes back over a century. Chancellor O'Connor is determined that Pitt will strengthen both its stellar academic programs and the quality of its athletics programs.

O'Connor, 52, is the University of Pittsburgh's 16th Chancellor, a prominent biologist, and a gifted academic administrator. He presides over an institution that is a member of the Association of American Universities (AAU)--the premier 58 research universities in North America. The operational budget for Pitt and its medical center totals more than $1 billion annually.

During his three-year tenure, O'Connor has initiated major changes at Pitt, strengthening the University's presence in Western Pennsylvania and its role as a national center of learning and research. He is also a noted speaker, who has addressed audiences around the world on such topics as scientific and medical ethics, education reform, health care, the changing role of urban universities, and technology transfer between the United States and East Asia.

Prior to coming to Pitt, O'Connor was vice chancellor of academic affairs and provost at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. From 1987 to 1988, he served as Chapel Hill's vice chancellor of research and graduate studies, as well as dean of the graduate school. Formerly he held a series of successively higher-ranking posts at the University of California at Los Angeles. He chaired UCLA's department of biology from 1979 to 1981, and was then named dean of the division of life sciences, serving until 1987. He was a visiting professor at Monash University (Melbourne, Australia) in 1977, and at the University of Nijmegen (Holland) in 1975 and 1976.

As a working scientist, O'Connor conducted research in developmental biology, and was principal investigator for 15 funded research projects. He also published more than 80 papers in leading scientific journals. At Pitt, he teaches biology at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

A native of Chicago, O'Connor earned his bachelor's degree in 1963 from Loyola University, where he played basketball, and earned his master's degree from DePaul University in 1966. He was awarded a Ph.D. degree from Northwestern University in 1968.

Chancellor O'Connor is an influential leader in both Western Pennsylvania and in American higher education. He is president of the University of Pittsburgh Trust and a member of the executive committee of the Allegheny Conference on Community Development. He serves as a member on the boards of directors of the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center, PNC Bank, Greater Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, Regional Industrial Development Corporation of Southwestern Pennsylvania, Urban League of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh Symphony, Forging a New Freedom, AAA West Penn/West Virginia, Pennsylvania Partnerships for Children, and World Affairs Council of Pittsburgh.

He is also a member of the Institute of Medicine Committee on Educating Dentists for the Future, the AAU Steering Committee on Technology Transfer and Intellectual Property, and the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges Advisory Council of Presidents.

O'Connor and his wife, Anne, a nationally recognized oncology nurse specialist, have three children: Timothy, who recently began a post graduate fellowship at UCLA; Dierdre, a social worker in Chicago; and Gavin, a law student at the University of Pittsburgh.

L. Oval Jaynes, Director of Athletics

The first three years of Oval Jaynes' athletic administration have reflected a time of many changes and challenges. But every decision and move was based on one basic principle: continuing Pitt's athletic excellence in the difficult, ever-changing world of intercollegiate athletics, while maintaining the student-first philosophy for its student-athletes.

As the Jaynes' administration moves into its fourth year, the future of Pitt athletics beams even brighter. A massive renovation project for Pitt's athletic facilities -- initially focusing on Pitt Stadium and a new football complex -- and the planned construction of a convocation center have all advanced during Jaynes' tenure. Two other significant developments at Pitt in the past three years were the hirings of Football Coach John Majors and Men's Basketball Coach Ralph Willard, which have generated a renewed interest in both of those high-profile sports and in Pitt athletics in general.

Jaynes also has reorganized the athletic department, reconfiguring the administration into a more effective, efficient operation to help offset the spiraling costs of intercollegiate athletics.

Despite a difficult economic environment, however, Pitt's 19 varsity sports teams have remained competitive both at the conference and national levels.

Jaynes was named Pitt's athletics director on September 1, 1991. But, he wasn't about to sail into uncharted waters from either a geographic or administrative vantage point. Jaynes, who spent much of his professional career from the mid-1960s until the early 1980s coaching football at the intercollegiate level, spent a substantial portion of that time recruiting throughout Pennsylvania and called his appointment at Pitt "almost like a homecoming."

Jaynes has maintained a busy agenda since the day he arrived at Pitt, traveling to Golden Panther and alumni functions throughout Pennsylvania and the Northeast to spread the Pitt story and to cement lasting commitments between Pitt people and their university.

"First and foremost, Oval shares our view that all varsity athletes are, first, students who choose to compete in intercollegiate athletics, and that athletics are an integral part of the academic life of this University," said Dr. J. Dennis O'Connor, who had become Pitt's chancellor just two weeks before hiring Jaynes. "He also shares our philosophy of sport, based on the principles of

"You have to do it (intercollegiate athletics) the right way. We are a very visible part of the university. I'm aware of that, and I want our student athletes to understand it is their responsibility to conduct themselves in an appropriate manner."

integrity and excellence throughout all men's and women's programs, in an environment of teaching and scholarship."

Jaynes charges all Pitt student-athletes with meeting the challenges presented by today's rigorous academics-athletics environment.

"You have to do it (intercollegiate athletics) the right way. We are a very visible part of the university," he said. "I'm aware of that, and I want our student athletes to understand it is their responsibility to conduct themselves in an appropriate manner, because they are representatives of the University. It is a great honor to be an athlete and a student at the University of Pittsburgh."

In more than 30 years as an administrator and coach in intercollegiate athletics, Jaynes has forged an outstanding reputation among his colleagues.

Last year, in fact, Jaynes was selected as the chairman of the executive committee of the Big East Football Conference.

Jaynes has also been active in the NCAA. He was honored in 1990 with one of the most prestigious appointments available to university administrators, when he was named to the 46-member NCAA Council. He is a former member of the NCAA Nominating Committee, and he served for nearly three years as chairman of the NCAA District VII Postgraduate Scholarship Committee.

Prior to Pitt, Jaynes had been director of athletics at Colorado State University from 1986-1991, and is widely credited with revitalizing the school's football and basketball programs.

Under Jaynes, Colorado State's basketball team earned two straight NCAA tournament berths, two Western Athletic Conference championships, and a third-place finish in the National Invitation Tournament. Basketball attendance also more than doubled during that time.

In football, the Rams emerged from relative obscurity and into Division I-A prominence. In 1990, Colorado State defeated Oregon in the Freedom Bowl, CSU's first bowl invitation in 42 years. Home attendance also soared, with season ticket sales tripling.

Jaynes also supervised the reorganization of the Ram Booster Club, whose creative fund-raising methods produced mass increases in financial support by Colorado State supporters.

Before becoming athletics director at Colorado State, Jaynes was associate director of athletics at Auburn. Prior to that, he served as a football coach for nearly 20 years at the Division I level.

Born July 25, 1940, Jaynes is a 1962 mathematics graduate from Appalachian State in Boone, North Carolina. Jaynes also holds a master's degree from the University of North Carolina. He is married to the former Priscilla Sink. They have two sons: Lee, a 1984 North Carolina graduate, resides in South Carolina, while Brandon, a 1988 North Carolina graduate, and his wife, Jennifer, a 1991 North Carolina graduate, reside in Chapel Hill.

Administration

Carol Sprague
Senior Associate Athletic Director/
Varsity Sports

Carol Sprague begins her 20th year in the University of Pittsburgh Athletics Department.

Sprague is the senior administrator for all of Pitt's sports programs except football and men's basketball. In 1993-94, Pitt's varsity sports teams had one of their most successful seasons, capturing Big East Championships in women's volleyball, men's swimming and diving, men's and women's outdoor track and field, and baseball (Pitt's first league title in that sport). The women's basketball team finished third in the women's NIT.

Sprague began her career at Pitt in 1974 as an assistant swim coach. She also served as the women's sports program and scheduling coordinator, coordinator of student affairs for student athletes, and assistant athletics director for women's sports. Her duties were expanded to include all varsity sports -- men's and women's -- in 1990, when Sprague was promoted to associate athletics director. She was named to her current post in July 1993.

A graduate of Slippery Rock University, Sprague earned her B.S. in health and physical education in 1971 and her M.S. in physical education administration in 1974.

Sprague was a national qualifier in swimming during college and was a member of two United States Slo-Pitch Softball Association World Championship softball teams. She was inducted into the Penn Hills Sports Hall of Fame in May 1992.

Joe Phillips
Assistant Athletic Director/
Administration

Joe Phillips joined the Department of Athletics in March of 1992.

Phillips is responsible for the fiscal affairs of the athletics department and for supervising the day-to-day operations of the athletic business office and its dealings with the University's controller, purchasing, human resources and budget offices.

Phillips began his tenure at Pitt as a student, graduating with a bachelor of arts in business and economics in 1985. After graduation, Phillips became a senior auditor in the University's Internal Audit Department, where he reviewed both the financial and operational activities of University departments. During this time, Phillips also worked toward a post-baccalaureate degree at night. He completed his M.B.A. at Pitt in April of 1991.

Jim Bass
Director of Development for Athletics

Jim Bass was named Pitt's director of athletic development this past January, after serving as the assistant athletic director for marketing at East Carolina University for the past five years.

Bass is responsible for coordinating the operations of the Pitt Golden Panther Office, which includes the development and implementation of strategies for all annual athletic fundraising initiatives for the Department of Athletics.

At East Carolina, the Dunn, North Carolina, native was responsible for overseeing the marketing and promotional efforts of the ECU Athletic Department as well as directing all football team travel. He also served as a member of the CAA Basketball Tournament Committee for eight years.

Bass earned his bachelor's degree in speech-communications from N.C. State in 1978 and his master's degree in sports administration at Ohio University, where he served as a graduate assistant for the Bobcat football team.

A member of the National Collegiate Directors of Athletics, Bass and his wife Sarah have a son, Corey (8).

Bill Bryant
Assistant Athletic Director/
Student Services

Bill Bryant joined the Pitt staff four years ago and currently serves as Pitt's assistant athletic director for student affairs.

Bryant's career in college athletics began in 1972 as the defensive coordinator of the freshman football squad at Cal-Davis. He spent the next 12 years serving as an assistant football coach at the University of California-Berkeley, Oregon, Indiana State, Weber State, Northern Arizona, and New Mexico State. In 1984, Bryant took the position of assistant athletic director for student services at Oregon. He went on to take a similar position at Arizona State University, where he served as NCAA Compliance Coordinator for two years.

Bryant is a 1970 graduate of the University of California-Davis, where he received a bachelor's degree in physical education. He also earned a master's degree in the same field at the University of Oregon in 1984.

He and his wife JoAnn have two children, Christy (16) and Bobby (13).

Administration

Larry Eldridge Jr.
Assistant Athletic Director/
Public Relations

Larry Eldridge Jr. became Pitt's sports information director in 1987, after working as a publicist at ABC Sports. He was promoted to assistant athletic director for public relations in 1988.

In his current capacity, Eldridge oversees the publicity, marketing, and public relations initiatives for the Department of Athletics. He also serves as executive editor for most publications produced by the department, coordinates advertising and special video projects, and assists in the development and operation of local television and radio packages.

Following graduation from Villanova University in 1975, Eldridge was the director of sports information and assistant news bureau director at LaSalle, before being named sports information director at Yale in 1978.

Eldridge joined National Football League Properties Inc., in 1981, as associate editor for the Creative Services Division. In that capacity his responsibilities were conceptual development, writing, and editorial supervision for NFL publications.

Eldridge and his wife Jill have three children: Jeffrey (6), Rebecca (4), and Gregory (2).

Mark Hollis
Assistant Athletic Director/
Operations & Facilities Management

Mark Hollis became Pitt's assistant athletic director for operations and facilities management in August 1993.

Hollis is responsible for the operation of athletic facilities, athletic-sponsored events, and he supervises personnel in the areas of equipment, athletic training, strength and conditioning, video, cheerleading, and band. Hollis also serves as the athletics department's liaison with the University's parking, police, and facilities management departments.

Before joining the Pitt staff, Hollis previously was the assistant commissioner for the Western Athletic Conference (WAC), where he was responsible for the league's financial operations, promotions, and championships.

Hollis received his bachelor's degree in communications from Michigan State University in 1985, and served as the men's basketball manager. He earned his M.B.A. degree from Colorado in 1992.

He and his wife Nancy have one son, Thomas (1).

Rex Hough
Ticket Manager

Named Pitt's ticket manager in July of 1993, Rex Hough begins his fourth year in the Pitt Ticket Office. In his current position, he is responsible for all sales and distribution of football and basketball tickets.

Hough graduated from West Virginia University in 1988 with a degree in business administration.

Married to the former Jill Donofrio, Hough resides in North Versailles.

Donna DeMarino Sanft
Assistant Athletic Director/
Compliance

Donna Sanft took over the responsibility of coordinator of student affairs for athletes in 1985. Promoted to assistant athletic director for student affairs and compliance in 1988. Sanft's responsibilities were changed in 1983 to concentrate primarily in compliance.

Sanft monitors athletes' grades, eligibility, and financial aid, and coordinates the department's compliance and NCAA rules education programs.

While coaching the Lady Panthers gymnastics team for 12 years (1974-1986), Sanft compiled an 82-50-1 record. She was twice selected as the Eastern Collegiate Coach of the Year.

A 1974 graduate of Pitt with a B.S. and M.Ed. in physical education, Sanft was a member of the gymnastics team and was named Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year in 1974.

She and her husband Elliott have two daughters, Leah (14) and Liza (11).

Administration

Les Banos
Sports Video Coordinator

Les Banos was named Pitt's official video coordinator in 1988, and videotapes all Pitt football and basketball games, home and away, as well as Pitt's remaining varsity sports as needed. He has been filming football games for football games for Pitt's coaching staffs since 1978.

He worked for one year (1958-59) at WIC-TV (now WPXI Channel 11) as a film editor during that station's first year in operation, then moved across town to WTAE-TV in that station's inceptional season. Banos worked at WTAE until 1969, specializing in sports.

In 1969, Banos joined the Pittsburgh Pirates as their official team photographer, where he remained until 1977. He also filmed games for the Pittsburgh Steelers from 1969-73.

Jim Earle
Program Coordinator/Varsity Sports

Jim Earle is one of the newest members of the Pitt Athletic Department staff, joining the department this past December as Pitt's program coordinator for varsity sports.

Earle assists the coaches and the senior associate athletics director with the administration of Pitt's varsity sports program.

Prior to Pitt, Earle was a buyer for Kaufmann's Department Store for six years.

Earle received his bachelor's degree in marketing from Miami (Ohio) in 1988. He currently is pursuing his M.B.A. at Pitt and is expected to graduate in July 1995.

Earle and his wife Heather reside in the North Hills area of Pittsburgh.

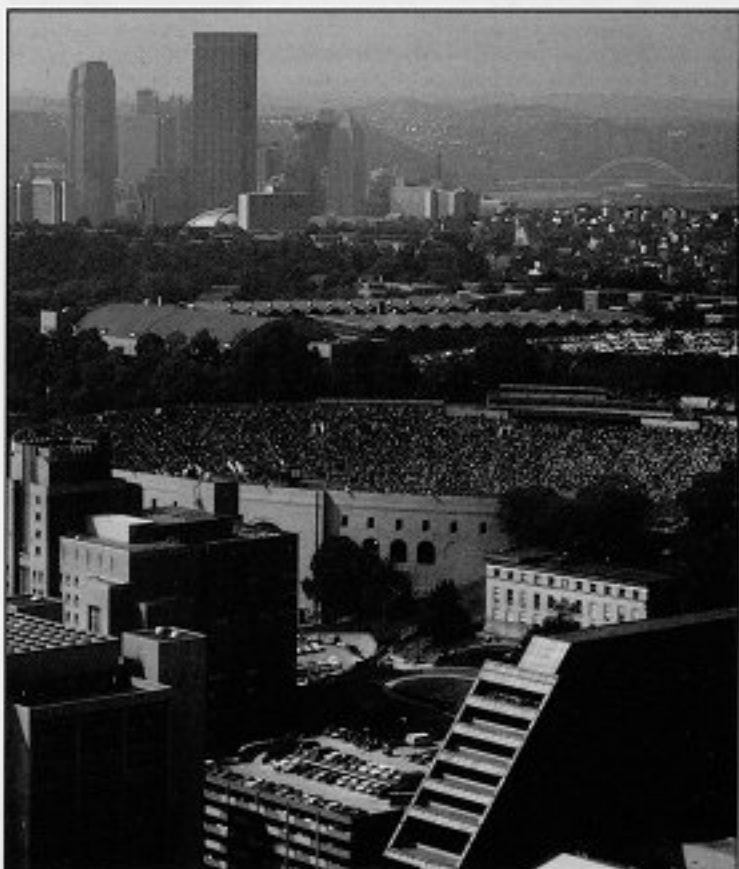

Sandy Blum
Travel Coordinator

Sandy Blum joined the Pitt Athletic Department last fall as the department's new travel coordinator.

In her position, Blum, 25, is responsible for coordinating travel and accommodation activities for all athletic department teams and personnel. In addition, she manages department travel policy to ensure compliance with the both the NCAA and University travel regulations, handles reimbursement for travel expenses, and travel budgets for all varsity sports.

Prior to her appointment to the athletic department, Blum served as the logistics coordinator for a multilingual development management training institute for four years.

Blum graduated from Pitt in 1990.

Administration

Jana Gordon
Special Events and Gifts Coordinator

Jana Gordon enters her third year with the Golden Panthers as the special events and gifts coordinator.

A 1991 graduate of Pitt, Gordon has a bachelor of arts degree in communications with concentration in media. Gordon began her career with the Department of Athletics as a student intern in both the Golden Panthers organization and Sports Information office. She was hired full-time with the Golden Panthers in July 1992.

Gordon is responsible for the coordination of all Golden Panther events as well as handling the membership accounts for more than 4,000 Golden Panther members.

Gordon will be married this August to Chris Sestili, a former center and four-year football letterman for the Panthers.

Steve Petro
Assistant to the Athletic Director

Steve Petro has a long association with Pitt, dating back to his days on the football field in the 1930s. He lettered for the Pitt football team from 1936-1938, playing on a national championship and Rose Bowl team.

In 1990, Petro was honored by having the administrative area of the Cost Sports Center dedicated in his name.

Petro received his degree in 1939 and came back to Pitt in 1950, serving in various capacities ever since.

He was an assistant football coach from 1950 through 1972, before becoming the assistant to the athletic director. Since retiring in 1984, Petro has remained in a part time position.

Petro worked for U.S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel before coming back to coach at Pitt. He also played with Brooklyn's football Dodgers. He served in World War II from 1942-1945.

John Novey
Assistant Director for Athletics Development

John Novey joined the Athletic Department in November 1992, after serving as the director of the Pitt Ambassadors program. In that capacity, he was responsible for managing Pitt's relationships with 130 businesses who volunteer financial support to the University of Pittsburgh through donor-given contributions.

Prior to coming to Pitt, Novey had 17 years experience in the sales and marketing profession. A former professional basketball player, Novey played with the Virginia Squires (ABA), and the Baltimore Bullets (NBA) during the early 1970s.

Novey is a 1971 graduate of Mt. St. Mary's College in Emmitsburg, Maryland, with a bachelor of science degree in secondary education. He and his wife Maria reside in the North Hills with their son Michael (4).

Sam Sciuolo Jr.
Assistant Sports Information Director

Sam Sciuolo Jr. begins his fourth year in the Pitt Sports Information Office. He is primarily responsible for coordinating production of the athletic department's publications, and the publicity efforts for Pitt's women's basketball, track/cross country, swimming, tennis, soccer, and volleyball teams.

A member of CoSIDA, he edited the 1991 Pitt Football Media Guide which received one district and two national awards. Sciuolo also co-edited a recently published book about the history of Pitt football.

Prior to his arrival at Pitt, Sciuolo was sports information director at Robert Morris College from 1987-90. He was athletics publications director, from 1982-87, at Texas A&M University.

In 1981-82, Sciuolo was information director for the Eastern Athletic Association (now the Atlantic 10 Conference).

A 1981 Pitt graduate with a B.A. in English, Sciuolo wrote for The Pitt News, The Owl, and was a spotter/statistician for Pitt's football radio network from 1979-81.

Administration

Kimball Smith
Director of Marketing

Kimball Smith begins his 18th year in the Pitt Athletic Department.

A 1975 graduate of Cornell University, Smith earned his master's degree in athletic administration from the University of Massachusetts in 1976. He came to Pitt as a graduate intern in the fall of 1976 and was hired full time in 1977.

Smith coordinates marketing efforts for the athletic department and its 19 varsity sports programs.

During his time at Pitt, Smith has produced both football and basketball highlight films; produced and edited ticket promotional literature; devised group sales strategies; and coordinated a highly successful telemarketing campaign for football season tickets.

He has also been the basketball sports information director.

Married, his wife's name is Nancy. The Smiths have a daughter, Kelly (16), and two sons, Kyle (8) and Kameron (6).

Jim Thomas
Assistant Business Manager

Thomas began his association with Pitt in 1974 as the assistant business manager, handling various duties within the department.

Thomas helps coordinate purchasing and numerous financial transactions for the athletic department.

A 1973 graduate of Robert Morris College with a degree in business administration, Thomas worked at Community Action Pittsburgh before coming to Pitt.

Thomas and his wife Fran have two children, Jimmy (17) and Shannon (15).

Donna Sloan
Assistant Coordinator of Student Affairs for Athletes

An employee of the University of Pittsburgh for 13 years, Donna Sloan begins her sixth year in the Athletic Department as the assistant coordinator of student affairs. She transferred from Pitt's Office of Student Accounts in July 1988, where she was an administrative aide.

Sloan helps to process student-athlete financial aid, monitor athletic eligibility, and monitor student athletes' registration. She earned an associate's degree in business from Duff's School of Business in 1978.

Sloan's interests outside the Athletic Department involve music. She is a soloist and director of three choirs at the Christ Missionary Baptist Church of Homewood.

Ron Wahl
Assistant Sports Information Director

Ron Wahl is in his seventh year as a member of the Pitt Sports Information staff and is responsible for coordinating publicity efforts for the football, men's basketball, and baseball teams.

A member of CoSIDA, Wahl edited the 1989-90 Pitt Varsity Sports Yearbook that was selected as the Best in the Nation.

Before coming to Pitt, Wahl served as sports information director and assistant media relations director at Point Park College.

Wahl received a bachelor's degree in journalism from Indiana University of Pennsylvania (where he also played football for three years) in 1982, and worked as an intern in the IUP Sports Information office. He earned his master's degree in journalism and communications in May 1993 from Point Park College.

Wahl and his wife Elaine have a daughter, Erika (4).

Pitt Stadium History

Not until 1925 did Pitt football teams have a home to call their own.

From 1890 to 1908, Pitt (then known as Western University of Pennsylvania) played at various ballparks, including old Recreation Park and Exposition Park on Pittsburgh's North Side, in the general vicinity of Three Rivers Stadium.

From 1909-1924, Pitt teams played at Forbes Field, the old home of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Forbes Quadrangle (which houses University classrooms and several departments), bordered by Roberto Clemente Drive, now stands on the old Forbes Field site.

Because of great interest in Pitt football, Forbes Field's capacity of 32,000 grew to be inadequate in the early 1920s. The 11,000 alumni and 9,000 students, each of whom were entitled to two seats, left little space for the general public. This was especially true for the big games of the day against Washington & Jefferson, Carnegie Tech, Penn State, and West Virginia.

The vexing question of where to locate a new stadium was solved by the discovery of a perfectly practical land site, part of which belonged to the University, and the remainder of which lay immediately adjacent -- nine acres of the Bailey Estate. In the summer of 1923, the Athletic Council bought this ground, turning it over to the Trustees of the University to become a part of the campus.

In November of 1924, the Trustees authorized a first mortgage bond issue of $2,100,000, the proceeds to be deposited with the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh as trustee, and to be used for the purchase of this site and the erection of the stadium. The sale of the bonds, which carried with them ticket buying privileges, was conducted by volunteer solicitors, including Jock Sutherland. The campaign was a striking success, the entire issue being taken within nine days. At the end of that period oversubscriptions of more than a half million dollars had to be returned.

The original stadium committee appointed by the Board of Trustees to oversee site selection, a bond sale, and construction included George H. Clapp, president; K. E. Davis, secretary; A. R. Hamilton; A. J. Kelly, Jr.; C. W. Wettach; and Floyd Rose, committee members.

W. S. Hindman, an 1898 graduate of the University's School of Engineering, was the chief engineer and designer of the stadium.

Construction began on August 7, 1924, and was completed September 1, 1925, less than four weeks before Pitt played Washington & Lee in the first game at the new stadium.

Jock Sutherland, while he was still head coach at Lafayette, had purchased several thousand dollars worth of bonds two years before the stadium was built. After he succeeded Pop Warner as Pitt's head coach, he proceeded to sell bonds to former teammates from his own playing days under Warner. He also actively promoted the bonds to other people in the Pittsburgh community.

The Turner Construction Company, the same firm that had built Penn's Franklin Field and Cornell's Schoellkopf Stadium, was the general contractor. The John F. Casey Company did the excavating work; the McIntock-Marshall Company did the steel work, and the New England Foundation Company provided the foundations.

Pitt Stadium, which covers approximately nine acres, is 791 feet long and 617 feet wide. It was originally configured to hold a capacity of 69,400, and the design permitted future double-decking (allowing provisions for another 30,000 seats to be added if desired).

A total of 2,200 tons of structural steel was used in setting up the bowl, as well as 1,000 tons of reinforced steel, and 20,000 cubic yards of concrete.

Unlike many of its contemporaries in the 1920s, which had been built to accommodate one or two sports, Pitt Stadium at the time of its construction was a unique multi-faceted venue. It housed nearly all of the University's nonaquatic sports: football, basketball, baseball, track, rifle and gymnastics. The basketball court in the Stadium Pavilion (beneath the ramps inside Gate 2) served as Pitt's home from 1925 until 1951, when Fitzgerald Field House opened. While in use for home basketball games, it contained permanent seats at two ends, and temporary bleachers on the sides, accommodating 4,000 people.

The Pittsburgh Steelers and Carnegie Tech (now Carnegie Mellon University), have used Pitt Stadium as their home fields at one time or another.

The stadium has undergone several significant changes, particularly within the past 20 years. In 1970, Astroturf became the playing surface, replacing natural grass. A Superturf replaced the Astroturf in 1984. During the summer of 1990, a new Astroturf surface was installed.

One improvement that hit close to home with Panther supporters in the late 1970s was a change in seating structures from wood to metal benches, eliminating the splintery discomfort caused by some 17

Eiseman-Prussin Room

In 1988, Pitt dedicated a multipurpose room inside Gate 2 at the stadium as the Eiseman-Prussin Conference Room in memory of Edwin H. Eiseman, a 1967 Pitt graduate. George J. Prussin, who contributed $75,000 to the recently opened Cost Sports Center, wanted, in some way, "to honor and sustain the memory" of Eiseman.

A 1967 graduate and a member of Pitt's baseball team, Prussin became friendly with Eiseman through the Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity and through intramural sports. Eiseman died of Hodgkin's disease in 1969.

Pitt Stadium History

miles of wood that had been subjected to a half century of the elements.

The current scoreboard was installed prior to the 1977 season. A new computer system, featuring football animation software, was installed in the summer of 1989, vastly enhancing the capabilities of the message center. The auxiliary scoreboard was also modified in 1988, and now includes significant game data, including down and distance.

Pitt Stadium became a more efficient and more attractive edifice in 1978, when a new coaching complex was opened. The two-floor office, reception, conference room, and workout area now houses the entire football staff.

In addition, a brand new, spacious, and more efficient Ticket Office headquarters was opened at Gate 1 in 1979.

Improvements completed in 1990 include a video editing suite adjacent to the football administrative offices and the George Stewart Auditorium team meeting room directly above the weight room.

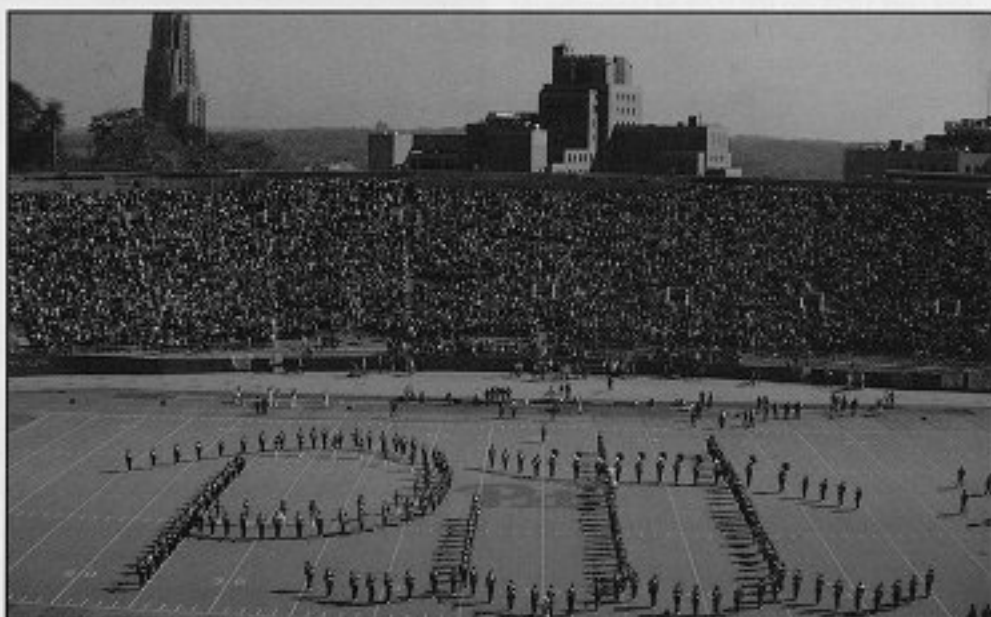

Lights were installed on a temporary basis for night games in 1985 and 1986. Pitt's first night game ever in the stadium was a thrilling 31-30 win over Purdue on August 31, 1985. Permanent lights were installed before the 1987 season.

The current lights consist of six standards -- four on the home side of the field and two on the visitor's side -- and range from 110- to 180-foot tall. Each pole contains 50 1,500 watt metal halide lighting fixtures. The system is designed to reduce glare and augment television depth perception.

The Pitt Stadium is now the home of the Panthers' football, soccer, and track teams.

Embracing The Future

A new age is dawning in college athletics. Just as the University of Pittsburgh faces increased challenges on the playing fields, it faces heightened competition in other areas as well. To achieve success at the highest levels in the 1990s and beyond, a major college athletic program requires modern facilities with contemporary, state-of-the-art components.

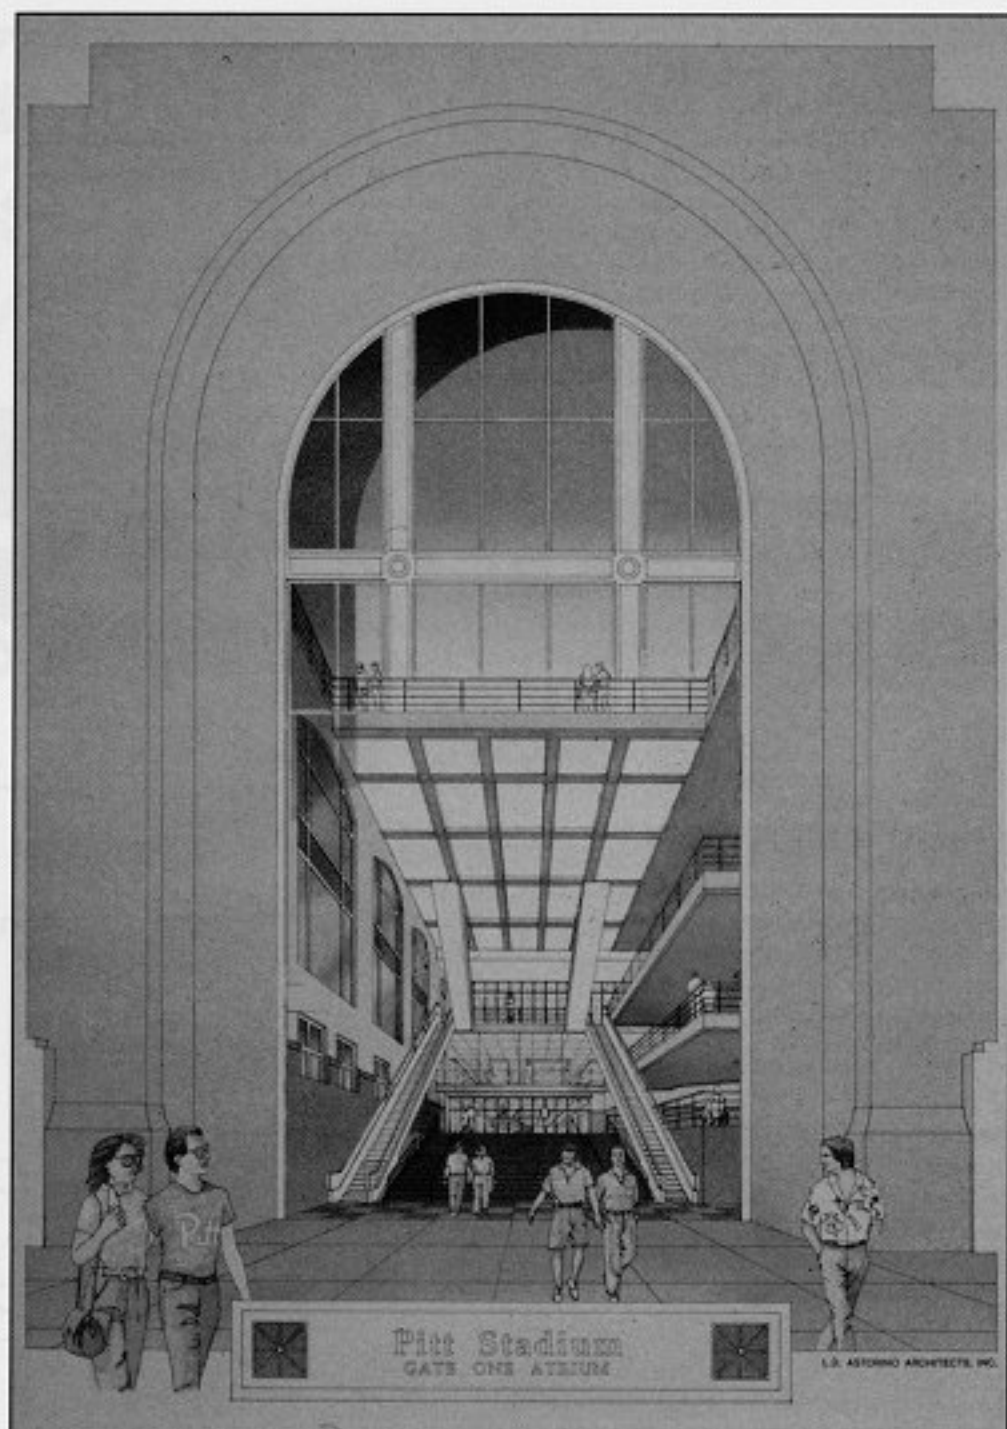

University of Pittsburgh Chancellor J. Dennis O'Connor, Athletic Director Oval Jaynes, and Head Coach Johnny Majors share a promising vision of the future...a future that is bright for Pitt football. Together they have pledged to improve and update Pitt Stadium...to pass the torch to the Second Century.

THE SECOND CENTURY FUND

The Second Century Fund, the largest capital project ($19,410,000) in Pitt's athletic history, has been approved to fund a renovation project that will turn Pitt Stadium into a state-of-the-art facility...a facility that will distinguish Pitt football from its competitors, help accomplish athletic and academic goals, and restore pride and Pitt football's winning tradition.

The University has designed a strategy, that in its versatility will update and improve Pitt's athletic facilities for the 21st century...a strategy that will ultimately feature the construction of a multi-purpose Convocation Center and include renovations to Fitzgerald Field House and Trees Hall. The first vital phase of this enterprise calls for a modernization of Pitt Stadium, including a new football complex that will fortify Pitt's football stake in the future.

The premise is simple. The Pitt football program's needs have significantly outgrown and surpassed the existing facilities in Pitt Stadium. Yet Pitt Stadium has much valuable space that is currently unused. There is enough available space inside Pitt Stadium to accommodate its transformation into one of the best, most contemporary facilities in the country...a facility that will better allow Pitt's student athletes to flourish and grow.

This dramatic gateway to the Pitt Athletics Department is part of the proposed renovation project at Pitt Stadium. Atrium space, planned for the eighth and final phase of the project, will include areas for retail activities, a multi-purpose room, ample queuing space at ticket windows, and easier accessibility to Pitt Stadium by all individuals.

The successful completion of this project will serve as a tribute to the achievements of the exceptional student athletes and coaches who have distinguished the University of Pittsburgh for more than a century, as well as a commitment to those who will wear the blue and gold in the century to come.

Embracing The Future

MORE THAN A GAME...

A college football program represents more than the competition on the field. It also competes in recruiting, academic accomplishments, graduate placement, and many other areas central to the development of its student athletes. When space is planned and allocated, every need of the athletes must be considered...for those already enrolled at Pitt, and for those weighing a future with one of the nation's finest and most long-standing college football programs.

Pitt student athletes deserve the best during their academic and athletic careers at the University. With increasingly difficult schedules and challenging academic demands, student athletes require special academic support. And striving for excellence in athletics begins with the proper conditioning and training facilities.

To provide a world class support facility that will emphasize academic and personal development as well as athletic growth and achievement, The Second Century Fund will address many needs, including:

- * new academic areas:
 - classrooms/computer lab
 - counseling/tutorial offices
- * new locker rooms
- * new weight room
- * new training/sports medicine areas
- * new band complex
- * new office space
- * new video center

In choosing to concentrate the initial phases of this campaign in the areas of sports medicine, weight and fitness training, and academic support facilities, the priorities are clear: The University of Pittsburgh is reaffirming its commitment to put the needs of the student athletes at the top of the list.

One feature of this commitment will be a greatly expanded facility for the Academic Support Services Office, more than quadrupling the space currently available to the student athletes and augmenting their opportunities for academic growth and development.

Featuring classrooms, individual tutorial and small group meeting rooms, a library and media resource center, auditorium, computer lab, and a large study lounge, this facility will bring Pitt to the forefront in academic support programs for student athletes.

The new complex also will contain a modernized training and sports medicine facility that will be twice the size of the current training room. Among the planned improvements are expanded rehabilitation facilities, including an aquatic rehabilitation pool; updated medical equipment; a computerized injury tracking system; and proximity to the weight training area.

Another major element of the renovation project will be a permanent home in Pitt Stadium for the marching band, a comprehensive complex that will include a main rehearsal hall and five individual rehearsal areas, uniform and instrument storage areas, a music library, a reception area, and locker rooms for band members.

Additional components of the campaign will address gameday operation needs, including reconfiguration of the interior concourses to permit easier access throughout the stadium; new restroom and concession facilities; and an expanded ticket office.

Pitt Football Facilities

The University of Pittsburgh has several facilities that are available to the Pitt football program: "The Iron Works," Pitt's football weight room; the George Stewart Auditorium; and the Charles L. Cost Sports Center.

The newly renovated Pitt "Iron Works" is the showcase for the Pitt football program. This past winter, nearly 30 pieces of state-of-the-art equipment from Kell Inc. and Hammer Strength were added to the existing equipment, upgrading the weight room considerably. In addition, an attractive new record board was constructed in the room, and all the weight benches and inclines were refurbished and repadded.

Pitt's "Iron Works" currently has nearly 30,000 pounds of free weights in addition to several Nautilus machines. But all these improvements are only the beginning. The weight room will be one of the first areas to be addressed in Pitt's stadium renovation project, which is scheduled to begin this November.

The Stewart Auditorium, dedicated May 1, 1991, was completed in the summer of 1990 and is used for team meetings, football postgame press conferences, and viewing game video. Equipped with state-of-the-art video and audio systems, the Stewart Auditorium has four individual meeting rooms built around the spacious auditorium and balcony, which is capable of seating an entire football squad. The raised stage in front of the auditorium makes the facility perfect for lectures and press conferences.

Another complex available to the football team is the Charles L. Cost Sports Center. This indoor athletic complex is used as an indoor workout facility for the football team. Charles L. Cost, a running back and three-sport athlete at Pitt in the mid-1950s, donated in excess of $1 million toward construction of the the complex, which sits atop a seven-story parking garage (Towerview Garage).

Pitt football players receive top medical care in the football training room. A rehabilitation room was recently constructed adjacent to the training room and includes several pieces of state-of-the-art rehab equipment. Along with the rehab room, a new players lounge was built just inside the Gate 3 entrance to the football locker room.

Sports Medicine

More than 500 University of Pittsburgh student athletes receive medical care provided by the University's athletic training program.

Pitt is one of only 73 colleges and universities which offers an undergraduate athletic training education program approved by the National Athletic Trainers' Association (N.A.T.A.). Established in 1975, the athletic training program prepares students for a career in the multidisciplinary field of sports medicine. Upon completion of the athletic training education program, the student is eligible for the N.A.T.A.-administered certification examination.

The athletic training curriculum has 40 undergraduate and 15 graduate students enrolled and is staffed by six faculty certified athletic trainers who operate the University's sports medicine program.

Pitt athletes are cared for in three athletic training rooms on campus. Each sport has a full-time staff trainer or graduate assistant and student trainers assigned to provide medical coverage during all practices and games. This staff is dedicated to providing all aspects of prevention, evaluation, management, and rehabilitation of athletic injuries and illnesses.

The sports medicine staff also runs a sports medicine clinic in Pitt Stadium for all athletes to be evaluated by one of the sports medicine physicians. This clinic provides the athletes with an opportunity to be seen by specialists as well as providing the student athletic trainer with an outstanding learning situation.

The clinic is staffed by Dr. Freddie H. Fu, head team physician, and is assisted by Dr. Christopher Harner (orthopaedic surgeon), Dr. Jon P. Warner (orthopaedic surgeon), Dr. David Stone (rehabilitation and sports medicine), Dr. Nick Ghaphery (osteopath), Dr. Donald Marion (neurosurgery), and three sports medicine fellows. In addition, a staff of consulting specialists is available at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center to assist in providing top quality medical treatment for Pitt athletes. Hospital care is provided at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center (UPMC).

Dr. Freddie Fu Team Physician

Dr. Freddie Fu begins his eighth year as Pitt's team physician and orthopaedic surgeon.

He graduated summa cum laude from Dartmouth College in 1974, and received his B.M.S. in 1975 from Dartmouth Medical School. Fu earned his medical degree in 1977 at Pitt, and completed his general surgery internship at Brown University. He then returned to Pitt to study under an orthopaedic research fellowship, and completed his residency in orthopaedic surgery. During that time, Dr. Fu studied under an A.O. International Fellowship at the Hannover Trauma Center in West Germany, and studied arthroscopic surgery at East Lansing, Michigan.

Fu is currently the medical director at the Sports Medicine Institute for the University of Pittsburgh, and the Blue Cross of Western Pennsylvania. He also is a professor of orthopaedic surgery in the Pitt School of Medicine's Department of Orthopaedic Surgery.

Fu, who has been elected to the Herodicus Society, a prestigious sports-medicine organization with limited worldwide membership, was honored in May, 1988, when he toured Europe repre-sending the United States. He traveled through 17 cities as the sports medicine Travelling Fellow representing this nation as an orthopaedic specialist in sports medicine. He visited nearly 35 sports medicine centers.

During his career, Fu has published more than 200 manuscripts, books, and articles, and has prepared and delivered more than 400 film and slide presentations, reaching audiences in Europe and Asia. In 1987, Dr. Fu made a slide presentation about Pitt football on a Hong Kong television show.

Fu is involved with several research projects, many of which examine the effects of various activities on ligaments and joints.

He also has a large involvement in the community. Fu is the Chairman of the Board and Executive Medical Director of the Giant Eagle-City of Pittsburgh Marathon and 10K, Company Doctor for the Pittsburgh Ballet Theater, and Team Physician for Mt. Lebanon High School's football team. He also is on the Board of Trustees of the Pittsburgh Ballet Theater, Board of Governors of the Three Rivers Club, and he is a past president and current CEO of the QED Children's Festival Chorus of Pittsburgh.

Fu and his wife Hilda have two children, Gordon, 17, and Joyce, 13. The family resides in Point Breeze.

Pitt's football players receive medical care through Pitt's sports medicine program. The University of Pittsburgh is one of 73 universities across the country with this curriculum.

Academic Support Services

In the 1970s, when the University of Pittsburgh committed itself to regaining its position as one of America's leading collegiate programs, the University also made a commitment of perhaps even greater significance -- to excel in the education of its student athletes. From this commitment came the Support Service for Student Athletes, established in 1976. This office had one major mission: furthering the academic goals of the men and women who make up Pitt's varsity athletic teams. In the 1990s, as Pitt football once again reaches for the top, the University has rededicated itself to its original commitment to see that its athletes get a quality and meaningful education. New offices, equipment and additional personnel are evidence that Pitt is continuing its tradition of placing academics at the top of its priorities for its athletes.

Since its beginning, the Support Service for Student Athletes office has offered several important services to Pitt's athletic community. Contact between the Office and the student athlete begins early, at University orientation, where Support Service personnel administer tests and assist in class scheduling. Learning skills and study habits are strengthened throughout the freshman year, through regular meetings with the office staff and organized study sessions. Tutors are provided for those who request them, and assigned to those the staff feels may need additional help. Class performance and attendance is monitored throughout the term. Academic and career counseling, as well as personal counseling, are all important parts of the program. The goal of the office is to build long-term skills to enable the athlete to be an independent and successful student, skills which will be carried on long after an athletic career has ended.

Since 1987, Support Services has been located in the remodeled 5th floor of Pitt Stadium. The office, which as an academic unit reports to the Provost, was originally housed in the William Pitt Union. But as more athletes took advantage of the unit's services and the staff grew in number, more space was needed. The facilities in the stadium include a computer/learning lab, several areas for individual tutoring and study, as well as offices for the staff.

In 1992, the Academic Support Services for Student Athletes opened another facility in Bellefield Hall on lower campus. This facility houses a math lab, a writing lab, and computer lab, which provides students with access to the same services as the stadium facility. Plans have been formalized and renovations are under way for the completion of a larger complex in the stadium as part of the eight-phase renovation program for Pitt's athletic complex. Additionally, renovations to Fitzgerald Field House include plans for a study lab and mini-computer lab, which would give student athletes access to services at three different locations on campus. Each of Pitt's Academic Support Services facilities reflect the commitment the University makes to insuring a quality and comprehensive academic experience for its student athletes.

The staff of the Support Service office is currently made up of seven full-time members, a graduate assistant, and numerous part-time tutors. Since early 1991, the office has been directed by Dr. Ron Brown. Dr. Brown came to Pitt from Oklahoma State, where he headed that University's academic efforts to help athletes. He is assisted by Jan McMannis, Dave Pistolesi, Ivory Moore, Michael Farabaugh, Shandel Gilbert and Pam Smith.

Golden Panthers

Pitt Golden Panthers: Supporting Academic and Athletic Excellence

The Pitt Golden Panthers organization, founded in 1970, has a two-fold purpose: first, to provide financial aid for deserving and qualified student athletes, and secondly, to improve the quality of athletics at the University of Pittsburgh.

The Pitt Golden Panthers is the only official athletic fundraising organization recognized by the University of Pittsburgh. Funds raised in any other respect could jeopardize the purpose for which the organization was established.

The foremost goal of the Pitt Golden Panthers is to provide a base of professional fundraising services, athletic communications and other assistance through which alumni, students, friends, corporations, parents, faculty, staff, and others may enhance the development of Pitt athletics.

The Pitt Golden Panthers organization operates with the approval of the administration of the University and are subject to the regulations of the University of Pittsburgh, the Big East Conference and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Intercollegiate athletics today depend on support from the private sector more than ever before. To expand the tradition-rich Pitt athletic program, the Pitt Golden Panthers must expand its membership base and increase its funding for athletic scholarships so that the entire annual scholarship expense is totally underwritten by private funding.

Additionally, the Pitt Golden Panthers are striving to provide its membership with the opportunity to share in programs of distinction for endowments and capital improvements that will create better facilities and provide state-of-the-art equipment and a way to a more fulfilled education for Pitt student athletes well into the 21st century.

All members of the Pitt Golden Panthers receive a variety of benefits to recognize their contributions. These benefits include football and basketball ticket purchase priority, Golden Panther mailings, invitations to numerous meetings, outings and trips, and a complimentary subscription for the Panther Sports Journal. Donors also receive credit in the University of Pittsburgh's Annual Giving Fund and its various giving groups.

Everyone is invited to join the growing family of supporters, who play an active role in the education of the more than 400 male and female student athletes, who represent the University of Pittsburgh so well in the classrooms and on the playing fields.

Department of Bands

O'Neill Sanford
Director of Bands

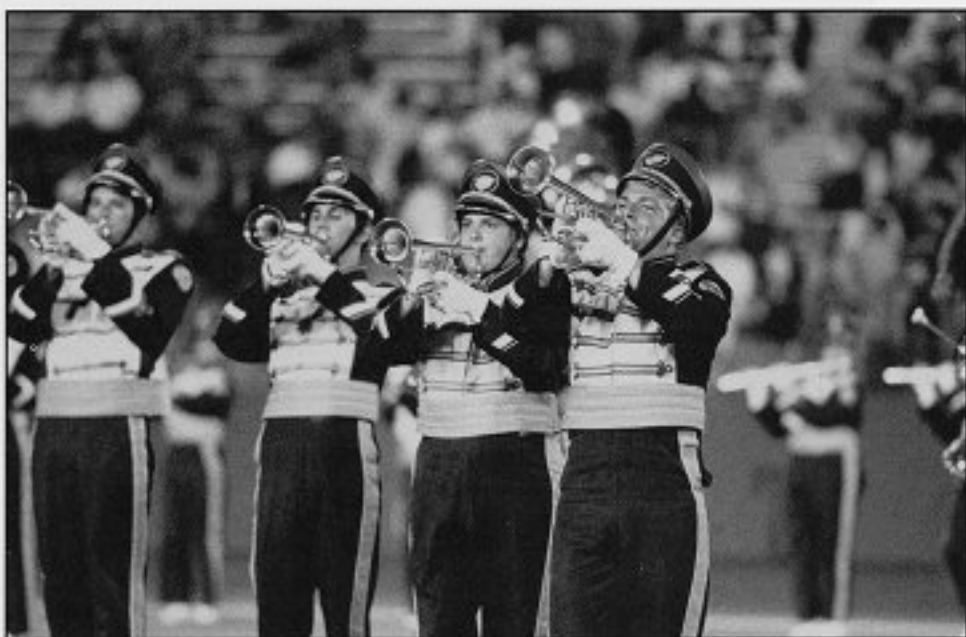

O'Neill Sanford has been Director of Bands at the University of Pittsburgh since 1985. Since becoming a music educator in 1965, he has held the following positions: Director of Bands, Sevier High School, Ferriday, Louisiana (1965-66); Marching Band Arranger and Trombone Instructor, Mississippi Valley State University (1966-71); Director of Bands, Mississippi State University (1972-73); Director of Bands, Virginia State University, Petersburg, Virginia (1973-76); Symphonic and Marching Band Director, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota (1976-85).

Professional achievements and experiences include the following: Winner of the $10,000.00 first place award at the 1973 Braniff International Band Contest; Adjudicator of band festivals throughout the United States, Mexico, Spain, England, and Greece; Command Performance for the President of Mexico; Guest Conductor of the Youth All-America band throughout Spain, England, and Greece; Guest Conductor and Clinician for Regional and All-State Bands throughout the United States; Performance tours of Canada, Mexico, England, and southern Spain with the University of Minnesota Marching Band.

Sanford's works include a multitude of arrangements and compositions for marching band and jazz ensembles performed by high schools and colleges throughout the United States. In addition, he has written pieces for special occasions, notably the "Bicentennial Fanfare" which was composed for the Pitt Bicentennial celebration. In 1989, he added to the University of Pittsburgh's repertoire of school songs with "Pitt Is It!"

His work for orchestra and choir, "Lift Every Voice," was commissioned by the St. Paul Civic Orchestra. Recently, the United States Navy Band honored Sanford by performing his 1991 composition, "The President's March." This past April, the Pitt Symphonic Band performed at the prestigious Pennsylvania Music Educators Conference in Philadelphia.

When O'Neill Sanford took over as Pitt's band director in 1985, there were 90 musicians--in the entire band. "It was definitely a problem," Sanford says,

"especially for a stadium as big as ours."

Sanford went out and remedied the situation.

Over the past couple of years the band has steadily grown from about 140 members in 1987 to over 200 last year. This growth is a positive indication about the direction in which the band is heading.

The improvement in the band is obvious not only on the football field and at Fitzgerald Field House for basketball games, but at various other University and community events with the concert band.

The music the band performs is as diverse as its individuals, from marches to classical, from contemporary to Broadway. Both Sanford and associate director David Moy want to make certain that there is a song for everyone.

"We try to do a variety of music throughout the season," Sanford said, "in hopes that we can touch all our fans at some time or another."

David Moy
Associate
Director of Bands

David Moy is in his 10th year as the Associate Director of Bands, coming to Pitt from the University of Minnesota with O'Neill Sanford. He was the assistant marching band director there for five years.

Moy's responsibilities at Pitt include the percussion section, writing drill maneuvers, and administration.

Pitt Cheerleaders

The 1994 University of Pittsburgh cheerleading squad is entertaining, talented, and a motivating factor at Pitt football games. It is a colorful addition to the wide range of festivities surrounding a college football game.

The Pitt cheerleaders are one of the largest squads in the country, as well as one of the most successful. This past April, the women's squad brought its streak of national championships to three by claiming the Universal Cheerleaders Association College Cheerleading Championship title. In 1991 and 1992, the cheerleaders won the National Collegiate Cheerleading Championships, finishing first out of approximately 20 teams in the All-Girl Division at the event. Prior to 1992, Pitt's best showing had been a sixth-place finish in 1990.

In addition to their performances at Panther football games and other Pitt varsity sporting events, the cheerleaders are active at various Golden Panther and charitable functions in and around the Pittsburgh community.

The Pitt cheerleaders have been coached for the past 11 years by Theresa and Michael Nuzzo, who were Pitt cheerleaders themselves. The Nuzzos are founders and owners of the Elite Cheerleading Organization, the largest personalized cheerleading instruction company in the United States. The organization annually instructs more than 25,000 cheerleaders in approximately 40 states.

The Panther

The Panther (Felis concolor) was adopted as the University of Pittsburgh's mascot at a meeting of students and alumni in the autumn of 1909. According to George M. P. Baird, '09, who made the suggestion, it was chosen for the following reasons: (1) the Panther was the most formidable creature once indigenous to the Pittsburgh region; (2) it had ancient, heraldic standing as a noble animal; (3) the happy accident of alliteration; (4) the close approximation of its hue to the old gold of the University's colors (old gold and blue), hence its easy adaptability in decoration; and (5) the fact that no other college or university then employed it as a symbol.

The Big East Football Conference

The BIG EAST Football Conference, since its inception, has been a prominent player in the world of college football. The BIG EAST was a charter member of the unique "Bowl Coalition" and established its own regional television package before it played a game.

The BIG EAST became a part of the Bowl Coalition, which includes the Atlantic Coast Conference and Notre Dame along with the Cotton, Sugar, Orange and Fiesta Bowls. That agreement began in the 1992 season. When additional bowls were added to the coalition, it guaranteed a prestigious bowl berth for a second BIG EAST team. The additional Coalition bowls for the '94 season are the Gator Bowl and the John Hancock Bowl.

In the spring of '93 the BIG EAST secured a two-year agreement with the Carquest Bowl to assure a bowl bid for a third conference team.

From the beginning, the BIG EAST has received significant television exposure. In addition to numerous appearances on ABC and ESPN, the BIG EAST Football Television Network produces a Game of the Week which is telecast throughout the East and Florida. The BIG EAST Football Television Network is the nation's largest regional college football network. It reaches nearly one-third of the nation's homes.

And the television exposure will increase. The BIG EAST has entered into multi-year agreements with CBS and ESPN. Those contracts begin in 1996. CBS will televise up to 12 BIG EAST contests each year. ESPN will carry 12 games per season.

Some of the same elements that were in place when The BIG EAST Conference was born in 1979 are present in BIG EAST football. The BIG EAST Football Conference alignment includes four schools that are full members of The BIG EAST Conference. They are: Boston College, University of Miami, University of Pittsburgh and Syracuse University. They are joined by: Rutgers University, Temple University, Virginia Tech and West Virginia. In 1995, Rutgers and West Virginia will become full members of The BIG EAST Conference.

BIG EAST football teams have enjoyed much success, especially in recent years. Miami has won national titles in '83, '87, '89 and '91. The Hurricanes have played on New Year's Day every year since 1984. West Virginia was in the hunt for the national crown in its two recent New Year's appearances in '89 and '94. Syracuse has played in bowl games in six of the past seven seasons. Boston College's last two seasons have ended with New Year's Day invitations.

Michael A. Tranghese, Commissioner

The BIG EAST Football Conference's quick ascent to prominence in the world of college football is a direct result of the work of Mike Tranghese. While 1993 marked the first year of true conference competition on the field, the BIG EAST has been a leader off the field since the league was announced on February 5, 1991.

Tranghese orchestrated the formation of BIG EAST football and immediately went to work, making the BIG EAST part of the unique "Bowl Coalition" which guarantees prestigious bowl appearances for two BIG EAST teams. That agreement began in the 1992 season.

In the spring of 1993, Tranghese secured a two-year agreement with the Carquest Bowl which will assure a bowl bid for a third BIG EAST team.

From the beginning, television exposure has been a major factor in the awareness of BIG EAST football. The BIG EAST Television Network telecasts a Game of the Week throughout the East and Florida. It is the nation's largest regional college football network.

Tranghese, 50, became Commissioner of The BIG EAST Conference on June 21, 1990 and promptly was faced with an unprecedented membership realignment among some major collegiate conferences. He responded by coordinating an expansion which included the University of Miami becoming a full member of the BIG EAST and being a key addition to the new and unique BIG EAST Football Conference. The football group includes four members, Rutgers University, Temple University, Virginia Tech and West Virginia University, joining Miami, Boston College, Pittsburgh and Syracuse. Rutgers and West Virginia will become full members of The BIG EAST Conference in 1995-96.

BIG EAST athletic directors were unanimous in their decision to choose Tranghese as Commissioner after his 11 years of impressive service to the league, the last nine as associate commissioner, under Dave Gavitt. Tranghese was the BIG EAST's first full time employee in 1979.

Tranghese has lived up to his promise of keeping the BIG EAST an aggressive consortium while adhering to the principles which have marked the league's explosive rise to prominence: a cohesive structure, a "dare to be different" administrative approach, a staunch commitment to excellence in performance and a continuing emphasis upon academic integrity.

Tranghese's career has flourished over the last two decades, coinciding with the focus upon Eastern college basketball and proliferation of sports events on television. His first athletic department position was at American International College in Springfield, Mass.

As Gavitt's sports information director at Providence College, he publicized the immensely successful Friar teams of the seventies. Upon moving to The BIG EAST in 1979 as assistant commissioner for public relations and marketing, he engineered the tremendous campaigns in radio and television which made the league — and its marquee coaches and players — household names.

Under his direction, the BIG EAST championship slate expanded from seven men's championships in 1979 to 18 men's and women's events in 1989 and 19 in 1993.

Tranghese, who is single, is a 1965 graduate of St. Michael's College in Winooski, Vt.

THE BIG EAST FOOTBALL CONFERENCE TELEVISION NETWORK

The BIG EAST Football Conference is the only conference in the country that is its own television distributor. Created before BIG EAST football made its debut in 1991, The BIG EAST Television Network already is the nation's largest regional network for college football. The network reaches almost one-third of the nation's homes, primarily from Maine to Virginia and Florida.

The BIG EAST Football Television Network will produce a 10-week package that will begin at noon, Eastern Time.

BIG EAST AND THE BOWL COALITION

The BIG EAST Football Conference is a partner in the unique agreement called the "Bowl Coalition" which is a pact designed to enhance the bowl matchups and increase the chances for determining a national champion. The agreement began in the 1992 season.

The bowl coalition includes The BIG EAST Football Conference, the Atlantic Coast Conference, the University of Notre Dame and six bowls: the Federal Express Orange Bowl, the Mobil Cotton Bowl, the USF&G Sugar Bowl, the IBM Fiesta Bowl, the Outback Steakhouse Gator Bowl, and the John Hancock Bowl.

The bowl coalition guarantees the BIG EAST champion and the ACC champion a spot in the Orange, Sugar, or Cotton Bowls. It also assures a bowl bid for a second team from the BIG EAST, ACC, Big Eight, PAC 10 and Southwest Conferences.

Here is how the coalition works.

The current commitments of the conference champions from the Big Eight to the Orange Bowl, Southeastern to the Sugar Bowl and Southwestern to the Cotton Bowl remain intact. In addition to the BIG EAST and ACC champions and Notre Dame, two additional berths must be filled in the Orange, Sugar, Cotton and Fiesta Bowls.

These spots will be filled from a pool of "at-large" teams which will include the next best team (as selected by the Orange, Sugar, Cotton and Fiesta Bowls) from the BIG EAST, ACC, Big Eight, PAC-10 (whose champion is committed to the Rose Bowl) and Southwest Conferences.

The three "at-large" teams not selected by the Orange, Sugar, Cotton and Fiesta Bowls will be available for selection to the Gator and John Hancock Bowls. The Gator Bowl will make the first selection. Then, the John Hancock Bowl will make two selections.

The team selection date for all the bowls involved in the coalition will be following the SEC championship game in December.

The selection process is as follows:

1. Whenever the BIG EAST and ACC champion and Notre Dame occupy the number one and two rankings in the final combined regular season AP and USA Today/CNN Polls, they must play a national championship game in the Fiesta Bowl.

2. Whenever the number one or two team in the combined final regular season AP and USA Today/CNN Polls come from among the BIG EAST champion, the ACC champion or Notre Dame, and the host conference from among the Sugar, Cotton or Orange Bowl, is ranked number one or two, these teams must play one another in the bowl of the host conference champion.

3. Barring the above circumstances, the Orange, Sugar, and Cotton Bowls will select first in order of the final combined rankings of their respective host conference champions. Following that selection, the Fiesta Bowl will have two selections from the remaining pool of five teams.

4. Once these selections have been completed, the remaining three "at-large" teams will be available to the Gator and John Hancock Bowls. The Gator will select one team followed by two selections from the John Hancock.

5. The BIG EAST and ACC champions and Notre Dame have the right to pass on a selection by the Orange, Sugar, Cotton and Fiesta Bowls for a higher payout, to avoid a rematch of a regular-season game or to avoid playing in a particular bowl game for a third consecutive year. However, if two of these three teams are ranked first and second in the combined polls, they must play in the Fiesta Bowl.

6. A team may pass on a selection to the Gator or John Hancock Bowl only to avoid a rematch of a regular-season game or to avoid playing in a particular bowl game for the third consecutive year.

The Varsity Walk

Director of Athletics Oval Jaynes, top, with the 1994 Senior Award recipients. From front to back: Jennifer Burns, Jonna Huemrich, Ann Marie Lucanie, Doug Whaley, and Genaro Severino.

On the University of Pittsburgh campus, between the Cathedral of Learning and Heinz Chapel, is a sidewalk known as the Varsity Walk. There, embedded in the stones, are the names of former Pitt athletes who have promoted the University through their athletic or academic achievements.

The Varsity Walk was conceived in 1950 as a way to honor athletes and remember their contributions to the University of Pittsburgh. New members are added each year. The distinctive hand-carved stones were first presented as the Athletic Committee Award and the Charles C. Hartwig Award. The Athletic Committee recognized the best athlete from any sport. The Charles Hartwig Award was given to the senior athlete who promoted and sponsored the best interests of Pitt athletics, in honor of the 1934 All-America tight end.

In 1971 the awards were changed to the Panther and Blue-Gold awards, respectively.

The Panther Award is presented to the graduating senior athlete who has promoted Pitt athletics through his/her outstanding athletic achievement. The Blue-Gold Award is given to the seniors who represents the student-athlete ideal based on academic scholarship, athletic achievement, leadership qualities and citizenship.

The awards were expanded to include females in 1975.
